M'CUMBER WARNS OF DEFICIT AHEAD OF $1,200,000,000

May Reach $2,000,000,000 by July, He Tells the Senate, Urging Unsparing Economy.

NOTHING FOR NEW PROJECTS

He Cannot See Any Relief for Farmers Except by Barring Foreign Imports.

APPEALS TO TAXPAYERS

They Must Consider Country's Dire Needs—Senate Votes Today on Finance Board.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Warning that all Government appropriations must be cut to the bone and that all new projects must be abandoned, was given on the Senate floor today by Senator McCumber of North Dakota, Acting Chairman of the Committee on Finance. Senator McCumber figured that a deficit of more than $1,200,000,000 confronted the Treasury, and that by June 30, 1921, this deficit would have increased to more than $2,000,000,000. Senator McCumber said that it was due the country that the Senate committee should frankly put before the people a true picture of the financial situation.

Senator McCumber made his speech prior to a general discussion on the resolution from the Committee on Agriculture to revive the War Finance Corporation as a means of giving an export market for farm products of the country.

McCumber said that the farm situation as it appeared to him demanded the closing of "the intake pipe" so "as to give the American farmer exclusively the American market, so long as he can supply that market at living prices.

"There are two features of the general situation," said the Senator, "where the demand is for immediate relief. First of these and most important, is our agricultural collapse; the second, the heavy inventory losses, due to rapidly falling prices, for which relief is sought by (a) postponing the Dec. 15 instalment of the tax on 1919 profits, and incomes, and (b) by allowing the inventory losses of 1920 to be offset against the profits of 1919, and, to that extent, reducing the amount of the 1920 instalment.

Paints a Gloomy Picture.

"While no one can speak for the final action of the Finance Committee of the Senate or House on these proposals, it is urgent that the taxpayers directly interested and the country at large be informed at the earliest possible moment of the present financial situation of the country, to the end that they may exercise their own judgment as to the possibility of securing the relief demanded. This is especially true as to the demand for the postponement of the last instalment of taxes falling due Dec. 15.

"I wish, therefore, to present a general statement of the condition of the National Treasury, its immediate obligations and its cash assets to meet them.

"The total amount in the Treasury on Dec. 6 was $160,018,235, and the Dec. 15 tax instalment, it is estimated, will yield $650,000,000, the total being $810,018,235. We turn now to our immediate liabilities, and we find that the outstanding certificates maturing Dec. 15 total $700,000,000. Those maturing Jan. 3-15 next total $300,000,000, while those maturing Dec. 15, also this present year, add another $140,000,000, making the total amount of certificates immediately maturing $1,140,000,000.

"Thus, if every dollar of the Dec. 15 instalment is paid in full and the last cent in the Treasury, excluding the comparatively small amount that will be secured from general internal revenue sources, and which will be far more than offset by the amount paid out for general governmental expenses, there would still be left by Jan. 15 past due obligations of $329,981,765. But even that deficit is based on the assumption that the Treasury is milked dry, is left bankrupt. In making his calculations and estimates the Secretary of the Treasury places as the minimum safety cash balance $250,000,000, and therefore to keep the Treasury on a safe basis we must add this sum, which brings the deficit or amount which must be raised in some way to $579,981,765.

"But even this gigantic deficit, which requires immediate liquidation, does not disclose the full truth. There must be added to this whatever sum is necessary to make good deficits growing out of governmental operation of railroads, estimated by the President in his annual message at $650,000,000, which brings the total deficit immediately confronting us to $1,229,981,765. This is the situation, and it is the deficit that meets our immediate gaze. But it is not the end of our difficulties."

Outlook for the Future.

Senator McCumber then referred to the report of Secretary Houston, which estimated a deficit on June 30, 1921, of $2,000,000,000, and a deficit on June 30, 1922, of $1,500,000,000.

"Estimated receipts," continued Senator McCumber, "and disbursements for the year ending June 30, 1921, do not include deficits which must be taken care of during the coming year. The President estimated it for the railroads at $650,000,000. As nearly as I can learn, this deficit, when all claims are in, will be nearly double that amount, or

HUGHES AND HARDING DISCUSS THE LEAGUE

Ex-Justice Says Two-Hour Conference Dealt With "International Policy."

COL. HARVEY ALSO A GUEST

Allusion to "Changing Conditions" Raises Speculation as to Geneva Developments.

Special to The New York Times.

MARION, Ohio, Dec. 10.—Through a sudden and unexplained change of plans the first of Senator Harding's promised conferences on international relations with the "best minds of the country," originally scheduled to begin next Monday, was held today. Charles Evans Hughes, League-with-reservations advocate, and Colonel George Harvey, editor of Harvey's Weekly and bitter League opponent, consulted with the President-elect.

Secrecy marked the conference. Mr. Hughes, the announcement of whose coming was not released from Senator Harding's office until this morning, arrived from New York at breakfast time. Colonel Harvey's arrival today was a surprise to all, apparently, except the President-elect. He reached Senator Harding's house soon after 10 o'clock this morning, after the Senator and Mr. Hughes had been closeted for two hours. Senator Harding left Marion with his guests at noon for Columbus and luncheon with Harry M. Daugherty and Theodore Burton, former Senator from Ohio, and Representative-elect. Before leaving Marion Mr. Hughes prepared and issued a non-committal statement concerning his visit here.

The most obvious inference to be drawn from today's conferences is that Senator Harding intends keeping his own counsel as to his visitors' recommendations on foreign policies to be followed by the next Administration. One of his campaign pledges was to confer with men and women of all parties prominent in the discussion of the League of Nations issue in the endeavor to formulate a plan for an association of nations agreeable to all factions, to be submitted to the Senate and foreign powers. It is Senator Harding's apparent policy to keep secret the topics of discussion, so that his visitors may talk to him in full freedom and without knowledge of what others with contrasting views have said.

A few moments before the President-elect's departure for Columbus, word came from his office that the Senator and Mr. Hughes would see newspaper correspondents.

"This is all I care to say," Mr. Hughes said, and then read the following statement prepared in his own handwriting:

"We have been talking over the important questions which are pressing for solution in connection with our international policy—questions which must be considered in the light of conditions which are constantly changing. The solution will, of course, be found in harmony with Senator Harding's statements in the course of the campaign. It was most gratifying to have this interview."

Neither Senator Harding nor Mr.

LEAGUE LEAVES EACH NATION FREE ON BLOCKADE HELP

SMALL NATIONS RELUCTANT

Refused to Leave Full Power to Council—Rebuked by Belgian as Shirking.

GENEVA, Dec. 10 (by Telephone to Paris).—The economic blockade, the only weapon of the League of Nations against covenant-breaking States, was very much dulled by a decision of the Assembly today leaving to each country to decide for itself when the blockade should be applied.

This obviously weakens the system, through the chance of dissension among members of the League, it being apparent that the economic blockade of any nation is not workable in an effective manner unless all the surrounding States join. It was, however, the only step left to the Assembly, since many of the smaller nations refused to leave to the Council, controlled by the big powers, the right to say when the blockade should be applied.

Article XVI. of the covenant binds all members of the League to blockade any nation breaking the covenant provisions in making war. The paramount question naturally is, When has a nation violated the covenant?

It was proposed by the big powers to leave it to the Council to notify countries of its decision. The Scandinavian countries, with Holland and Switzerland, led the opposition. Unanimity being required, a change of plan was necessary.

Therefore, the report presented this morning provides that the Council shall hold a meeting on notice from the Secretary General of a probable violation, and shall send the minutes of the meeting to all the members of the League. Then Paragraph C says: "As soon as a member of the League is satisfied in consequence of the communication of the procès-verbal that a breach of the covenant within Article XVI. has occurred, it is its duty to take measures for carrying out Article XVI."

Belgian Rebukes "Shirkers."

The unwillingness of certain Governments to commit themselves to the use of the League weapon brought on a heated debate in the Assembly, in which Delegate La Fontaine said that Belgium had not been afraid to do her duty in 1914 and was disappointed to see so many "shirkers" in the League. He said:

"The opinion of Belgium is that, however grave a peril the blockade system may involve, the small countries, as well as the large ones, should fulfill their duties. That was the way Belgium acted in 1914 and under similar circumstances in the future that is what she would do again. She considers that all countries should adopt the same idea of their obligations. Do your duty whatever the result may be."

This attack was especially forceful as coming from Belgium, because the reason the small countries give for their attitude is that the blockading of some powerful nation might result in their being crushed.

In presenting the report Lord Robert Cecil said that public opinion would in most cases achieve the ends of the League, but that for exceptional cases of international wrongdoing the blockade system had been established. He declared that the covenant was very unsatisfactory in its provisions on this subject, because while making it obligatory upon members to blockade an offending State, it set up no machinery for deciding when a nation was offending. His report called for the establishment of a Blockade Commission to work out a plan for submission to the

Fraud Charged in Seniors' Election at Harvard; New Vote Is Ordered to Be Taken on Monday

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 10.—Failure to make the tally of the votes as announced after the senior elections Wednesday night agree with the total number of ballots cast created a stir here today. For a while charges and countercharges of stuffing ballot boxes and unfair counting were made.

The total of votes for the three Marshals was 965. As each of the 305 students who voted had the privilege of voting for first, second and third Marshal, the total should equal only 915 votes, so that in the originally announced tabulation there were 50 votes more.

The Senior Nominating Committee went over the votes last night and found that there were grave discrepancies in figuring in a number of cases. Dennis O'Connell, the track Captain, who was ranked fourth with 101 votes Wednesday and who failed of election, was found to have 115 votes, enough to give him the position of second Marshal. Robert Sedgwick, the football player, who had 121 votes, enough to elect him second Marshal, droped in the recount to 94, not enough to elect him to any of the Marshalships.

The Nominating Committee were not agreed. One side wanted the election as shown by the recount made valid, the other members declared for a new election and carried the day. The new election will be held on Monday. Several members of the Student Council, including Henry H. Faxon, its President, conferred with President Lowell tonight over the situation.

The Crimson says editorially:

"The course of Harvard's senior elections, becoming of late years increasingly liable to charges of incompetence and corruption, has terminated in complete and utter chaos. Indifference on the part of class officers, carelessness or willful distortion of truth on the part of the poll watchers and count takers, short-sightedness on the part of the Election Committee, all will come in for a share of the blame."

Wilson Negotiating for Home in Washington; Offer Is Made for the Fuller Residence

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—While President and Mrs. Wilson have not definitely chosen the Washington residence in which they will make their future home, they have begun preliminary negotiations to purchase the residence of Representative and Mrs. Alvan T. Fuller of Massachusetts at 2,241 Wyoming Avenue.

Congressman Fuller is in Europe, and an offer for the property has been made to him by cable. A representative of the real estate firm which is handling the transaction was at the White House today. Congressman Fuller has been elected Lieutenant Governor of Massachusetts.

The Fuller house is of brick, four stories high, with a Colonial porch. It contains a large number of rooms and is well suited for entertaining large companies. The house stands in a large lot, detached from other residences.

One block from the Fuller residence and on the same street is the Washington residence of President-elect and Mrs. Harding. Near it is also the house of R. W. Bolling, Mrs. Wilson's brother. Not far away is the residence recently purchased by Mrs. Joseph P. Tumulty, wife of the secretary to the President, where the Tumulty family will make their future home.

MISS TEVIS JILTED JUST BEFORE SUICIDE

MET HIM AT THE PLAZA

Friends Had Tried to Induce the Young Woman to Overcome Her Infatuation.

A friend of Miss Betsy Tevis told yesterday the story of the broken romance which led the 18-year-old Southern girl to kill herself Thursday night in the apartment at 110 West Fifty-fourth Street, which she shared with her sister, Mrs. Joseph T. Talbert, widow of a former Vice President of the National City Bank.

All that the police disclosed after their original investigation of the suicide was that it was due to a love affair with a man with whom Miss Tevis had become infatuated during only ten days' acquaintance. This bare outline was filled out last night by the family friend as follows:

Miss Tevis, who had come to New York to live with her sister some months ago, met the man in question at the Hotel Plaza ten days ago.

The couple were introduced by a mutual friend. The girl was captivated by the manner of the youth of twenty-three who, she was led to believe by his conversation and demeanor, belonged to a family of wealth and social position in a nearby State. The youth, blond and good looking, found a place in the girl's heart almost at once, and within two or three days had become her close companion and suitor.

Then stories became current that the man was not what he had been supposed to be, but was in reality a calculating fortune hunter, that he was posing under an assumed name and that he was using his wiles to ingratiate himself with mercenary intent. It was also said that he had been the central figure in certain unpleasantnesses.

Miss Tevis, however, refused to believe any of the evil things said about the man.

Two of her friends had arranged to call together today on Miss Tevis in a last effort to persuade her to drop the man.

Things had progressed that far on Thursday night when Miss Tevis was called to the telephone and heard the man coldly break off all relations with her. And when Miss Tevis started for her own room, Mrs. Talbert, thinking it would be easier for her to pass the first bitter moments alone, did not follow. A minute later the girl lay dead with a bullet in her heart.

The body of Miss Tevis was taken to an undertaking establishment yesterday. Funeral services will be held today in St. Paul's Chapel in Stuyvesant Square. The body will be placed in a vault and later will be sent to the girl's home in Kentucky.

LIFTS BAN ON JOACHIM.

Hotel Adlon Welcomes Prince Who Led the Anti-Entente Riot.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Dec. 10.—Prince Joachim Albrecht, the ex-Kaiser's cousin, who receive worldwide notoriety as the ringleader in an anti-Entente riot in the Adlon Hotel last year, is back in Berlin. His period of banishment from the capital expired some time ago, and, having brightened his days of exile by courtship and remarriage, he has taken up his residence again at his Wilhelmstrasse palace.

But the Prince has a hankering for the fleshpots of the Adlon restaurant, which, after his March escapade, he was warned to avoid, being told that the waiters would not serve him nor would the kitchen cook for him. So this afternoon he sent his wife, who was the Baroness Nostitsch, a well-known figure in Berlin society, to inquire of Herr Adlon if the Prince would now be readmitted to his favorite restaurant.

As the inquiry was accompanied by an undertaking that he would behave himself, Herr Adlon withdrew the ban. The Prince's promise to behave is in a way a belated confession, for after his March demonstration he always maintained that he was nothing more than a spectator of the riotous scene.

So the Prince and his wife, all smiles, duly appeared for dinner, and he chose his favorite table near the orchestra. But "Deutschland Uber Alles" was not played this time. To mark the occasion the band played one of the Prince's own compositions, a rather pretty slow waltz entitled "Toujours Fidèle," as the newly married couple entered. This was followed by another waltz called "Mietta," of which the Prince is also the composer.

The Prince and Princess were greeted by many friends and acquaintances and before leaving the restaurant expressed their thanks to Herr Adlon for restoring hospitable relations.

HOUSE CUTS TO YEAR BAR ON IMMIGRATION

Bill as Amended Is Expected to Come Nearer Meeting the Senate's Approval.

PASSAGE TODAY IS LIKELY

Representative Knutson Says Some Foreign Governments Are Shipping Radicals to Us.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—By a vote of 87 to 25 the House today amended the Immigration bill to prohibit immigration for one year instead of two years, and adopted a number of minor changes. This was accomplished after a sharp debate, with Representative James R. Mann of Illinois and Representative Joseph Walsh of Massachusetts demanding that the legislation should be enacted for temporary purposes only and not as a permanent barrier against those seeking liberty in the United States.

The attitude of these Republicans influenced the House to accept their views and forecasts the passage of the bill tomorrow without any other important changes. The bill as amended is declared to be more acceptable to the Senate, where long hearings will be held by the Immigration Committee. The disposition in the Senate is favorable to prohibition, but the leaders believe that this should come through a board which would have authority to restrict or prohibit as conditions might justify.

When the House adjourned discussion on an amendment presented by Representative Henry T. Rainey of Illinois was in progress. This exempted from the provisions of the bill immigrants who desired to enter agricultural pursuits.

"This bill," said Mr. Rainey, "is presented largely at the demand of organized labor in order to keep up the present standard of wages. But organized labor refuses to enter the field of farm labor. Unless the farmers can get cheaper labor you will find that they will only be able to till a small part of their farms with their wives and children and produce little more than enough food for themselves. The farmers need help and farm immigrants should not be excluded."

Knutson Fears Horde of Radicals.

Representative Harold Knutson of Minnesota, Republican, who supported the measure, said that "foreign Governments are financing the movement of radicals to the United States." When his statement was challenged he said that this assertion was based upon his observation and inspection of immigrants arriving in New York.

"My parents came to this country as immigrants," said Mr. Knutson, "and in the very nature of things I would be inclined to oppose any proposition looking toward the suspension of immigration to this country for the period of two years, were it not for the fact that I realize the imperative necessity for some legislation along this line.

"Immigrants are coming in now at a rate where we cannot sift them out, and the worst part of it is that the class of people we are receiving now are largely radical in their political opinions. I am willing to stake my reputation as a member of this House that foreign Governments are financing the movement of radicals from several countries in Europe, moving them over here. Before the war immigration from Spain was practically unknown. Two weeks ago, when I visited Ellis Island, I found 2,000 immigrants from that country were received in one day. Spain is a seething mass of anarchy, and the Government is gathering these anarchists up and dumping them on us.

"How long are we going to stand for it? We cannot allow the Governments of Europe to dump their Bolsheviki and Communists on us. We have no place for them. We have more now than we know what to do with. We ought to deport those we have."

Representative Mann occupied the floor at different times, but before amendments were considered he declared his opposition to the general provisions of the bill and served notice that he would demand that the period of exclusion be reduced to at least one year. Amendments offered by Representative Siegel of New York to fix the period of exclusion at six months, and another by Representative Blanton to extend it to twenty-six months, were lost. The House compromised on Mr. Mann's amendment, which fixes the period at fourteen months instead of two years. This is actually one year, as the act does not become effective until sixty days after passage.

Says Irish Would Be Turned Over to British.

"If I understand this bill correctly, it would apply to a case like this," said Mr. Mann. "There exists today in Ireland a very deplorable condition, as every one will admit. What is going to be done there I do not know, but I apprehend that the British Government is likely to adopt more drastic methods

MARBLE DEALERS AIDED BY UNIONS GRIPPED COUNTRY

Employers' Associations Used Labor Organizations as Club to Control Industry.

COST OF HOUSING RAISED

ONE CONTRACTOR RUINED

Boycotted, Unable to Get Labor Because He Underbid Member of Ring.

A sensational story of how two associations of marble contractors, working in conjunction with labor unions, kept the entire marble industry of the country in a tight grip was spread upon the records of the Lockwood committee yesterday at its meeting in the City Hall. In the opinion of the members of the committee the combination exposed yesterday was the strongest and most closely bound of any of the organizations so far bared by the committee.

From the testimony, it appeared that the marble work done under contract was in the hands of the National Association of Marble Dealers and the Marble Industry Employers' Association, the former an organization consisting of contractors at large and up to twenty-five miles of New York City and the latter a local organization. The country was divided so that the national association was not permitted to take work in New York City, but members of the New York association were permitted to take contracts for work outside the city.

The two employers' associations had agreements with local and international unions in the marble trade. The local employers association had an agreement with three local unions, all members of Robert P. Brindell's Building Trades Council. The unions were the Brick Masons, and Plasterers International Union, the White Stone Union and the Compact Labor Club.

The local employers' association also had an agreement with the international unions having jurisdiction over the three local unions. The agreements between the unions and the employers bound the employers to take none but union men, and the unions bound themselves to work for none but members of the employers' associations. The agreement between the two parties was further clinched in New York by separate agreements between the Building Trades Employers' Association, with which the Marble Industry Empolyers' Association of New York is affiliated, and Brindell's Building Trades Council.

Unions Used as Club by Employers.

The unions acted as an enforcement agency for the employers, driving out of business those contractors who were not permitted to become members of the employers' organizations. The machinery by means of which the employers operated was a "Code of Practice." There was a code for the local association, and a similar one for the national association. Members who were found violating the code were fined, suspended or expelled. Expulsion meant that they could no longer continue business, as the work on marble is highly unionized and the expelled members could not get union men.

By means of the Code of Practice extortionate rates for work were fixed to builders by the marble contractors. In some cases, on day's work, prices on labor alone were increased 80 per cent. above the cost to the contractor, thus increasing the cost of the building to the contractor and owner. The prices were passed on to the tenant, being one of the factors in the high cost of housing.

If a builder found all the bids submitted to him too high, he could not reject them and obtain other estimates, but was forced by the agreement among the marble contractors to select one of the original bids. If a general contractor who was about to bid on a job asked bids for marble work so that he might place such a bid in with the bid for the general contract and he obtained the contract he was forced to have the marble work done by one of the marble bidders and could not ask for more bids. Sealed bids had to be filed with the Secretary of the associations. Even though there might be revisions of plans for buildings, the contractor could not choose a marble contractor other than the one who entered a bid for the original work.

Through a "courtesy" provision of the Code of Practice the marble contractor doing work on a building was entitled to any extra work of the same nature that might arise and which was not included in his contract. The builder was not permitted to have another marble man do the extra work.

Gratuities to Union Officials.

William K. Fertig, Secretary Treasurer of the Marble Industry Employers' Association, consisting of thirty-six members, told the committee that the association paid gratuities to high officials of unions amounting to about $5,000. Specific payments totalling $2,600 were read into the records from the minutes of the association. Mr. Fertig said the payments were made to have the officers of the Brick Masons and Plasterers International Union come to New York from Indianapolis in order to "confer" with the employers. There was no basis for computing the expenses of the labor men, but an arbitrary sum was fixed,

Foreign Views Won't Affect Our Navy Plan, Says Daniels

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Decisions of foreign Governments as to their immediate naval programs will not affect the American Navy Department's building program or its recommendations to Congress, Secretary Daniels declared tonight in commenting on the announcement by the British Chancellor of the Exchequer that Great Britain had decided to suspend naval construction until the lessons of the war had been worked out.

"My recommendations to Congress with regard to our naval policy," said Mr. Daniels, "have already been made, and will not be changed unless something unforeseen happens."

The Naval Secretary scouted the idea that the United States was entering into a naval building competition with any nation, and declared that present and recommended building simply looked to the "rounding out" of the navy, supplementing the great building program adopted in 1916.

HUNTS CRIME CLUE IN SCIENCE CHURCH

Prosecutor to Question Members on Charge Made by Former First Reader.

MAY ASK REINSTATEMENT

Restoration of 26 Stirs Hundreds of Others Who Had Been Ousted to Take Action.

An investigation of a criminal complaint made to him by Campbell McCulloch, formerly first reader of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, was begun yesterday by Assistant District Attorney Alexander I. Rorke, who will question six or seven members of that congregation today about the former reader's complaint.

Mr. McCulloch and Mr. Rorke refused yesterday to reveal the charge made by the former or any names mentioned, but it is known that the day before Mr. McCulloch complained at the District Attorney's office his desk had been broken open and important papers stolen. In a statement yesterday Mr. McCulloch said:

"Defamatory statements have been circulated about me and a general campaign of vilification and represensible falsehood carried on. All this is due to the efforts of an organized spy system established in the church and which has for its object the dragooning of any one who may object to the intolerant and autocratic methods of the high officials of the church.

"A tremendous machine of arbitrary power has been built up and any one who falls under its displeasure will be disciplined in a manner that can only be compared to the vicious practices of the Inquisition.

Trouble in the First Church.

"The present trouble in the First Church has been brewing for ten years. It has little or nothing to do with the situation in Boston. My own views as to Mrs. Stetson are well known. I have been unalterably opposed to the policies which resulted in her dismissal from the First Church here and from the mother church in Boston, and I am still opposed to them.

"The attack upon me and others in this city is solely because I have objected to the commercialism of the Church as it is being carried out. The trouble is based upon the fact that the Christian Science Church has become too prosperous, too well fed and too powerful."

Mr. McCulloch says he wishes it understood that none of the things he referred to affect in any way the teachings of Mrs. Eddy. He regards these conditions as the result of a departure from her teachings. He charges that democratic government in the church has been cast aside recklessly and an absolutism set up by the board.

"There is no question that the Christian Science organization is split," concludes Mr. McCulloch, "and the split will continue until the present régime is cleared out of the Church in Boston and the interference with the democratic conduct of the thousands of branch churches throughout the world abandoned by the directors."

Hundreds Seek Reinstatement.

Preparations looking to the reinstatement of hundreds of members of the Christian Science Church, including fifty whose names were dropped from the rolls of the First Church, and others who were dismissed from branches of the Church in other cities, were begun yesterday as a result of the court order on Thursday compelling the reinstatement of twenty-six members of the local congregation.

At the same time G. C. Franciscus, counsel for the Trustees of the First Church, announced that the Trustees would not combat the reinstatement of any dismissed members who were willing to state that they had not violated the Church by-laws by failure to attend services for a year or by other infractions of the regulations.

Ward Stephens, former organist of the church, who says he was dismissed by the Trustees, said yesterday he had engaged Colonel Thomas B. Felder as counsel to represent him in mandamus proceedings to compel the Trustees to produce a copy of charges which he was informed had been preferred against him.

Mr. Stephens asserted that many other members had been "railroaded" out of the congregation in the same way as he.

In a formal statement on behalf of the Christian Science Committee on Publication for the State of New York, 52 Vanderbilt Avenue, Albert F. Gilmore

MARTIAL LAW AND IRISH NEGOTIATIONS IS PREMIER'S POLICY

Lloyd George Offers to Confer with Sinn Feiners Not Guilty of Crimes.

FOUR COUNTIES UNDER ARMY

DEATH FOR CARRYING ARMS

Parish Priests Are Empowered to Receive Uniforms and Weapons From the Civilians.

LONDON, Dec. 10 (Associated Press).—Martial law has been proclaimed by Dublin Castle over the City and County of Cork, the City and County of Limerick and the Counties of Tipperary and Kerry.

In an announcement made to the House of Commons today David Lloyd George, the Prime Minister, declared that it was the intention of the British Government to put down the lawlessness which for months had been prevalent in Ireland.

Dublin City and the County of Dublin, although they have been the scenes of numerous affrays and of much vandalism, were not included in the district which is placed under martial law, but Mr. Lloyd George told the Commons that if conditions should warrant it the interdicted area would be extended.

Under the proclamation persons who without authority possess arms or unauthorized uniforms must surrender them within a certain period or lay themselves liable to trial by court-martial and the death penalty.

The Premier said he was convinced that in all sections of Ireland the majority of the people were anxious for peace, and that the Government likewise was desirous of peace and a fair settlement of the questions at issue.

To this end, the Premier asserted that the Government would treat with Sinn Fein members of Parliament who had not been "involved in the commission of serious crimes." These Sinn Feiners, he added, would be afforded all protection. The Government, however, would not grant safe-conducts to London to such Sinn Fein Members of Parliament as had been involved in the commission of serious crimes.

In expressing the determination of the Government to put down disorder in Ireland, the Premier declared that it had no option but to continue to intensify its campaign against "the small, but highly organized and desperate minority" in Ireland which was "using murder and outrage in order to attain the impossible" and which could bring peace neither to Ireland nor to Great Britain.

Mr. Lloyd George said, in making this eagerly-awaited statement on the Irish situation, that there had been no negotiations between the Government and the Sinn Fein, but that the Government during the past few weeks had been in touch with intermediaries, and this had enabled the Government to reach certain conclusions.

To Publish Names of Moderates.

The "intermediaries" mentioned by the Premier is taken to include the Most Rev. Patrick Joseph Clune, Archbishop of Perth, Australia, with whom Mr. Lloyd George has had interviews recently.

The names of the Sinn Fein members of the Commons whom the Government will meet will be published, and every facility for protection given them, as it was very important, the Premier said, that there should be no suspicion of any breach of faith if a meeting took place. It would be very unfortunate, he remarked, if the members of the "Irish Parliament" met under the impression that they were exempt and then were arrested.

It was difficult, added the Premier, to know to what extent those who came to see the Government could really speak on behalf of men who mattered, but "we must give them every opportunity, because peace is very important."

The Premier said he regretted that "the men who we knew were promoting murder have not given any indications that they are prepared to surrender upon the only terms this country could possibly accept, consistent with self-respect or with the prospect of an enduring peace in Ireland, and the Government is determined to break up these terrorists, who are more or less organized, because otherwise it is not thought possible for Ireland to recover that independence which is essential for peace."

Then, referring to the intention to declare martial law in certain areas, Mr. Lloyd George said:

"What is the position, more particularly in Southwest Ireland? These organized insurgent forces until recently dwelt in something approaching complete immunity. But they were forced to the hils, whence they attacked the police and intimidated their own race. It is necessary that they should be captured or broken up. It is difficult to capture them, as they are dressed either in civilian clothes or in captured British uniforms. It is for this reason we have decided to declare martial law and to mete out to these persons the same treatment as if they were open rebels."

The Premier appealed for the assistance of the parish priests in facilitating the surrender of arms and uniforms, the carrying or wearing of which after a certain date would make persons liable to trial by military court and to the death penalty. Mr. Lloyd George also declared that some penalty would be applied to the unauthorized wearing of British uniforms and to the aiding, abetting or harboring of rebels.

No Peace with "Murderers."

Mr. Lloyd George emphasized the importance of the resolution of the Galway County Council recently, which suggested that the ban on meetings of the "Irish Republican Parliament" should be withdrawn in order that delegates might be appointed to discuss the situation with the Government.

In making the announcement regarding martial law the Premier said the Government had been driven to the conclusion, especially after the last two terrible incidents, that it must take stronger action in certain disturbed areas.

Side by side with the encouragement the Government was anxious to give all those who desired peace—and they were growing in numbers and independence, showing that intimidation was decreasing—the Government was determined, declared the Premier, to do all in its power to break up the terrorists.

The Government was regretfully convinced that the section of the Irish population which controlled "the organization of violence, murder and outrage" was not yet ready for real peace, namely, for a peace which would accept the only basis on which peace could be concluded—acceptance of the unbroken unity of the United Kingdom. The communications of these "controllers of outrage" were all conceived in the spirit of an independent belligerent power, offering peace to another independent belligerent with whom they were at war and to whom they were in a position to dictate, the Premier said. Therefore, the Government had decided on a double policy.

Two or three very important documents had come from Ireland in the last few days, Mr. Lloyd George continued. The most important, he said, was that from the Galway County Council. This was "the first area of dry land which had shown itself after the deluge of unconstitutionality in that country." This, he commented, marked the return on the part of an important body to constitutional methods.

The communication, said the Premier, was a welcome sign of a new spirit in Ireland, it was the duty of the Government to encourage it, because it was an encouraging return to constitutional methods in an area which had been one of the most disturbed and most difficult in Ireland. The resolution was carried, he commented, against the protests of the Sinn Fein leader in that area.

Another communication, Mr. Lloyd George recalled, was that from Father O'Flanagan. The Premier said that while Father O'Flanagan was acting President of the Sinn Fein his communication (in which he asked what first step the Government proposed toward peace) had been repudiated by "the heads of the organization responsible for murder." This must be borne in mind, Mr. Lloyd George said, when one sought the reasons for the Government's two-fold policy.

Although Father O'Flanagan spoke on behalf of at least one section of the Sinn Fein in expressing a desire for peace, the Premier pointed out that his telegram had been repudiated. Therefore the Premier expressed his belief that the organization was not in the same temper as the majority of the Irish people.

The Premier went on to deal more fully with the suggestion in the Galway resolution that the ban on the "Irish Republican Parliament" be withdrawn so that it might appoint delegates to hold discussions of the situation with the Government. The Premier said the Government could not recognize the "Irish Republican Parliament," since to recognize it as a separate body was to recognize that the part of the country it represented constituted a separate department of the United Kingdom.

There were, however, the Premier continued, people who had been elected under the Constitution of this country to the House of Commons, and the Government had decided that these members of the House of Commons, barring those guilty of crimes, should be given safe conduct for a meeting to consider the situation. The Premier read a dispatch which was being sent to Galway to this effect.

Reply to Father O'Flanagan.

A reply in a similar tenor was being sent to Father O'Flanagan, Mr. Lloyd George announced.

Replying to a question, the Premier said it was certainly the Government's intention to proceed with the Home Rule bill.

"I am convinced, and quite regretfully," added Mr. Lloyd George, "that it is essential in order to secure peace in Ireland that you must convince the whole of the people of Ireland that the authority of the law and of the Empire is paramount; that we need to make it paramount, but that, having established that fact, the British House of Commons and the British nation are willing to parley with the people of Ireland with a view to establishing peace, good will and friendship."

The Government's reply to the Galway County Council was as follows:

"I have read your letter, forwarding a copy of the resolutions passed by the Galway County Council and wish to assure your council that the Government welcomes every indiction on the part of representative persons and bodies in Ireland who desire to co-operate in bringing to an end the present unhappy state of lawlessness in Ireland and insure a return to constitutional methods in that country.

"The first necessary preliminary to the establishment of normal conditions is that murder and crimes of violence cease. It is to that end that the efforts of the Irish executive have been directed, and until it has been attained, no progress can be made toward a settlement.

"The Government is prepared to facilitate the meeting for that purpose of persons duly elected to represent constituencies in Ireland."

The Premier read the reply which is to be sent to Father O'Flanagan, stating that the Government did not lag behind any section of the Irish people in the desire for Ireland to enjoy to the full the blessings of peace and prosperity. It said the Government was prepared to offer facilities for a complete discussion of the whole situation by the duly elected representatives of constituencies in any part of Ireland. Then followed a passage relating to safe conducts.

The letter referred to the fundamental conditions which the Government had laid down with regard to which any political peace must conform. In conclusion it said that the Government adhered absolutely to these conditions and would be glad to learn that the party Father O'Flanagan represented was prepared to accept them.

It was remarked as significant that Sir Edward Carson, leader of the Ulsterites, was absent when Mr. Lloyd George made his statement. On the other hand, it was declared that Sir Edward must have been acquainted with the new policy of the Government, and that his absence from the Chamber should not be interpreted as indicating his serious dissent from it.

Talk of Amnesty to Follow.

There is no indication as yet whether the Sinn Fein Members of Parliament will respond to the Government's offer of a safe conduct to discuss the possibility of a settlement of the controversy. The Sinn Fein Members of the Commons from the beginning have resolutely refused to attend a single sitting of the Westminster Parliament, and it is thought they may still refuse to respond to what in the lobbies was characterized today as an offer "with an olive branch in one hand and the bludgeon of martial law in the other."

One question dominating the situation is that of amnesty. According to some reports Archbishop Clune, who has talked recently with the Premier, insisted that in asking that all the rebels lay down their arms the Premier was making an impossible condition. The Bishop intimated that the Sinn Feiners would accept nothing less than complete amnesty.

One of the points brought out in the colloquy which followed the Premier's statement today was that the Government, while it was making no absolute promise, was willing to keep open the door for amnesty, the Premier saying that amnesty was a subject that could be discussed only when peace was restored.

The view tonight among the Liberals is that, should anything come of the negotiations with the Sinn Feiners, the present Home Rule bill cannot be the Government's last word.

PREMIER'S POLICY PLEASES.

Liberals Are Glad That He Still Holds Out Hope of Peace.

LONDON, Dec. 10.—Premier Lloyd George's statement in regard to Ireland has on the whole created a favorable impression. The Independent Liberals are particularly pleased by the indication that the Prime Minister sticks to his purpose of keeping open all avenues of possible conciliation. The Labor Party in the Commons held a meeting after the statement was delivered and came to the conclusion that they would not press for a debate on the situation until their delegation, now in Ireland, had returned and reported.

More importance is attached to the action of the Galway County Council and Mr. Lloyd George's reply to its secretary than to the intervention of Father O'Flanagan, but it is considered that Premier Lloyd George's decision to answer both shows his determination to neglect no opportunity. The fact that the Prime Minister made no reference to Archbishop Clune is held to be of some significance, either as indicative that the Australian prelate had nothing very important to communicate or that it was inadvisable to deal with any outsider in a question which concerns only Great Britain and Ireland, lest an embarrassing precedent should be created.

The proclamation of martial law in certain areas in Ireland only technically alters the existing conditions in the parts of the country affected.

The Daily Chronicle's Parliamentary correspondent writes:

"A ray of light shows through the darkness today. Something has been discovered in the Prime Minister's exploration of avenues that promises to lead to peace. The way is not yet cleared, but there is strong ground for belief that the right trail has been struck.

"Mr. Asquith's reception of Lloyd George's momentous statement in the Commons reflected the views of most members. He thought the House should have time to consider it, and then, if it thought desirable, it should have an opportunity of debating it. Mr. Lloyd George assented, and in doing so insisted that the new policy must not wait for Parliamentary discussion. It would be put in operation immediately. On this point the Prime Minister was emphatic. Statements and questions upon it occupied a crowded hour, and it was remarkable that the Prime Minister accomplished his difficult task so tactfully that there was no sign of dissent from any responsible member [no Irish Nationalist was present]. The Premier's hopefulness of an increasing return to constitutional courses and his uncompromising refusal to parley with the rebels in arms were not questioned by any hostile interruption from any quarter. Endorsement by the House of the new policy of the Government was for the moment complete."

Lloyd George's personal view regarding the policy he outlined in his statement is explained in the Daily Chronicle as follows:

"The policy announced has two sides—to make it easier for the more pacific wing of the Sinn Fein to organize a peace move, and to make it harder for the Sinn Fein's more violent wing to continue organizing murder and intimidation. Until murder ends and intimidation with it, it is clearly impossible, not merely for the moderate Irish elements outside the Sinn Fein to take any effective action, but even for those within the Sinn Fein to do so. It is for this reason that suppression of the murder gangs has always been a condition precedent to any genuine and hopeful attempt at conciliation.

"To help the pacific wing the Premier announced important concessions in substance, though not in form. He will permit the Dail Eireann to resume meetings. To expedite at the same time suppression of the terrorists he is putting the worst area in the Southwest under martial law. It will be noticed that the Premier's last word on the subject was to reaffirm the Government's intention of going on with its Home Rule bill. Not only are the broad lines of the bill intrinsically juster than any alternative yet suggested, but on their basis and without impairing them large scope for conciliation may be found."

DUBLIN, Dec. 10.—Following the publication here today of a paragraph giving the views of Michael Collins, auxiliary police visited the offices of The Irish Independent and searched the premises.

A statement by Collins was standing in type, but this will not now appear.

Judgment was delivered from the King's Bench Division of the Dublin courts today on a habeas corpus motion that Editor Hooper of The Freeman's Journal was being illegally held in Mountjoy Prison, and a writ was issued directing the Governor to produce Hooper in court next Tuesday.

Mrs. Hooper sent a medical specialist to visit her husband in Mountjoy Prison today, but was unable to find him. It is believed by his friends that he has been removed.

Under the Restoration of Order in Ireland act the authorities are empowered to ignore orders from the civil courts, which are temporarily suspended.

LIMERICK, Dec. 10.—The Limerick County Council has adopted a resolution dissociating itself from the Galway County Council's action in asking the British Government for a truce. The Council has recommended that the people of the county adopt the advice of Arthur Griffith, founder of the Sinn Fein, to stand firm.

FRENCH CLERK MADE FORTUNE DURING WAR

From 250 Francs a Month to Owner of Four Houses and a Racing Stable, His Record.

PARIS, Dec. 10.—The life history of a French war profiteer was told this afternoon in the Chamber of Deputies by a former minister who was interpellating the Government on the failure to deal with this species. This man, said the Deputy, was at the beginning of the war an employe of a coal mine company with a salary of 250 francs a month. With borrowed money he began at the outset of the war to speculate on coal prices and by the time the war finished he had realized a fortune which enabled him to keep four houses, three private automobiles and a racing stable.

When profiteer hunting began he was among those whom officers of justice began to inquire about. Prosecution was begun, and the profteer with some of his assistants was arrested. By a curious coincidence his offices and all books and accounts were the same day burned to the ground, and also the same day one of his race horses, which rejoiced in the name Evasion, won a race.

After a few days in prison the profiteer was set at liberty with a caution, which was unnecessary, as, having made his fortune, he was retiring from business, which was no longer profitable.

The Deputy complained that legal action was taken only against small profiteers and the big ones always escaped with a caution.

In reply M. L'Hopiteau, the Minister of Justice, said that over 14,000 speculators and profiteers had been haled into court, and in most cases had been punished with fines and imprisonment. Several Deputies interrupted that all those punished were small shopkeepers and that the big men had escaped, but a vote of confidence that the Government would continue the good work of hunting out the profiteers was carried.

DESCRIBE REPRISALS AT VILLARD HEARING

Former Irish Constables Say They Were Ordered to Take Part in Them.

THEY RESIGNED IN PROTEST

American Visitor to Ireland Says He Saw Soldiers Abuse and Maltreat a Priest.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Three former members of the Royal Irish Constabulary, each of whom said he had resigned as a "protest against British misrule," and later fled Ireland in fear of attack by former comrades, presented today to the commission of the Villard Committee of One Hundred investigating the Irish question accounts of the operations of the British military forces in the Emerald Isle.

Each of the three—John J. Caddan, John Tangnay and Daniel F. Crowley—told of raids in which they said they had been forced to participate as members of the constabulary and of the receipt from British commanders of orders to destroy life and property.

The commission also heard details of the killing of Lord Mayor MacCurtain of Cork from Miss Mary MacSwiney, sister of Terence MacSwiney, successor to Mayor MacCurtain; an eyewitness of a military raid on a small County Clare town from P. J. Guilfoil of Pittsburgh, Pa., and a description of conditions in Ireland in September as seen by Mrs. Thomas Murphy of New York. The commission at the conclusion of today's session adjourned its hearings until next Wednesday.

Tangey, in his story of the British military operations, characterized the "Black and Tans" as "the worst scum of the country," and added:

"There were many clashes between the "Black and Tans" and the Royal Irish Constabulary, for we looked upon them as below us. I finally resigned because there was nothing left for me to do as a policeman but lead the military to their butcheries."

Caddan devoted a large part of his recital to a description of life in the military barracks, declaring that each barrack contained a canteen and that "there is absolutely no limit to the amount which the men can buy."

"As a result," he continued, "the men spend their time in only three ways, the short duty on the streets, in the canteen and in bed. And they don't go out on duty an awful lot, and the canteens are always open."

Caddan related accounts of midnight raids and burnings and declared that he had seen men, women and children dragged from their beds amid showers of bullets to watch their homes burn. He said that quantities of food had been destroyed by the British forces and that regulations had been made effective prohibiting long distance transportation of foodstuffs.

Charges that the British had threatened his life when he protested against the searching out of men on the single charge of being "republicans" were placed before the commission by Crowley.

Crowley said that his commandant had sent orders to the constables stationed at Clogheen to board armored cars and "visit the home of every man who is and has been connected with the Irish movement and turn the machine guns on them all." The commission also was told that a year ago orders for a new system of police training to include the use of bombs and hand grenades were issued.

Mrs. Murphy told the commission that she saw the military "deliberately shoot a five-year-old-girl who was out after curfew hours." She also gave an account of how "Black and Tans" held her up to search for arms and in doing so tore the clothing from her two-year-old child held in her arms.

Conditions in Ireland at present were described by Mrs. Murphy as serious because of a shortage of food. She described the bread as "uneatable" and declared that for nearly eight months she had been unable to get milk for her baby.

Telling of a raid on a town in County Clare, where he was visiting, Mr. Guilfoil said that after two police officers had been killed half a hundred of the military descended upon the town and burned and pillaged it.

"I stood in front of the house of my sister-in-law," he continued, "and saw two officers and six soldiers attempt to force a priest to confess to the murder of the two police. They beat him with gun butts and then kicked him brutally. They cursed him and accused him of all kinds of crimes, but the priest maintained his innocence."

The military officers also visited him, the witness said, and threatened violence until he displayed his American passport. The raid hastened his return home, he said.

PROTESTS ON PASSPORTS.

One of Villard Group Advises British Labor Party.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—James H. Maurer, President of the Pennsylvania State Federation of Labor, and a member of the special committee which the Villard Committee of One Hundred had planned to send to Great Britain to study the Irish question, sent a cablegram today to William P. Adamson, Chairman of the Labor Party in the British House of Commons, protesting against the action of the British Government in refusing to visé the passports of the members of the committee.

Mr. Maurer said he wished to enter through Mr. Adamson, as the head of the British Labor Party, "a protest to the English people against this autocratic action of the British Government in suppressing truth and free speech from the liberty-loving people of two democracies, and to ask if such action aimed at unprejudiced Americans seeking only to serve the ends of international understanding and world peace has the sanction of the British Labor Party."

SOVIET STORY DISPROVED.

Report of British Seizure of Italian Ship Is Run Down.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Dec. 10.—Some curiosity has been aroused here by the resurgence in the United States of the story that the British held up an Italian steamship at Trebizond and seized arms aboard her. The only source for the report known here is a Moscow wireless, and vigorous efforts by the Government to verify it have only resulted in denials.

The Government asked the Italian Foreign Office and the British commander at Constantinople if they knew about it. The Admiralty was also instructed to make investigations, but no one had heard of the alleged incident. Finally, the Captain of the ship, the Ancona, himself was reached, and he denied that his ship had been stopped or searched by the British or had her course diverted.

£1,000,000,000 FOR WHEAT.

British Government Made £1,000,000 in Its Three Years' Transactions

LONDON, Dec. 9 (Canadian Press).—Wheat is still being bought by the British Government, but its purchase will be suspended as soon as the interests of the people warrant such a step, according to an announcement made in the House of Commons today. The Food Minister's transactions during the last three years have amounted to £1,000,000,000, and it is estimated that a profit of one-tenth of 1 per cent. has been realized.

DROP FIGHT ON ORDER OF ALLIED PREMIERS

Small Nations Agree That Armenia's Turn to Bolshevism Bars Her From League.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Dec. 10 (by Telephone to Paris).—The small nations which yesterday intended to make an issue of the change of opinion by Commission No. 5 about the admission of Armenia at the instruction of the allied Premiers will not raise the question. As Armenia has gone Bolshevist, its admission to the League would be a de facto recognition of the Bolshevist régime. That, on one in Geneva wants.

The whole history of this question has been curious, for it shows how even in the few weeks the Assembly has been sitting events have changed their aspect and the League got away behind in news of what was happening in the outside world. The minutes of Commission No. 5 show that the sub-commission, at the head of which is Dr. Nansen, reported for admission. It was Viviani who, in turn, before the whole commission moved for a definite vote. In doing so he used the following words:

"Armenia figures among the signatories of the Turkish Treaty. It is therefore recognized, and about that there cannot be any question."

At that time no news had reached any of the delegates of the Swiss newspapers of the turn of events in the Near East and every one believed that Armenia was still gallantly resisting Mustapha Kemal. Delegate Fisher of England, however, who had perhaps some warning, moved that the matter be postponed until the next meeting, and this was done.

Before the next meeting the allied Premiers had acted. Their decision was not, however, communicated to the delegations until after it had appeared in the newspapers, and Viviani was made to appear in a somewhat foolish position, his Government having changed its policy and not acquainting him with the fact. Had it not been for his advocacy Armenia would not have had a chance of admission.

The publication in last night's Paris Temps of a semi-official note explaining the change of policy has somewhat quieted his resentment against being treated as a little functionary by a Premier whom he may shortly replace, and tonight he explained how it was quite natural and inevitable that the Governments should have changed their policy in view of events. The publication in the newspapers before the change was communicated to the delegation is laid to some scribe's error and everything is now harmony.

Instead of leaving at once for Paris, Viviani has postponed his departure until tomorrow. Even the little nations have felt the force of the position, and though continuing to resent any instructions from the allied Premiers they admit that a change of policy is well justified.

BERLIN WON'T AGREE TO STOP ATTACKS

Also Declines to Disband Organizations—Wants More Time on Arms Surrender.

BERLIN, Dec. 10.—The German Government, replying to the joint note of the Entente representatives, which was adhered to by the American representative in Berlin, concerning speeches made by Government officials in the Rhineland which were considered as calculated to cause trouble by bringing the execution of the Versailles Treaty into question, says it cannot admit that the visits of Chancellor Fehrenbach and Foreign Minister Simons to the Rhineland caused any unrest among the population.

It adds that the German Government must reserve to itself the right to decide whether and when it may consider it to be necessary for an Imperial Minister to acquaint himself at first-hand with conditions in occupied territory and get in touch with the innabitants there.

Regarding the contents of speeches to be made there, the note says it can give the British, French, and Belgian Governments no binding assurances whatever.

Germany has never recognized any obligations to disband defense organizations which have no military character, says a note presented by the Government to General Nollet, President of the Interallied Military Control Commission here. These organizations, the note points out, are but temporary and are necessary.

The surrender of weapons throughout Germany is almost complete, the note says, with the exception of Bavaria and East Prussia, where the people are under the influence of the radical régime of 1919, and a prolongation of the period for the turning over of firearms in these districts cannot be avoided until conditions are changed, it is asserted.

JONES DEFENDS SHIP LEGISLATION

Senator Says Law Is Basis for New Merchant Fleet—Coudert Condemns Act.

Senator W. L. Jones, who aided in the drafting of the Merchant Marine act of 1920, yesterday told the Academy of Political Science at the Hotel Astor that the law was a broad foundation for a new fleet upon the seas. Frederic R. Coudert condemned the law as a last-minute piece of legislation that would cause the adoption of a plan long ago abandoned by European countries.

"I know the spirit of those who wrote the bill," said Senator Jones. "Partisanship had no place in its consideration. We acted as Americans and not as partisans. Every word, every line, every paragraph and every section was written solely in the interest of the United States. We seek to assure our people equal treatment, square dealing and a fair chance in the world's carrying business. With this they can hold their own with any ships.

"There may be provisions in the act that ought not to be there. Experience will show them and they will be removed. There are many things that should be added and I hope this will be done. Destructive criticism alone will encourage and aid our competitors. Constructive criticism will help us."

Mr. Coudert discussed Government aid to shipping. He said:

"Today we can build ships in the United States practically as cheap as they can be built in Great Britain, and labor costs and operations are nearer equal than they have ever been before. It is true that American ships, especially the smaller vessels, carry larger crews and wages are somewhat higher, but labor cost is a very small factor in ship operation.

"From the standpoint of practical politics it is more than doubtful whether the American public would burden itself by direct taxation for the maintenance of this merchant marine as a heavily losing investment. Government ownership, as Senator Jones well says, is even less to be thought of than Government ownership and operation of railroads.

Other speakers pointed out that the high cost of operation of American ships militated against them.

CONSTANTINE SENDS AMERICA A MESSAGE

Assures Us of Friendship and Hopes for Our Support as an Elected King.

DEFENDS HIS WAR POLICY

He Was the Victim, He Says, of "Calumnious Reports" While Loyal to the Entente.

LUCERNE, Dc. 10 (Associated Press)—Ex-King Constantine of Greece, in an open message to the American people today, says he feels like the President of the United States, inasmuch as he has been elected to rule over Greece by popular vote. He reiterates his expression of good will toward the Entente and the United States and thanks the American people fo rthe sympathy and impartiality shown him.

"In returning to my country and reascending the Greek throne," Constantine says, "which I was forced by the Entente and the intrigues of a political party to abandon for three long and trying years, I feel more than ever as the President of the United States must feel. I, too, have been elected by vote of the people to the high office I am about to fill and which I formerly occupied by the single constitutional right of heredity.

"In this most solemn moment of my life I am duly conscious of the heavy responsibilities I assume. I feel in duty bound to express to the great American people my most heartfelt thanks for the sympathy I received from them in my trials. I thank them also for the impartiality they certainly have endeavored to show in judging me and in criticising my attitude during the most disastrous war ever known in the history of mankind.

"I, upon whose family crest stands the device, 'The law of the people is my power,' ever have had at heart the interest of the people by whom I am now called, by their express and indisputable will, to rule.

"Mindful of the great upheaval the war was going to cause, I endeavored to follow a line of action which I considered would serve the best interests of my people, and I feel I did it with enmity toward none and good-will toward all. The combination of circumstances all tended to make credible the calumnious reports that an alert and indefatigable statesman, who, unluckily, out of spite for me had been blinded to all the dictates of reason, had caused to be spread sedulously abroad.

"In order to create this false impression, a misinterpretation, well calculated to alienate from me the good-will of the Entente, was most steadily placed upon my every act, word or thought. By this an estrangement was brought about between me and the Entente Powers, to which I myself, as well as my people, had always looked as our best and natural friends.

"I solemnly declare to the American people that neither the policy I followed in the past nor the action of my people in unanimously calling me to my throne was actuated by any intention to show hostility toward the Allies.

"More than any one else I realize that the interests of Greece and those of the Allies and America have ever been and are now identical. I personally am anxious to show it by all the means I possess and am only too willing to clear up the misunderstanding of which I have until now been the victim.

"I sincerely hope and believe I will get the hearty support of the American people, whose wonderful qualities I admire and whose sincerity, openmindedness and impartiality I unreservedly rely upon."

Ex-King Puzzled by Delays.

LUCERNE, Dec. 10.—"All packed up and nowhere to go" continues to represent the situation of Constantine and his companions in exile. Since the Greek Premier Rhallis telegraphed the result of the plebiscite not a word has been received from Athens, despite the fact that Professor Streit, Constantine's factotum, has repeatedly asked for information.

Apart from newspaper reports indicating Government differences, the royal party is completely in the dark as to the reasons for the delay. The demeanor of the ex-King's entourage betrays obvious disappointment at the absence of the expected immediate formal invitation to Constantine to return to Athens and resume the throne.

Only 10,000 Opposed Constantine.

ATHENS, Dec. 10 (Associated Press).—It is declared that Constantine will come back to Greece on board the Greek battleship Averoff, although it was reported early this week that that warship was being held in the harbor of Constantinople. Arrangements have been made to send the steamer Iperochi to Brindisi for the purpose of taking newspaper men there to greet Constantine.

In official circles, however, there is much reticence regarding the return of the former King. Premier Rhallis was asked yesterday if Constantine was coming back to Greece, and answered: "That is a matter to be decided by him."

Returns from the plebiscite containing the vote of thirty-seven departments and also the army in Thrace and Smyrna show that 999,954 ballots were in favor of the return of Constantine, while 10,383 opposed him. The vote of four departments has not as yet been reported. In the elections held in November, 1914, there were 774,760 ballots cast.

There are evidences of a reaction in sentiment regarding Constantine, and the ten thousand Greeks who voted against his return are being compared to the ten thousand Athenians and Plataeans who defeated the Persians at Marathon. Royalist circles have been angered by charges made by former Premier Venizelos that the plebiscite held last Sunday was fraudulent.

Demetrius Gounaris, Minister of War, is apparently shaping his course in the belief that the British are not opposed to the return of Constantine. It is being urged in some quarters that the British, needing the Greek Army to oppose the Turkish Nationalists in Asia Minor, will restore credits to Greece within a few months.

Prices of most foodstuffs are rising. When any unusual noise is heard in the streets the remark is made, "That's the sound of the drachma falling."

New agitation has been started in the Island of Cyprus against British control, with the Greek members of the local Parliament refusing to sit. A delegation of Bishops, Mayors and Deputies, it is announced, is coming to Athens to demand union with Greece.

A Lucerne dispatch says that Professor Streit, spokesman for Constantine, declares that his conscience is tranquil and that he will cease to meddle in Greek politics. It also says that an old letter containing an appeal for funds sent to the late King Alexander by Constantine was withheld from Alexander. Constantine, it is asserted, borrowed money from Princess Christopher, formerly Mrs. W. B. Leeds.

PARIS, Dec. 10.—A decision to invite Constantine to return to Greece has been reached by the Government of that country, and such an invitation will be telegraphed Constantine, with the results of last Sunday's plebiscite, says a Havas dispatch from Athens.

Young Venizelos Excuses Greeks.

Greece is not expected to enter into negotiations with Mustapha Kemal Pasha, leader of the Turkish Nationalists, even if Constantine resumes the throne, according to Sophocles Venizelos, son of the former Greek Premier, who gave an interview to a representative of the Excelsior at Nice last night. He emphasized the desire of the Greeks to remain friends of the Entente nations, and said that the recent plebiscite and election held there did not mean friendship for Germany or her allies.

The ex-Premier declined to be interviewed when approached by the correspondent.

"Make you a statement?" he said. "What's the use? It, perhaps, would be garbled or misunderstood by our adversaries. Has it not already been asserted falsely in print that we dictated the recent allied notes to the Greek Government?"

Sophocles, however, was more complaisant, and when asked regarding financial matters in Greece he said:

"There is no doubt that the 400,000,000 drachmas the Allies have refused to advance may be indispensable for the upkeep of the Greek Army and the expenses of the kingdom. I do not think the country will go bankrupt, however, as the Government will probably issue an internal loan. We organized one recently, and the results were satisfactory."

"Do you think the Greeks in America will come to the financial aid of Constantine?" he was asked.

"Prince Christopher married an American, so anything is possible," was his answer.

"I do not think Constantine will try to treat with Mustapha Kemal Pasha through the Germans," he continued. "In this respect let me tell you one thing: the Greeks never voted against the Entente. If there should be a plebiscite asking the Greeks to choose between the Allies and the Central Powers, the country would acclaim the Entente with an enormous majority. Recent happenings in Greece have turned on the question of personalities, the people voting much more against my father than for the King. In addition, prolonged mobilization had a great bearing on the result.

"As for me, I have no political plan, and I do not think it is possible to arrange collaboration between Constantine and those loyal to my father."

RICCI TO SAIL JAN. 25.

New Italian Ambassador Will Study Immigration Question Here.

ROME, Dec. 9.—Conferences relative to his mission in America were held by Rolandi Ricci, the new Italian Ambassador to the United States, with Premier Giolitti and Foreign Minister Sforza today. The Premier urged him to leave for Washington as soon as possible, so as to settle several important pending questions, and he expects to sail on Jan. 25.

Ambassador Ricci intends to remain in New York for some time before proceeding to Washington in order to make himself acquainted with all the problems connected with Italian immigration. Afterward he will visit other centrés with large Italian populations, and will not be in Washington to present his credentials before the end of February or the beginning of March.

MILAN, Dec. 10.—When the Italian torpedo destroyer Espero joined the rebel fleet at Fiume last night d'Annunzio at once boarded the warship and distributed 10,000 francs among the crew as prize money for the act of sedition. The officers were entertained aboard the dreadnought Dante Aleghieri.

It is said that the Espero had left Pola under orders to join the blockading fleet in the higher Adriatic when the crew intimidated the officers with revolvers and assumed command of the ship. On arrival at Fiume the commander was found bound by ropes to a big gun, with his uniform torn to ribbons.

TRIEST, Dec. 10 (Associted Press).—Feeling has been aroused in Fiume over the arrival of several transports said to have on board a large part of General Wrangel's army, along the Dalmatian Coast. There is much speculation among d'Annunzio's legionaries over the mission of these vessels, some of them believing the troops will act as reinforcements to the Serb Army should there be an attack on Fiume. The general belief, however, is that the arrival of the transports has no special significance.

Drastic action on the part of the Italian naval authorities is expected as a result of the desertion of the destroyer Espero, which joined Captain Gabriele d'Annunzio's forces in Fiume. The incident has created a deep impression in all ranks of the navy.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, Dec. 10.—All eyes are turned toward the two chief protagonists in the Fiume affair, namely, d'Annunzio and Giolitti. The names of these two men are on every one's lips, the press speaks of nothing else, pleading with the former to come to his senses and realize the great harm he is causing his country, and invoking the latter to take some definite action to put an end to the intolerable situation which is causing so much dissension. The poet leader, with his vivid, persuasive oratory and melodramatic inspirations, such as the order he gave his legionaries to kneel at the passage of sailors from the destroyers which deserted the Italian Navy, appeals to the great mass of the people and covers him with an aureole of glory. The classes, who understand the grave situation, are doing everything in their power to support the Government, which, so far, has taken no definite action, as it is awaiting the ratification of the treaty of Rapallo by the Senate.

Although for the moment the unraveling of the tangle seems impossible, especially if Italy is to keep her pledged word, diplomatic and official circles have great faith in Giolitti's intelligence and experience. They point out the ability he showed during the metallurgical controversy, perhaps one of the greatest crises Italy has traversed, during the municipal elections, causing a great revival of patriotic feeling, and the terms he succeeded in getting from the Jugoslavs.

A Senator interrogated on the situation said, "There is no doubt the situation is very serious but by no means desperate. I believe Giolitti is the only man who will be able to find a solution to bring us longed for peace."

VIENNA, Dec. 9.—The election of Dr. Michael Hainisch as President of the Austrian Federal Republic has excited the general sympathy of public opinion in Vienna. Dr. Hainisch is known as a man of the highest integrity and an eminent student of social and political questions. His American travels have enabled him to gain an insight into American conditions, upon which he has frequently lectured.

Hughes would add to the statement the latter had read.

With Mr. Hughes's statement carrying the admission that he had discussed with the President-elect international questions "in the light of conditions which are constantly changing," there is speculation here whether Mr. Hughes's views on the League have ben modified by Argentina's withdrawal and by Canada's insistence upon the elimination of Article X.

Further interest was aroused by the coincidence of the arrival of Colonel Harvey. It was recalled that when Colonel Harvey was last in Marion, advising Senator Harding the week before the Senator's speech on international relations, Aug. 28, Mr. Hughes spent a day here, but was seen little in the Colonel's company. Colonel Harvey will be Senator Harding's guest over tomorrow, but it could not be learned tonight whether he would remain here until the arrival of Herbert Hoover next Sunday.

Senator Harding and his guests lunched at the Scioto Country Club at Columbus with Harry M. Daugherty and Theodore E. Burton, one-time member of the League to Enforce Peace. Mr. Hughes left Columbus this afternoon for New York on the same train with Mr. Daugherty, who plans to be in Washington tomorrow. Senator Harding, with Colonel Harvey, made up a foursome with Judge Henderson and Mr. Jefferies of Columbus for a round of the Scioto Country Club's course this afternoon before returning to Marion.

Having lunched with Mr. Burton, who has written extensively on conditions in the Pacific, Senator Harding attended a private dinner tonight at the Marion Y. M. C. A. in honor of Fletcher F. Brockman, Assicoate General Secretary of the organization and for fifteen years National Secretary of the Y. M. C. A. in China. Through his organization Mr. Brockman had important relations with Eastern Governments and officials, and he is a recognized authority on political and other relations in the Far East.

It is understood that Senator Harding attended tonight's dinner in response to a suggestion from Henry C. Wallace of Des Moines, editor of Wallace's Farmer, who has been mentioned in Cabinet gossip as head of the Department of Agriculture. It was said that Mr. Wallace wrote Senator Harding telling of Mr. Brockman's visit to Marion. In the last few weeks Mr. Brockman has been speaking at private dinners in various parts of the country on Far Eastern conditions.

Elmer Dover, former Secretary of the Republican National Committee and during the last campaign Pacific Coast manager, arrived today for a conference with Senator Harding. The President-elect telegraphed today to the Secretary of the Gridiron Club at Washington, regretting he could not attend the club's annual dinner tomorrow night. Senator Harding sent his cordial greetings and good wishes to the members of the club and their guests.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Dec. 10 (Associated Press).—Harry M. Daugherty, pre-convention campaign manager for Senator Harding, tonight denied published statements that he had accepted the post of Attorney General in the next Cabinet. He said he would not discuss Cabinet appointments without Senator Harding's permission.

BOSTON, Dec. 10.—A conference between President-elect Harding and Governor Coolidge, Vice President-elect, to be held at the Senator's home in Marion, on Dec. 16, was announced at the Governor's office late today. The nature of the conference was not revealed, but it is said to have been requested by Senator Harding. Governor Coolidge will leave Boston Dec. 15 and return on the 17th. Mrs. Coolidge will accompany him and will be the guest of Mrs. Harding.

HARDING FRIEND IN GENEVA.

J. H. Patterson of Dayton Investigating League's Working.

GENEVA, Dec. 10.—John H. Patterson of Dayton, Ohio, President of the National Cash Register Company, is visiting Geneva and investigating the work of the League of Nations. He has attended two meetings of the League Assembly, and has spent several hours going through the offices of the Secretariat.

Mr. Patterson is in Europe on business, but decided to spend several days in Geneva. He expressed admiration for the machinery of the League, but has avoided making any public statement concerning it.

Considerable interest has attended the visit of Mr. Patterson because of reports that he is a friend of President-elect Harding.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

members, at the same time setting up temporary machinery. It made plain that the Blockade Commission was to consider the principle that each nation was to decide when a State was offending and then it was bound to act. This was more or less reasoning in a circle, for if a State did not wish to blockade another it might very conveniently provide evidence not convincing.

Swiss Cling to Neutrality.

M. Motta of Switzerland declared that he wanted it emphasized that "each State is free to decide for itself whether it shall apply the blockade or not." He added that Switzerland must guard her neutrality, sanctified by centuries of observance. It was then that Lafontaine spoke.

Lord Robert said that he did not accept Motta's statement that each country could decide whether to apply the blockade. He said that each country could decide if any State had offended. Motta replied that it looked all the same to him.

Leon Bourgeois said that France believed that all nations should shoulder their burdens in case of the need of applying the blockade, and mentioned that Article XVI. provided that the big nations should not let the little nations suffer through the performance of League duties. Nevertheless, because of the objections of certain nations, particularly Norway, Sweden and Denmark, he thought that the report plan should be adopted for the present and a better plan worked out in time. The report was then adopted.

President Hymans announced a plan for limiting speeches to ten minutes, which was adopted. He said that it was necessary for the Assembly to adjourn Dec. 18 at the latest and that sessions would be held both in the morning and the afternoon next week.

May Name China on Council.

China may become a member of the League Council. Recommendations of a commission which were made public tonight provide that in the election of the four non-permanent members of the Council three shall come from Europe and North or South America and one from Asia or some other part of the world. This clause was inserted at the request of the Chinese delegation, which will probably become the Asiatic representative.

The four non-permanent members at present are Spain, Brazil, Belgium and Greece. Of these, the first three will probably be re-elected, but Greece will almost certainly be superseded.

The Council today submitted to the Assembly a report saying that it could not at this time hand over a definite statement on the mandate situation because the terms of the mandates were still under discussion by the powers which had assumed the direction of the former German colonies. The two chief points under discussion are the right of the French to recruit black troops, and Australia's attitude with regard to Japanese immigration to the Pacific islands put under Australian control. The Japanese complain that if the Australian exclusion law is applied their position in the islands will be worse than when the islands were under the Germans, against whom they took part in the war. Any definite action by the League on the subject is therefore pretty well prevented.

The Assembly will set up a mandate commission to which the mandatory powers will report. But inasmuch as under Article CXIX. of the Treaty of Versailles Germany renounced all her rights and titles to her overseas possessions to the allied and associated powers, the mandatory commission's powers seem likely to be somewhat limited.

Draft on Compulsory Arbitration.

GENEVA, Dec. 10 (Associated Press).—The International Court of Justice Commission today adopted a plan for a certain form of compulsory arbitration subject to the approval of the members of the League. The plan provides that all members of the League shall recognize compulsory jurisdiction if a certain number of States ratify such an arrangement.

Following are the questions which are to be subject to compulsory arbitration: First, the interpretation of treaties; second, questions of international law; third, violations of international engagements; fourth, the interpretation of sentences rendered by the international court, and fifth, the nature and scope of reparations due to the breaking of an international engagement.

The plan was adopted after Harmodio Arias, the Panaman delegate, offered an amendment providing that the recognition of compulsory arbitration may be subject to a certain number of States agreeing to such an arrangement. The plan will come up before the Assembly next week.

A resolution for instruction in Esperanto in public schools was introduced in the Assembly today.

INDORSES ARGENTINE COURSE.

Alvear, Envoy to France, Denies He Intends to Resign.

PARIS, Dec. 10 (Associated Press).—Don Marcello do Alvear, Argentine Minister to France, said today that he was perfectly in accord with the attitude taken by the Argentine delegation to the League of Nations Assembly in Geneva and that there was not the slightest truth in reports that he intended to resign his post.

Honorio Pueyrredon, the Argentine Foreign Minister, when asked today whether he considered that Argentina was still a member of the League of Nations, said:

"I refuse to answer that question, but you may say that Argentina will be glad to help reconstruct the League at any time it is invited to participate."

Asked whether he meant that he considered the League now as dismantled, Señor Pueyrredon replied:

"You may interpret it as you like. The chief objection Argentina has to the League as at present constituted is that it is too much of a super-state in which each country loses too much of its character and individuality."

CHILE TO STAY IN LEAGUE.

National Leaders Refuse to Follow Argentine Course.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Dec. 10.—At a conference of the nation's leaders, called by President San Fuente to consider instructions to the Chilean delegates to the League of Nations Assembly, it was decided tonight that Chile would not withdraw from the League in sympathy with the causes which led to Argentina's action.

ROWELL AMAZED DELEGATES.

London Times Glad British Methods Are Made Known.

LONDON, Dec. 10.—Incidental mention by N. W. Rowell, one of the Canadian delegates to the League of Nations Assembly at Geneva, of the fact that "the statesmen of the mother country have no voice in the management of the affairs of Canada" is declared by the Geneva correspondent of The London Times to have produced the effect of a bombshell upon many of the foreign delegates and journalists, who, he says, appeared not to have had the faintest conception of the relations existing between Great Britain and her dominions.

From their comments, adds The Times correspondent, one would have imagined that the British Empire was on the verge of dissolution, and the view appears to have caused the liveliest interest in Paris.

"The meeting of the Assembly," is the comment made by the paper, "will not have been in vain, even if it does nothing but correct some current misapprehensions regarding the British way of doing things."

MONACO WANTS LEAGUE PLACE

Prince Offers to Close Gaming Rooms—Swiss Seek Sea Outlet.

Copyright, 1920, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

GENEVA, Dec. 10.—The proposed admission of Monaco to the League of Nations promises to arouse a bitter fight between the nations selfishly interested in camouflaging their concern and those objecting to the gambling there, and a world wide religious campaign on the subject is threatened.

Hoping to stave off the objections, the Prince of Monaco, who is immensely wealthy from his winnings, has promised to close the gaming rooms as soon as employment can be found in that principality for the thousands of Casino employes. He is considering cooperation with the Swiss Government in the construction of a railway line from Switzerland to Monaco, thus giving the former nation a seaport.

Switzerland is backing the proposition and it hopes to have the proposed railway placed under the protection of the League of Nations, thus assuring independence from the Italians. It has undergone considerable inconvenience and its exports have been curtailed through having to transport goods to the sea by way of Italy, because of the increasing freight rates, lack of rolling stock, delay in handling shipments and for other reasons.

The French object to closing the gambling houses because they collect revenues from Monte Carlo winnings, and the Italians, French, Belgians and Dutch oppose Monaco becoming a Swiss port because Switzerland is now obliged to use foreign railways or the Rhine to Antwerp or Rotterdam.

Switzerland hopes to get support through Great Britain and Scandinavia and is anxious that a settlement be reached before Germany becomes a member to fight for the maintenance of the Hamburg traffic. The Swiss also expect support from other landlocked States which would see a precedent for League-controlled railways to tidewater.

CHINA TO APPEAL SHANTUNG.

Dr. Koo Says the Question Will Be Brought Before League.

GENEVA, Dec. 10 (Associated Press).—Dr. Wellington Koo, the Chinese representative at the League of Nations Assembly, said today that the question of Shantung ultimately would be brought up before the League.

"We will deal with Shantung at the proper time and in the proper place—that is to say, in the League of Nations," said the Chinese statesman. "It may be next week, or at the next meeting of the Council or of the Assembly, but, at any rate, it will be as soon as the opportune moment arrives."

Dr. Koo was replying to questions relating to an interview given by Baron Hayashi, head of the Japanese delegation, and published in the local papers, in which the Baron asserted that Japan was getting ready to hand back Shantung to China, but was unable to get China to open negotiations. Dr. Koo said that he did not care to talk about any other country than his own unless he could say nice things about it. With regard to Shantung, he said, public opinion in China was aroused. There had been student strikes and other manifestations.

"At the same time," he added, "we realize that the League of Nations is occupied with its organization and we cannot expect it to undertake a great problem of this nature before perfecting some of its machinery."

$185,000,000 LOSS ON SHIP OPERATIONS

Shipping Board Report Shows $513,000,000 Excess of Total Expenses Over Revenues.

THIS MAY BE MUCH REDUCED

Vessels Owned Head Assets With Value of $2,670,000,000 on War Cost Basis.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—The Shipping Board made public tonight a "consolidated balance sheet as of June 30, 1920," giving the financial transactions of the board and the Emergency Fleet Corporation from their inception in 1917 to that date. It shows total liabilities of $3,537,380,726.94 and assets of the same amount, and is the first complete financial statement to be issued by the Federal agencies which built the great Government-owned merchant marine.

The board apparently did not undertake to show the total amount expended, and fiscal officials when asked as to this amount said that it could not be computed with any degree of accuracy because of the system of accouuting in use in the early days of the board.

The "consolidated balance sheet" shows appropriations by Congress of $3,213,217,110, "reserves" of $735,618,316 and other items totaling more than $100,000,000, the whole amounting to $4,050,746,866.

The excess of expenses over revenues from operations, sales and the like is placed at $513,336,139. The revenues from operations, sales of ships, &c., are given as $1,148,928,155 and the expenses as $1,662,264,294.

The revenues from operations of vessels were $817,271,541 and the expenses of operations $1,002,396,579, the apparent net loss from operation being $185,125,037.

Vessels sold brought $296,515,344, while they cost the board $339,083,676, making the total loss on these transactions $42,568,331.

Expects Final Revenue Excess.

In a supplemental statement Controller Tweedale says that the total of $513,366,139, representing the excess of expenses of operations and sales over revenues, is not to be construed as a loss. His statement is as follows:

"This item does not necessarily give final reflection of the outcome of all transactions for the reason that it contains expenditures amounting to approximately $105,670,993.11, made for the account of the army and navy departments, and such expenditures have not yet been reimbursed to the corporation; rentals, which are in the course of being transferred to receipts from revenues, now shown as a reduction of costs of construction; likewise interest, discount and proceeds of sales of shipyard plants; the difference between undistributed construction charges, $50,240,964.24, and that amount which will ultimately be applied to construction projects; net revenue in the books of the agents of the Emergency Fleet Corporation estimated as amounting to $59,780,460, the physical transfer of which has not been made to the general books and therefore is not reflected in this statement; contract cancellations, now shown as construction costs which will be undoubtedly charged to contract cancellation, which is estimated as amounting to $12,891,018.16; thus, in order to obtain a conservative reflection of the outcome of all transactions, the aforementioned items should be considered.

"With this in mind, the foregoing items, which amount to $202,801,399.25, would reduce the $513,366,139.19 to $310,564,739.94, which is offset in part by the reserve for depreciation on vessels, insurance on vessels lost and other accidents, amounting to $336,630,351.97, this making the net excess of $26,065,612.03, which should be further increased by the unused portion for maintenance and stipulation expense, previously commented on, amounting to $21,114,828.36, together with the $9,199,211.74 representing expenditures on unsold seized German and Austrian vessels. We then have an excess of revenues over expenses amounting to $56,379,652.13, as against the $513,366,139.19 shown on the summarized statement as an excess of expenses and charges from revenues. It is believed that it may be said that this $56,379,652.13, less expenditures on vessels lost or sunk, estimated at $50,115,842.31, or $6,263,809.82, represents a more definite reflection of the outcome of all transactions as of the date of the annual report, taking into consideration all transactions shown on the books and those in process."

Shrinkage Due to Appraisals.

Under the head of shrinkage due to appraisals the board shows a total loss of $98,038,507 on materials of all kinds, while the loss on contract cancellations is placed at $105,176,811.

In its capital assets the board lists the vessels owned at $2,670,612,755, this representing expenditures for construction, purchases and reconditioning. The value of shipyards property and equipment, fuel oil stations, real estate and buildings, automobiles, launches and the like is placed at $158,895,243. Expenditures for construction of and improvements to housing projects and transportation facilities are given as $69,604,977. It is explained that all o fthese figures represent war costs and not present values.

Current assets, listed in the balance sheet, include accounts receivable of $293,792,558, general cash and cash fund $96,547,951, investments $30,917,587, notes receivable 70,248,537, and materials, supplies, ships stores and the like, 143,400,297.

On the actual operation of its great fleet the board reports a gross revenue of $440,549,001, the revenues from voyages being placed at $768,077,700, while the voyage expenses were only 328,527,999. Maintenance, insurance, depreciation and other expenses more than ate up these excess revenues.

Explanations of various items are made by the board. Many items are said to be "bookkeeping entries." Of the insurance item of $140,393,528.94, $75,836,046.46, it is stated, is held as a reserve for future losses. This statement is made: "This represents a book figure to show the cost to the board for carrying its own insurance on vessels operated, and does not represent money actually spent. But had not the board carried its own insurance it would have had to pay this amount to insurance companies."

Depreciation on vessels is also said to be a book figure, and does not represent cash transactions, $196,847,309.83 being unused. Maintenance is declared to be a book item in part, and stipulation expense wholly so, it is said. "Vessels lost," $18,266,012.03, represents expenditures on vessels lost in transit before the board secured them, and also in the service of the army and navy, upon which insurance was not yet carried.

ASKS $17,058,789 MORE.

Revenue Department Wants $1,600,000 for Enforcement of Prohibition.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Request for an additional appropriation of $17,058,789 to cover expenses during the present fiscal year was made of Congress today by the Bureau of Internal Revenue. It was explained that $9,000,000 was needed for the collection of war revenue taxes, $6,000,000 for refunding of taxes illegally collected, $1,600,000 for the enforcement of the prohibition and narcotic laws and the remainder to meet other expected deficiencies.

Commissioner Williams reported that $1,383,540 had been expended for enforcing "dry" laws during the first three months of the present fiscal year. For this purpose $4,750,000 had been appropriated for the year.

The bureau needed, he added, four additional directors for the enforcement of prohibition, another supervising agent, three more special agents for field work and an additional force of twenty-two inspectors and sixty-two agents.

TRADE CORPORATION CONFERENCE BEGUN

Hoover Endorses Formation of $100,000,000 Organization to Finance American Exports.

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—The organization of the proposed corporation to finance foreign trade, to be backed by bankers, manufacturers and merchants over the entire country, was endorsed today by prominent speakers at a meeting held under the auspices of the American Bankers' Association.

The proposed corporation would be formed under the Edge law with a capital of $100,000,000, available to American producers as cash payment for their goods on which foreign buyers would be unable to pay cash. This foreign trade, speakers said, was necessary to the commercial progress of the United States, and some method of financing foreign trade must be worked out to enable American manufacturers to take their place in world trade.

Herbert Hoover, speaking before the afternoon session, declared, if the project were successful, today's conference would have been the most momentous since the armistice.

"You are gathered here for the fundamental purpose of doing something practical in the solution of a financial situation by everyday means," Mr. Hoover said. "You have a great problem, for our farmers today are suffering great losses and our workmen great unemployment. This is due to a considerable degree to the stagnation in orders for our export surplus. From this stagnation the consuming power of our own home market is reduced and the effects are accumulating upon us.

"We must face the issue that these economic ills arise in and from the vicious economic circles that can be broken in one way only, and that by the establishment of credits abroad, not the dangerous short time credits which already have become over-extended but the long time investment in reproductive enterprise."

Mr. Hoover asserted that present problems should be solved by the processes of business and the individual initiative of man rather than by the Government. Government promotion, he said, would lead to vicious ends and would be subject to every pressure that desperate foreign statesmen could invent.

Declaring that if America wanted Europe's trade, she must help that Continent now, A. C. Bedford, Vice President of the International Chamber of Commerce, painted an encouraging picture of Europe in the reconstruction period.

William C. Redfield, former Secretary of Commerce urged a world-wide trade development, declaring that America was still in the infancy of her export trade. He asserted that the "tremendous pull of English capital is operating abroad in favor of English industry." "There is no limit," he said, "to the world that opens before us if we have the vision to put American money into American-owned, American-run and American-controlled industries and institutions all around the globe."

The farmer's viewpoint was explained by J. R. Howard, President of the American Farm Bureau Federation, who said that if the proposed corporation would provide a market for farmers' products it would have their backing. Julius H. Barnes, formerly head of the United States Grain Corporation, and Eugene Meyer Jr., who headed the War Finance Corporation, presented their views. No material aid could be expected from national or State legislation, Mr. Barnes told the conference.

A committee on plan and scope was appointed at the afternoon session and its recommendations for organization and definite procedure will be heard tomorrow. A national committee is expected to be appointed to evolve the necessary steps for incorporation of the financing organization. William C. Redfield's name was prominently mentioned by conferees as the probable President of the new corporation.

FIFTY GERMANS HERE ON AMERICAN LINER

The Mongolia Also Brings Boy Linguist From Hungary—Seamen Deny Smuggling Tales.

When the American liner Mongolia arrived yesterday from Hamburg via Vigo, the officers and members of the crew denied knowledge of one of their number having sold in Hamburg a gold cigar case marked "C. M. S.," which was formerly the property of Charles M. Schwab. The men professed equal ignorance of members of the crew having smuggled any jewelry into Germany. They added that marks were so low they were not worth bringing over here.

The only untoward incident of the voyage was the suicide of José Fernandez, a Spanish fireman, who shot himself in the forecastle on Nov. 26, the night before the ship left Hamburg. No one appeared to know why the fireman killed himself beyond a rumor that he had been disappointed in love.

There were about fifty Germans among the passengers who had obtained permission from the State Department to enter the United States, either to join relatives who were citizens or for business purposes.

Among the 175 first cabin passengers was Joseph Laczko, thirteen years old, a Hungarian boy, on his way from his native town, Verooze, to join his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Laczko, at Whittier, Cal. The lad has not seen his parents for eight years. During the war he drifted away from his relatives. He was located a few months ago by M. Hooker, an official of the Vacuum Oil Company, at Trieste, and his sorrowing parents were notified by cable. In addition to Magyar, his native tongue, the lad speaks Croatian, Czechoslovak, Italian, German and Czechish, and is learning English rapidly. He was sent to Ellis Island to stay until it is shown that his parents are American citizens. Then he will be released and sent to join them in California.

Because he brought with him his thirteen-year-old cousin, J. B. Ariza, Secretary of the National Match Company of Puerto Plata, San Domingo, was ordered to Ellis Island with his wife, although they had been booked to leave New York today for their native land. Maria Sander, the cousin, went with them to Ellis Island and Mr. Ariza asked the Consul General of San Domingo here to assist him out of his difficulties.

Some of the persons who were reunited yesterday on the American Line pier had not seen one another for fifteen years.

The Mongolia brought 1,302 steerage passengers, chiefly from Vigo, Spain.

HOUSE RECESS TO BE BRIEF.

Six Days Instead of Two Weeks to Be Taken at Christmas Time.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—House leaders decided today that the demands of public business were so pressing that the usual two weeks' holidays around Christmas would not be taken this year. Instead, the House, irrespective of what the Senate does, intends to take a recess of three days over Christmas and three days over New Year. Adjournment will be taken on Thursday night preceding these holidays until the following Monday.

In addition to establishing a record for work, the Budget Committee, which will be organized next Monday, with Representative James Good as Chairman, is expected to devote itself to recing estimates and expenses of the Government.

"Taxes cannot be reduced," said Republican House Leader Mondell, "unless expenses are cut down. Fully 20,000 Federal employes in Washington must be dismissed at the end of this fiscal year and unnecessary and duplicating bureaus abolished."

HITS TREASURY RULE OF RESERVE BOARD

Congressman McFadden Plans to Eliminate Secretary and Controller as Members.

CRITICISES WAR FINANCING

T. W. Lamont Gives Six Formulas to Aid Business Men to Weather Readjustment Period.

Elimination of the Secretary of the Treasury and the Controller of the Currency from membership on the Federal Reserve Board was suggested yesterday by Congressman Louis T. McFadden of Pennsylvania, Chariman of the Committee on Banking and Currency of the House of Representatives. Mr. McFadden said he intended to introduce a bill in the next House, making this and other amendments to the Federal Reserve act, and expected it to pass.

Mr. McFadden criticised the methods of the Secretary of the Treasury in war financing, particularly in floating the various Liberty loans, and said the proposal to eliminate the head of the Treasury Department and his principal subordinate from the Federal Reserve Board was intended to take the board from the control of the Treasury Department. He said his bill would also provide for the transfer to the board from the Controller of the Currency of entire control over the examination and supervision of all national banks and would charge the Federal Reserve Board, instead of the Controller, with the execution of the laws relating to the printing, issue and retirement of national bank currency, just as it is now charged with supervision over the issue and retirement of Federal Reserve notes.

Mr. McFadden made the foregoing announcement of his intention in a speech at the convention of the clients of the George Batten Company, an advertising firm, at the Hotel Biltmore. Representatives of eighty large business concerns were present.

Criticises War Finances.

Mr. McFadden said that the safeguards in the original Federal Reserve act had been removed during the war by an amendment which enabled the Treasury Department to begin an inflationary and expansion plan of financing which could not easily be discontinued, and which, he said, probably explained the heavy amount of war paper still being carried by the Federal Reserve and banking systems of the country. He said that 20,000,000 persons who never before had bought a bond were induced to purchase Liberty bonds, the rate of interest on which was artificially low as compared with other bonds. This low interest rate, he said, had had a resulting effect upon subsequent rates of interest which the Government had been compelled to pay on its temporary Treasury certificates of indebtedness.

"Only the day before yesterday the Secretary of the Treasury made an issue of $500,000,000 of temporary Treasury certificates at 6.575 per cent.," he continued. "Such a rate of interest would not have been demanded had the temporary Government financing been out of the way. The present floating debt method of financing the needs of the Government can best be characterized as a hand-to-mouth system, paying today's debts out of the income of tomorrow. Every time a new issue of Treasury certificates of indebtedness is placed upon the market, the Government is competing with private industry in obtaining capital. Thus private industry must suffer in not being able to obtain its necessary finance, and the resulting effect of this frozen war paper is a lessening of the physical output of commodities in the United States."

Would Refund Floating Debt.

Mr. McFadden said a refunding operation on the part of the Government, to include all its floating debt, instead of paying it out of current revenues and taxes during the next three years, as proposed by the Secretary of the Treasury, was needed to recover from what he called the "mistaken policy" of the Treasury Department in financing the war.

In announcing the preparation of a bill to eliminate the Secretary of the Treasury and the Controller of the Currency from the Federal Reserve Board, he said:

"Much of the criticism that has been directed against the organization and action of the Federal Reserve Board is based upon the fact that it is not completely independent of the Treasury Department influence, and, in a certain sense, political influence. The Federal Reserve system should be free from political influence. This is quite as important as its independence of domination by financial combinations.

"The bill also provides that at least three of the seven members shall be experienced in banking and finance. In view of the elimination of the Secretary of the Treasury from the board's membership, it is necessary to make the Governor, who is now the active executive officer, the Chairman of the board. The bill provides that instead of having the Governor designated by the President, the members of the board shall elect a Chairman and Vice Chairman."

Mr. McFadden said that the present method gave the President strong influence over the board, and that the members of the board rarely saw the President, who was guided almost entirely by the Secretary of the Treasury, even in the appointment of new members. He said the bill would also provide an appropriation of $2,000,000 for a building for the board, in order that it might not continue to be dependent upon the Treasury Department for quarters.

T. W. Lamont's Six Formulas.

Six formulas adaptable to business men now passing through the "temporary process of contraction and readjustment" were recommended by Thomas W. Lamont of J. P. Morgan & Co., in a statement read at the convention. "We are all feeling the discomforts of this process," Mr. Lamont wrote. "No one can foretell its duration or estimate accurately its immediate or final results. Necessarily this period of uncertainty renders it most difficult in business to make decisions today that have a bearing upon the long future. Fixed formulas of conduct, policy and future engagements are hard to write. There are, however, some things every man engaged in active business can do:

"We can resolve not to be frightened into panic by the wolf that may not come.

"We can meet our contracts to the utmost limits of our resources.

"We can take our losses like good sportsmen.

"We can unfailingly be fair to our clients and customers.

"We can adhere just as rigidly as ever to good ethics and fair business practices.

"We must be just to our fellow workers and employes and consider their welfare as an integral part of our own."

Mr. Lamont expressed the opinion that "fundamentally" in the way of business there was not very much wrong with America.

EX-CAPTAIN ENDS LIFE; BOYS FIND BODY IN LOT

Former Army Officer, Recently Injured by Fall, Shoots Self With Service Pistol.

William C. Taylor, who served as a Captain in the Finance Division of the Quartermaster's Department during the war, committed suicide last night in a vacant lot at Morris and McClellan Avenues by shooting himself in the left breast. He was dressed in the uniform of an army field clerk with the pistol still in his hand when his body was found by some small boys who started a bonfire in the lot. Policeman Milbroun of the Morrissania Station, who was notified by the boys summoned an ambulance from Lincoln Hospital, but Dr. Archer said the man had been dead for more than an hour.

NEW YORK CENTRAL LOSES FARE APPEAL

Judge Andrews Orders 2-Cent-a-Mile Charge on Albany-Buffalo Line Restored.

RULES IT WAS SUSPENDED

Holds Federal Control Did Not Revoke Charter Provision—May Go to Supreme Court.

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 10.—The prewar passenger rate of 2 cents a mile on the New York Central Railroad lines between Albany and Buffalo, as prescribed by the railroad's charter granted by the State in 1853 must be restored, the Court of Appeals held in a decision handed down late today. The decision was made in an action instituted by Attorney General Newton and the Public Service Commission for the Second District to compel the railroad to reduce its fares on these lines.

Passenger rates were increased to 3 cents a mile during the war under the sanction of Federal authority, while the railroads were controlled by the United States Government. Upon the return of the railroads to private ownership Congress provided by the Esch-Cummins bill that the tariffs in force on Feb. 29, 1920, should continue until thereafter changed by State or Federal authority, and in no case should they be reduced before Sept. 1, 1920.

The New York Central claimed that under the Esch-Cummins provision the Legislature was bound to take some action looking to the reduction of rates. Attorney General Newton and Ledyard P. Hale, counsel for the Public Service Commission, contended that automatically upon Sept. 1 last the old passenger rates of 2 cents a mile were revived and that legislative action was unnecessary, the provisions of the original charter being suspended only during the operation of the Federal war power.

Judge Andrews, who wrote the opinion, said that no affirmative action on the part of the State was necessary to secure the reduction of rates after the roads came into the possession of their owners.

"As we have said," the opinion reads, "the obligation of the New York Central to carry way passengers for 2 cents a mile has not been destroyed. It was temporarily superseded. It was always subject to this possibility under the war power, if it became necessary. But when the suspension ceases, it revives with all its original force."

The court comments upon the fact that the Interstate Commerce Commission in November of this year permitted the New York Central to increase its rates to 3.6 cents a mile. Whether this has the effect of overturning the old State rate is not passed upon in the opinion, but the railroad is given permission to present the record taken before the Interstate Commerce Commission to the Supreme Court at a special term, where the constitutional questions may be properly presented, none of them appearing in the record before the Court of Appeals.

ARMENIAN BOUNDARY DECISION RECEIVED

President's Report Now at Paris Foreign Office—Representative Chosen for Mediation.

PARIS, Dec. 10.—President Wilson's decision concerning the Armenian boundaries was delivered to the French Foreign Office yesterday through the American embassy, with a note from Ambassador Wallace, reserving to himself a voice in the decision when it is made public. The French Government immediately began sending copies of the decision to the other nations which are members of the Allied Supreme Council.

President Wilson's decision consists of an extremely long note printed in book form on green paper. It is signed by President Wilson himself and is accompanied by a thick book of maps, constituting one of the most magnificent documents ever received by the Foreign Office, according to the officials there. The only impression given out by the Foreign Office was that President Wilson had allowed Armenia very liberal borders.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—President Wilson has selected the representative through whom he will use his good offices and proffer his "personal mediation" between Armenia and the Turkish Nationalists in an effort to end the hostilities now being waged against the Armenian people.

Both at the State Department and the White House officials declined to make public the name of the President's representative, the statement being made that the President did not care to make it public until he had received a report from the council of the League of Nations concerning certain information which he desired as to the avenues through which his proffer should be conveyed and the parties to whom it should be addressed.

Henry Morgenthau, forrer American Ambassador to Turkey, has been prominently mentioned for the position of representative of the President.

The acting Secretary of State, Norman H. Davis, announced today that the following message had been cabled to Sir Eric Drummond, Secretary General of the League of Nations, at Geneva:

"The President of the United States has requested me to acknowledge with thanks your message of Dec. 1 and to express his appreciation of the assurances of moral support of all members of the league in the efforts to mediate between the Armenians and the Kemalists."

M'CUMBER WARNS OF DEFICIT AHEAD

about $1,125,000,000. On Oct. 20, 1920, there were still outstanding and unpaid certificates, obligations of the Government, due from Dec. 15 this year to March 15 next, totaling $506,527,500, and if we carry the tax certificates to Sept. 15, 1921, the total will be $1,782,040,000. If we include loan certificates which become due within the year, this total will amount to $2,629,432,950.

"About $4,250,000,000 Victory notes will mature May 20, 1923, and on Jan. 1 the same year $800,000,000 War Savings certificates mature, and Page 23 of the Secretary's report shows that within a period ending May, 1923, there will become due and payable $7,500,000,000 of Government war obligations.

"It is worthy of note that the Secretary bases the estimate of deficit which will exist on June 30, 1922, on the assumption that our revenues will be $4,859,530,000 or nearly $5,000,000,000. I do not wish to take a gloomy view of our industrial prospects, but if 1921 as a whole is not a most decided improvement over the last two months of 1920, the revenues will not be half that sum.

"With these great deficits, both near and far, staring us in the face, we are striving to find some way by which we can relieve the agricultural situation. We hope for some kind of relief through the revival of the activities of the War Finance Corporation. While wheat and wool are pouring into this country in unprecedented volume, driving down the price of the American product to half the cost of production, we are about to ask this War Finance Corporation in some way to finance the bankrupt countries of Europe so we can export our wheat to them. If we were business men and would follow our business instincts, we would at least close the intake to our tank while we were struggling to empty the tank through the spigot.

Warns Off Seekers for Favors.

"Where can we get this money? The testimony of Governor Harding of the Federal Reserve Board, taken before the Committee on Agriculture, is to the effect that the banks have extended their credits as far as they can safely do so; that if they were to further extend those credits and present conditions should continue, it might endanger our whole banking system. Now, if these banks cannot supply associate banks with money, sufficient to tide over the agricultural depression, how can these same banks furnish the money to foreign people to buy these farm products? For, after all, what these farmers must have and what these country banks must have is money, and the credit that is not backed by cash somewhere in the background is not a very reliable credit.

"So it would seem to me that so far as the agricultural situation is concerned, the first, the real and sensible thing to be done, is to close the intake pipe, stop the importations and give the American farmer exclusively the American market so long as he can supply that market at living prices.

"But my principal object is to reach the ear of those who are asking favors of the Government. We want every man and every corporation who must be called upon to remit for taxes to consider not alone his own discomforts but also his country's dire needs. We want the soldier, who is asking for immediate action on a bonus bill, to exercise patience and forbearance and to understand the grave financial difficulties that confront Congress. And we want our appropriation committees to cut to the bone and to keep appropriations down to the limit of the bare necessity of Government. This is no time to even dream of new Governmental projects which will call for Treasury disbursements."

Following Senator McCumber, Senator Smoot of Utah explained that the figures cited by the speaker did not include appropriations to be made between now and June 30 next. These appropriations must be added to the total. Senator Smoot said that it was due business men of the country that the Government should inform them that there was no chance for the income instalments due next week being postponed. Senator Simmons, ranking Democratic member of the Finance Committee, endorsed the stand of Senator Smoot.

Vote Today on Reviving Finance Board.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Consideration of legislation to provide relief for farmers occupied most of the Senate's time today and when adjournment was reached there was general agreement that a vote would be taken tomorrow on the Agricultural Committee's resolution to revive the War Finance Corporation.

The debate on the measure, led by Senators Dial, Democrat, of South Carolina; Smith, Democrat, of Georgia, and Capper, Republican, of Kansas, brought forth no pronounced opposition to the legislation, and tonight Senator Gronna, Republican, of North Dakota, expressed confidence that the measure would be adopted.

Stimulation of agriculture through exports was declared by the speakers to be one of the principal reasons for urging revival of the War Finance Corporation. Indirectly it would result in stabilizing conditions generally, it was added.

"There is not a living market for farm products in the United States today," Senator Capper told the Senate, adding that the closing of banks in North Dakota "indicates that agriculture, our biggest business and the foundations of our wealth and prosperity, is close to demoralization and ruin."

The banks were closed, he said, because they could not collect from the farmers who were unable to pay because there was no market for their crops.

"We have gone about this thing of deflation all wrong," he continued. "The farmer has been made the goat so often that it was thought he could be safely made the goat in this big deflation. He cannot carry it. He will not carry it. He has said so and is stating so today. The farming business cannot exist unless credit and market conditions are remedied soon."

Senator Smith said:

"There is not any possible harm that the War Finance Board can do while there is every reason to believe it can accomplish a vast deal of good, in helping our exports to Central and Southern Europe."

Senator Calder said that in a recent trip through the country he did not find a single farmer who was not in favor of reviving the board.

Senator Hitchcock, Democrat, of Nebraska, reading from testimony of Secretary Houston before the Agriculture Committee, said that he was "surprised to find that most of the exports financed while the War Finance Corporation was active were manufactured goods largely for one company."

"I am surprised," the Senator added, "its activities were so little directed toward exports of agricultural products."

Senator Norris, Republican, of Nebraska, replied that the testimony showed that the corporation was just getting ready to finance large applications for exports of agricultural products when its operations were suspended.

Discussion of the situation of the wool growers got into Senate debate. Senator Smoot, Republican, Utah, said that an embargo on imports was "the only way the industry could be saved."

Senator Thomas, Democrat, of Colorado, protested against applying "speedy and unconsidered remedies to universal conditions." The condition today, he added, "is national in that it is inevitable," and he urged that a return to normal conditions could not be expected without going through a period of readjustment.

House Committee Moving.

In the House today Representative Young, Republican, of North Dakota offered an amendment to the Federal Reserve act to permit Government loans on live stock.

The House Ways and Means Committee continued its hearings on proposals to aid wool growers by establishing an embargo on wool imports. S. W. McClure of Salt Lake presented an appeal from the Western Range Stock Growers' Association urging immediate action, and Professor W. C. Coffee of Urbana, Ill., Eastern Vice President of the National Wool Growers' Association, told the committee that "the deplorable situation now existing has embarrassed farmers to the extent that sheep production today is on the decrease."

The House Agricultural Committee decided to appoint a subcommittee, headed by Representative Haugen, Republican, of Iowa, to recommend legislation for financial relief of farmers. Representative Haugen said that it was expected that a blanket relief measure would be introduced in the House at an early date.

WESTERN UNION CUTS CONGRESS PRIVILEGES

Restricts Sending of Messages by Members—Lawyers Fail to Settle Cable Dispute.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—The Western Union Telegraph Company has stirred up a hornet's nest in Congress with a notice that the practice of permitting Senators and Representatives to send messages from any office in the country, with the Government settling for the bill monthly, would be abandoned Jan. 1.

Chairman Ireland, of the House Committee on Accounts, announced today that he would leave tonight for New York for a conference with Western Union officials. He also announced that he would have the Federal statutes examined to determine whether the Western Union could not be forced to accept the messages as heretofore.

Mr. Ireland said he was "suspicious" that the company's action was due to the dispute with the State Department over the landing of the Barbadoes cable at Miami. He added that the telegraph companies were compelled under the law to accept Government messages at 40 per cent. less than the commercial rates because of land grants given years ago.

Efforts of counsel for the Government and the Western Union to settle out of court the injunction proceedings brought against Secretary Daniels to prohibit the Navy from interfering with cable work by the company at Miami, Fla., have failed, Justice Stafford, of the District of Columbia Supreme Court, was informed today. The court thereupon gave the company until next Wednesday to file briefs and allow the Government until Dec. 20 to prepare replies.

The attorneys sought to reach an agreement by which on the promise of the company that no attempt would be made to connect the Barbadoes cable at Miami the Government would permit the company to connect the ends of two other cable lines in the outer harbor. It is understood that the Western Union, however, wanted a formal court injunction while the agreement was in effect and the Government would not consent to this.

Newcomb Carlton, President of the Western Union Telegraph Company, said yesterday that there was no reason for members of Congress to feel indignant over the action of the company in making them pay cash for telegraph messages instead of allowing them the privilege of charging them to a Congressional account. The change, he said, was incidental to a readjustment of arrangements with the Government and was not directed against Congress or any other class of Government officials. The change of system was to have become effective on the last day of December, but at the request of the heads of Government departments another month was allowed to make readjustments.

Some years ago, when Government business was not of great volume, the Western Union extended to Government employes the right to send messages by wire collect. This enabled those in different parts of the country to transact official business by wire with Washington or with Government agents in other parts of the country. That plan worked well until the war came and with it an increase in the volume of "charged" business. The company, he said, not only lost money, but has had to maintain in Washington a central billing plant.

"The plan," said Mr. Carlton, "entailed a vast amount of work. The office which received the message had to fold it up and send it instead of cash to his auditor. The charge finally reached the billing station, and the sender of the message had to be identified, and finally the account reached the head of his department. Even then it was not necessarily paid. The head of the department might rule that the sender had no authority. In three years 40,000 messages dropped out of sight.

"The reasonableness of our position has appealed to the executive heads of the Government. We are particularly careful nowadays to look after our income, for we have a participation plan with our employes, and they share in the income. It is the employes in the field who are calling our attention to wasteful methods, and we are cutting out waste to give our employes better participation. The Government might well take a leaf out of our books. Another reason the Government executives are sympathetic to the plan is that it gives them a better chance to supervise messages and reduce unnecessary tolls."

WHITE PLAINS BANKER FLED FROM CREDITORS

Joseph H. Mead, Sued for $4,500, Went to Texas to Start Life Anew.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Dec. 10.—An attachment granted today by Supreme Court Justice Platt against the property of Joseph H. Mead, a former wealthy banker of this city, in favor of the Gramatan National Bank of Bronxville for $4,502.10 for notes past due, revealed the fact that Mr. and Mrs. Mead suddenly left White Plains in October last and now are residing at Fort Stockton, Texas.

The papers also show that Mr. Mead, who had been a Vice President of the Citizens' Bank and Secretary of the County Trust Company of White Plains, previous to his resignation from these institutions and branching out in the brokerage business, owes many creditors. It is said that he gave notes and other obligations aggregating between $40,000 and $50,000.

Mr. Mead's $20,000 residence in White Plains has been foreclosed.

LYNCH 3 'MID GRAVES AFTER RAID ON JAIL

California Mob Hangs Gangsters Accused of Murder of Sheriff and Detectives.

PLANS LAID IN ADVANCE

Cemetery Tree Had Been Selected and Ropes Attached When Automobiles Arrived With Prisoners.

SANTA ROSA, Cal., Dec. 10.—George Boyd, Terence Fitts and Charles Valento, accused of murdering Sheriff James A. Petray, of Sonoma county, and Detectives Miles Jackson and Lester M. Dorman here last Sunday afternoon, were taken from the county jail early this morning and hanged.

At 12:30 o'clock this morning a mob of about fifty men, all wearing black masks, entered the jail, overpowered the officers, took their keys and removed the prisoners to waiting automobiles.

Fifteen machines carried the party. They sped to a cemetery three blocks beyond the city limits. Ropes had been prepared. The men were taken from the machines and hanged to an oak tree inside the cemetery. The headlights of three automobiles were used to light the tree selected for the hanging.

Members of the mob were stationed outside the cemetery to prevent intrusion. The guards and many of the mob were armed.

Jail Officials Overpowered.

Not more than five minutes were required by the mob to enter the jail, overpower the officers and remove the prisoners. Within fifteen minutes the three alleged gangsters and murderers had been lynched.

The three men were ex-convicts, Boyd having served two terms, Fitts three and Valento one. Boyd and Valento were identified last Monday by three young women as members of a gang which attacked them at a house in Howard Street, San Francisco.

Two attempts to take the men from jail were made last Sunday night, a few hours after they had been arrested. One was frustrated by officers and the other failed when Mrs. Petray, widow of the slain Sheriff, begged friends not to countenance mob violence. When the three men were arrested a mob surrounded the jail and attempted to obtain the prisoners. The actions of the mob today indicated plans had been laid beforehand. Its members moved to the jail without ostentation, and a cordon was thrown about the structure.

Twelve men were detailed to approach the door. Six entered. Sheriff John Boyes, appointed after the death of Sheriff Petray, was in his private office with four deputies. The six were armed. They "covered" Boyes and his deputies and made them put up their hands. The officers were disarmed and the keys to the jail taken. Boyes pleaded with the six men in vain.

Taken From Cells in Underwear.

While some of the invaders guarded the officers, others went immediately to the cell of Boyd who, suffering from a wound, had been kept in a cell because the officers feared to send him to a hospital. Three steel doors had to be unlocked to reach him. He was on the ground floor. Fitts and Valento were in cells upstairs. The mob lieutenants went through two steel doors and took them, too.

All had been prearranged, even to acetylene torches to burn the locks off the cell doors. The three men when taken from their cells wore only underwear. This proved to be their death garb. The oak tree had already been selected. Over one limb hung three ropes and at the end of each was a noose, tied with the "hangman's knot" that fits behind the left ear.

Boyd made no struggle or comment. Valento expostulated, but not vehemently. Fitts fought to escape and was gagged with a towel. Rain drizzled down as the silent executioners hanged the men to the limbs of the old oak. Within half an hour from the time they went to the jail the executioners had dispersed.

Until nearly 3 o'clock the bodies hung, while hundreds of townspeople came in cars or afoot to see what the mob had done.

Dorothy Quinlan of San Francisco, companion of Valento, held in jail as a witness to the killing of the three officers, slept through the latest chapter of the drama.

Officials today said no members of the mob had been identified. Boyes early last evening received a telephone message that he "had better be at the cemetery at half past twelve as something was going to happen." He called four deputies to his office and tried to call others later, but discovered the telephone wires had been cut.

Had the three victims of the lynching lived, they would have faced the courts before noon today on the charge of murdering Petray, Jackson and Dorman.

BOSTON RECORD CUTS PRICE

Drops to One Cent and Will Reduce Size of Pages.

BOSTON, Dec. 10.—The Boston Evening Record announced today that, beginning next Monday, its price would be reduced from two cents to one. The pages will be reduced in size to a "convenient size" and the number of pages will be increased to a minimum of sixteen and may run to forty-eight daily.

The change in price is made, according to the announcement, in the face of high production costs, which have not yet reached the peak.

BLUE LAW AGITATORS LOSE FIRST COURT CASE

Suit to Stop Provincetown Players' Sunday Performances Is Dismissed.

The sun is not to be taken out of Sunday so far as the Provincetown Players are concerned, and Eugene O'Neill's play, "Emperor Jones," still is to be presented on Sundays. Magistrate Corrigan so decided in Jefferson Market Court yesterday, thus disposing of the case in the revived blue law campaign.

While Captain James F. Shaw of the Macdougal Street station, was the direct complainant against the players, the instigator was the New York Sabbath Committee, through its attorney, Crichton Powell.

Harry Weinberger of 31 Union Square appeared as attorney for James Light and Harry Kemp, who answered the summons. Captain Shaw testified that he procured the summons after receiving a communication (from the New York Sabbath Committee), through police channels, calling his attention to the performances. Detectives Alexander Malley and Frank Roth of Captain Shaw's staff testified that they had attempted to buy tickets for a performance, but had been informed they would "have to join the club" and obtain season tickets.

After the testimony of the detectives Mr. Weinberger moved for the dismissal of the complaint and Magistrate Corrigan complied.

Assistant District Attorney John Hogan then asked the Court what Captain Shaw should do if the Provincetown Players attempted to give a performance tomorrow. Magistrate Corrigan replied that he had decided they were committing no crime and that Captain Shaw should do nothing.

DIES SUDDENLY IN THEATRE.

Hugo Plager Stricken While Witnessing "Call the Doctor."

Hugo Plager, 45 years old, a wall paper manufacturer, who lived at 472 West End Avenue, died suddenly last night in the Empire Theatre, Broadway and Fortieth Street, where he had gone with Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Glendon of 283 Parkside Avenue, Brooklyn, to witness the performance of "Call the Doctor." The show was almost over when Mr. Plager remarked that he felt ill.

Mr. Glendon helped him to the office of the manager of the theatre and a call was sent to the New York Hospital for an ambulance. When the ambulance arrived, Dr. Russell said Mr. Plager was dead. The body was removed to the West Forty-seventh Street police station, and Mrs. Plager was notified of the death of her husband.

STRING TO LENIN GRANTS.

In Case of War With "Bourgeosie" They Would Be Seized.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

COPENHAGEN, Dec. 10.—A special dispatch to the Politiken from Riga says that at a conference of Communist organizations Lenin, replying to attacks on the Soviet Government on account of concessions given to foreign capitalists, declared that Soviet Russia, now as before, must be ready to war against the bourgeoisie. Should such a war break out all capital invested in concessions would naturally become the war booty of the Soviet Government. At present there were two projects of actual exploitation, Kamchatka, which was left to Americans, and the exploitation of several million hectares of forest land.

18 MONTHS IN PRISON FOR DRY LAW AGENT

Laverty Guilty of Extortion—Saloon Man and Aid Get Jail Terms and Fines.

WHISKY IN 'EMPTY BOTTLES'

Lackawanna Consignment Yields $25,000 in Liquor—Seize Seven Perth Amboy Stills.

Immediately after he sentenced Benson B. C. Laverty of 73 Johnson Street, Brooklyn, a prohibition enforcement agent, found guilty of extortion, to serve eighteen months in the Federal Prison in Atlanta, Federal Judge Chatfield, in Brooklyn, yesterday sentenced William Wierz, a saloon keeper, who pleaded guilty to selling liquor a third time, to six months in prison and to pay a fine of $500, which is the heaviest penalty yet imposed in this section for violating the Volstead act. The sentence is in line with the court's announced policy of severity for second and third offenders. Wierz's bartender, John Dempsey, was sentenced to five days in jail and to pay a fine of $100. The saloon conducted by Wierz is at Prospect Park West and Fifteenth Street, Brooklyn.

Laverty was convicted of accepting $200 from George Kahlendeck, owner of a road house at Hallett Avenue and Fresh Pond Road, Queens. Laverty told the court, in his plea for leniency, that he had been an efficient prohibition agent, and also that he was intoxicated that day. Laverty also faces two indictments for similar offenses, one in Brooklyn and the other in Manhattan. He was dropped from the department when the charges were made against him.

Two hundred and five barrels marked "empty bottles," delivered yesterday to the Lackawanna Railroad freight yards in Manhattan, were found by prohibition enforcement agents to include barrels that contained more than $25,000 worth of whisky. The stuff was seized and removed to a warehouse. Railroad officials, according to Supervisor Knox B. Phagan, said they knew neither the consignee nor the consignor. An examination showed that 1,540 bottles filled with whisky were nicely packed in thirty-seven barrels, while empty bottles filled 168 barrels.

The biggest raid on illegal liquor traffickers in the Perth Amboy section since the Volstead act became effective resulted in the seizure by Newark Federal prohibition enforcement agents of seven stills and seven barrels of mash at Roosevelt, N. J. Warrants have been issued for six residents of the place and are to be served today.

Henry Honig and Max Reich are in Rockland County Jail at New City, N. Y., charged with paying a bribe of $100 to Austin Conklin, foreman of the Rockland Grand Jury, to block the return of a true bill against Julius Honig, a confectioner at Suffern, N. Y., and brother of Henry Honig, on a charge of violating the State liquor tax law. Officers stationed in the Conklin house arrested them immediately after the alleged payment to Mr. Conklin on Thursday night. Mr. Conklin had reported the offer of a bribe to District Attorney Morton E. Lexow and the two arranged for the meeting at the former's home. Julius Honig was later arrested and held in $1,000 bail on a charge of violating the State liquor tax law.

took exception to the statement made by Mr. Barnes, counsel for the twenty-six reinsated members. In part he says:

"The allegations that Mrs. Stetson was removed from membership in the Mother Church because she stood for certain fundamental teachings of Christian Science has no basis whatever in fact. The charges upon which she was removed, as announced by the Christian Science Board of Directors on Nov. 18, 1909, are as follows: 'First, working against the interests of members of the Church who are not her followers and against the interests of this Church. Second, persisting in teaching and practices which are contrary to Christian Science.'

"That the action of the Board of Trustees of First Church in dismissing a considerable number of inactive members is another 'evidence of the ruses employed by the material heads of the church' to interfere with the efforts to preserve the true spiritual import of the teachings of Christian Science, as is alleged, is equally untrue." He added that the dismissals were because of inactivity and infrequent attendance upon church services.

Mrs. Stetson, who is alleged to be the storm centre of the present controversy, was not at home yesterday. It was said that she was out of town.

than it has up to the present time. That condition might exist in any other country in the world. Under the terms of this bill, as I understand them, if an Irishman seeks to escape in the end from the drastic measures adopted by the British Government and succeeds in getting a vessel which will carry him from his own shores and lands him in America, he will be returned by us to the British Government to be tried and convicted of treason perhaps, and perhaps to be hanged.

"I will not vote for any bill or law which proposes that a liberty loving citizen anywhere in the world, attempting a revolution at home to secure what he believes is his liberty and his right, driven from his shores and landing on ours, shall be turned over by our Government to another Government to be hanged.

"The same situation may arise in Mexico. It is said that the Guatemalan Government has a man in confinement who was formerly President of that Republic. If he should manage to escape and come here we would be compelled to return him to his Government for punishment. I doubt whether the time has come when liberty loving America should say 'We will not permit under any conditions the entrance into the United States of people from abroad who are being persecuted or prosecuted, as you please, because they are attempting to obtain freedom at home.'

"How far we ought to go in restricting immigration I do not undertake to say. For many years I voted against immigration bills in the House, but finally voted for the last one because we were told under the terms of that bill our Government would be able after the war to keep out the horde of immigrants that might seek our shores. Whether it is because of lack of enforcement of the law that this is not done I do not undertake to say. I have no doubt that everywhere people are looking to the United States as the land of liberty and safety. I am not willing to say that if they seek to establish good government at home by revolution we shall say, 'You cannot enter our doors.'"

$1,000,000 FOR BLUE LAWS.

Wilbur F. Crafts Says This Amount Will Be Spent in Three Years.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Expenditure of $1,000,000 during the next three years in safeguarding prohibition, extending the "blue laws" and amending the Federal Constitution so the United States will be designated a "Christian nation" is proposed by the International Reform Bureau, according to Wilbur F. Crafts, its Superintendent, who addressed the opening session of a conference on the subject here today.

FARMERS DEMAND 'JUSTICE.'

Organization to Minute Degree Urged at Farm Congress.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 10.—Organization of every agricultural community in the nation on an immense scale to fight the farmers' battles and obtain "economic justice" for producers of foodstuffs was urged by speakers today at the International Farm Congress here.

Unanimity of expression for organization developed, but leaders asserted that no special privilege was sought by farming interests. They made it plain that such organization had not been their creed, and was suggested now only as a measure to gain relief from an "intolerable economic situation," brought about by low prices for farm products. Speakers urged organizations, which would have their roots in townships and extend through counties and States to the nation's capital.

Dr. H. C. Taylor, Director of Farm Management and Economics of the Department of Agriculture, told the congress that Secretary Meredith would welcome a united voice on a united aim of agriculture.

SCHOOL CONTRACTOR PAID HETTRICK $2,000

Called to His Office and Told Money Would Make Labor Conditions Satisfactory.

ONE PER CENT. COMMISSION

Committee of School Board to Resume Independent Inquiry Next Week.

The Committee on Buildings and Sites of the Board of Education, Dr. John A. Ferguson, Chairman, is conducting an investigation of its own into the contracts with builders and others on the public schools of this city. It held a meeting yesterday, at which Assistant Corporation Counsel Mayer was present, and examined twenty-nine contractors who represent seventy-five contracts on school buildings. The majority of them denied collusion in bids.

Daniel J. Rice, who has the heating and ventilating contracts on P. S. 182, Brooklyn, admitted, however, having relations with John T. Hettrick. He said that he had received through the mail a note from Mr. Hettricks office, at 165 Broadway, requesting him to call there. He did so, and was told that it would be and advantage to him in his business tobe long to the Hettrick Code of Practice and that satisfactory relations with the labor forces might thus be obtained.

He was the lowest bidder on P. S. 182, the amount being $153,300. The other bidders were the E. Rutzler Company for $159,390, the Austin Engineering Company for $159,375, William J. Olvany for $159,490 and Gillis Geoghegan for $155,300.

He said that when about to make his bid he telephoned to Hettrick's office and that he had paid $250 to get his name on the Hettrick Code of Practice and had also paid $1,530 to Hettrick, which was 1 per cent. of his school contract. The work on the school had not been completed and all that he had so far received for work done was $27,000.

The contract with the Board of Education was made on April 19, 1920. He believed, he said, that all those who had put in bids on the school buildings had talked with Hettrick. He submitted his bid to Hettrick, who said that it was O. K. It was then submitted to Superintendent of Buildings Snyder of the Board of Education.

He also had a contract for Public School 17, Richmond, which amounted to $2,590, and for Public School 43 and Public School 53, Manhattan, which amounted together to $3,253. He had not submitted these contracts to Hettrick and had not paid him anything on them. He thought that he had paid Hettrick in all about $2,000, and that his last payment was in July and came to $1,000.

When he paid the sums to Hettrick he was told that the labor conditions would be satisfactory. He was informed that when his bids were sent to Hettrick's office they would be received by a secretary there who would compare them with other bids, but would not reveal the amount to any one who was bidding.

Robert Noah of the Noah-Brady Company, contractors, testified that he had a contract for a boiler in Public School 74, Manhattan, and that he had paid Hettrick $250 for his code of practice, but that the bid was not the lowest and so he had not procured the contract.

Dr. John A. Ferguson said that the Board of Education was making the investigation on its own account, but would lay whatever information it obtained before the Corporation Counsel. The committee will hold its next hearing on Thursday, Dec. 16.

WESTERN UNION OPENS LONGEST LAND WIRE

Starts Direct Communication With Seattle Over 3,381 Miles of Single Copper Strand.

The Western Union Telegraph Company opened yesterday direct communication with Seattle. When an operator at 24 Walker Street, New York, and another in the Western Union Building in Seattle started exchanging four messages at once—two from each end—the longest transcontinental circuit in the country was put into operation.

The circuit is of the "printer" type, the operator at each end stamping out a tape and machines doing the rest of the work. Throughout the 3,381 miles of the circuit there are no manual relays, mechanical repeaters being used to send the dots and dashes from coast to coast.

The single strand of copper wire, grounded at either end, over which through messages hereafter will be sent runs from New York to Chicago, thence to Minneapolis, Helena, Spokane and Seattle.

The termini are equipped with the most modern multiplex, which permits the transmission of four messages simultaneously each way. The capacity of the circuit is approximately 225 messages each way per hour. The construction consists of what is known as nine-gauge copper wire, which runs 210 pounds weight to the mile, and the poles are set 110 feet apart throughout the entire distance. On the basis of yesterday's market price for copper wire, 18 cents a pound, it has cost a little more than $125,000 for the wire. The cost of construction, including labor and material, runs approximately $70 per mile.

The first messages exchanged over the wire included one from Mayor Hugh M. Caldwell of Seattle, a reply from Francis P. Bent in behalf of Mayor Hylan, and exchanges between S. H. Hedges, President of the Seattle Chamber of Commerce, and Darwin P. Kingsley, President of the New York Chamber of Commerce and Charles P. Gwynne, Secretary of that organization.

BOMB KILLS TWO IN RUMANIAN SENATE

Large Number of Other Members Wounded—Martial Law in Kingdom Reported.

LONDON, Dec. 10.—A bomb was thrown among members of the Rumanian Senate on Thursday afternoon shortly after it had assembled and M. Greceanu, a member of the Ministry, and Bishop Radu were killed, says a Central News dispatch from Bucharest dated Thursday.

Another Minister, M. Saleanu, General Coanda, two Bishops and several other members of the Senate were dangerously wounded.

A large number of others were slightly hurt.

Reports that martial law had been proclaimed in Rumania were current today.

The bomb throwing is believed to be directly connected with the unrest prevailing throughout Rumania. Strikes of various sorts have been in progress there and the Government recently ordered the military forces to use all means, including bombs and gas, to suppress disorders.

INDICT 30 BUILDERS; HETTRICK RING QUITS

Cut Stone Contractors' Association Disbands as Members Face Trial.

PROMISE TO AID INQUIRY

Charged With Conspiracy to Restrain Trade—Total Indictments to Date Fifty-five.

Thirty members of the Cut Stone Contractors' Association were indicted by the new Extraordinary Grand Jury yesterday for violating the Donnelly antitrust law by conspiring to restrain trade.

Samuel Untermyer, counsel for the Lockwood committee, in asking yesterday that comparatively low bail be fixed for the indicted men, announced that they had already disbanded their organization, which was the principal Hettrick organization in the city and used his famous "Code of Practice."

Mr. Untermyer also said that the indicted men had promised to co-operate hereafter with the Lockwood committee. This is the second building organization to die by its own hand. The other is the Masons' Supply Bureau of Brooklyn. The voluntary disintegration of several of the other associations in the building ring is expected in the next few days.

John T. Hettrick, the lawyer who originated the "Code of Practise" and is accused of being the brain of the system of building combinations in New York City, was not named as one of those indicted. The names of twenty-nine of the thirty were made public. Lawyers presenting the case to the new Extraordinary Grand Jury which found the indictments refused to indicate the unnamed person. Mr. Hettrick has been staying at his home in Seabright, N. J., ever since his appearance before the Lockwood Committee six weeks ago.

The following are those named in yesterday's indictment:

Edwin Shuttleworth Company, Edwin Shuttleworth, Rudolph Sues, James Gillies & Son, Inc., John Gillies, H. J. Horner & Son, Pierre J. Horner, Barr, Thaw & Fraser Company, George G. Barr, Monahan Stone Company, John F. Monahan, William Bradley & Son, E. J. Kelly, B. A. and G. N. Williams, Inc., Herbert D. Brown, George Brown & Co., Gilbert C. Brown, James McLaren & Sons, James McLaren, J. J. Spurr & Sons, Edwin R. Spurr, Henry Hanlein, Durie & Davidson, John Davidson the Younger, David Miller Company, John E. Miller, John R. Smith's Sons, Inc., Clarence P. Smith, Nelson Brothers Company, James Nelson.

The indictment says the defendants competed up to Oct. 1, 1919, then agreed that no member should bid on cut stone work and close no contract till Hettrick approved, and should pay 4 per cent. of the gross price to the association, 1 per cent. for Hettrick. The indictment also charges a scheme to bid in bad faith to deceive builders.

Nine of the men indicted belong to the "Court House ring" conspiracy. It was in connection with this job that Hettrick wrote to Mayor Hylan promising that the building trades unions would indorse his administration if the Mayor would expedite the Court House work. Mayor Hylan came out in print with letters and statements at various times during the Court House controversy in favor of the use of limestone in the Court House. The limestone men were clients of Hettrick.

Others of those indicted were interested in having the trimming on the city schools done in limestone instead of terra cotta.

The twenty-nine indicted men who were named were represented in court before Supreme Court Justice McAvoy and were released in bail of $5,000 each. Ex-Judge Clarence J. Shearn, their counsel, issued a statement in which he said:

"There has been no profiteering or anything approaching it. I have examined their reports, and not one shows a net profit for the period of the last five years.

"My clients have no desire to dodge or hide the facts, however unpleasant. In any event, they did only what larger interests have done for a generation with impunity, and at every stage of the matter acted upon legal advice which they believed to be sound and competent."

In all fifty-five persons and corporations have been indicted as a result of the disclosures of the Lockwood committee. These include Robert P. Brindell, his lieutenant, Peter Stadtmuller; George P. Backer, the builder, whose trial for perjury resulted in a disagreement; Joseph Moran, charged with extortion; Wright D. Goss, John A. Philbrick and Joseph Penny, indicted for refusing to answer questions; the sixteen members of the Builders' Supply Bureau, accused of destroying minutes; William H. Chapman, accused of extortion; an unnamed defendant and the thirty indicted yesterday.

PERSIAN RUGS FOR HORSES.

Szemszo, Vienna Gambler, Had Them Hung in His Stables.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, Dec. 10.—The figure of Julius von Szemszo, who has been arrested in connection with a game of baccarat at which he won 28,000,000 kronen, becomes more picturesque as further details come to light. He has been known as a somewhat reckless player, and only recently in a Ringstrasse café he lost more than 4,000,000 kronen at a single sitting. In his grandest manner he once gave a bachelors' party at his house, the Szemszo palace, and arranged that one of the famous gypsy orchestras from Budapest should attend.

Unfortunately the harmony was spoiled by the non-attendance of the bass violinist, who had been arrested at the frontier for hiding some 10,000,000 kronen in the cavity of his instrument, presumably on Szemszo's orders.

Szemszo is luxurious in his tastes. In his magnificent wardrobe the police found eighty dozen pairs of faultless gloves, while his silver plate and table services were on an equally grand scale. Nor did he forget his seven race horses. Their stalls were lighted by large plate-glass windows, and Persian carpets were carefully hung so as to shield them from drafts.

Szemszo confessed that he often gave card parties in his palace, and that one evening recently he won some 8,000,000 kronen from his guests.

Award Made by Direction of President for Work in War.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Announcement that Secretary Baker, at the direction of the President, had awarded the Distinguished Service Medal to Bernard M. Baruch, former Chairman of the War Industries Board, in recognition of his services in that capacity, was made at a reunion dinner here tonight for former officials of the board. A letter from the President expressing his appreciation of the "indispensable work" of the board under Mr. Baruch's leadership was read.

Discussing the present industrial situation in an after-dinner speech, Mr. Baruch said no question bore more directly on economic conditions in this country and the world than that of a final determination of the amount of the reparation to be paid by Germany to the allied powers. The tremendous markets which Germany afforded for the manufactures and raw materials of this country before the war, he said, would not be again thrown open until Germany had been enabled to "get down to work" through a stabilization resulting from definite settlement of the reparations question.

MYSTERY IN EXPLOSION.

Blow-Up in Fifty-third Street Awakens Sleepers in Neighborhood.

A myterious explosion occurred early this morning in front of the Wawbeek apartment house at 143 East Fifty-third Street. The report was heard by Fireman Walter Hegestrom of Engine Company 8, who was walking in Lexington Avenue at the time. He notified Detective John Walsh of the East Fifty-first Street station and Inspector Callhan of the Bureau of Combustibles, who is stationed at the Engine Company 8 firehouse. An investigation disclosed traces of a liquid believed to be sulphuric acid, on the stoop of the house.

The police scout the theory that the explosion was caused by a bomb. The noise awakened the occupants of houses in the neighborhood.

VIOLENT EARTH SHOCKS.

Southern Honduras and Western Nicaragua Severely Shaken.

SAN SALVADOR, Republic of Salvador, Dec. 10.—Terrific earthquakes have occurred in Choluteca, Southern Honduras, according to reports received here today, but details are lacking.

Very violent shocks also were felt on Wednesday in Chinandega and Corinto, Western Nicaragua, twenty-five earth tremors shaking Corinto.

MARBLE DEALERS GRIPPED COUNTRY

and a guess was made that the sum would about equal the time lost and the expenses of representatives of the employers if they went to Indianapolis to confer with the labor men.

The money went to William J. Bowen, President of the Brick Masons and Plasterers' International Union; Thomas C. Preece, First Vice President and J. William Dobson, Secretary. Bowen is said to be one of the wealthiest labor leaders in the United States and is a power in the American Federation of Labor, which sent him to England recently to attend a gathering of British trade unions as a representative of the trade unionists of this country.

In order to disguise the payments to the labor leaders the payments were entered on the records of the employers as "extraordinary expenses," "special expenses," "advice and information." One of the payments was made for "campaign expenses," ostensibly to aid the union officials to continue themselves in power when they were up for re-election.

Announcement was made yesterday by Mr. Untermyer that he received a letter from the Masons' Supply Bureau of Brooklyn in which J. Morton Halstead of the bureau announced that at a meeting attended by eleven of the fourteen members of the bureau it had been decided to disband the organization. The committee was gratified to learn that the bureau, which consisted of dealers controlling building materials in Brooklyn, had decided to give up functioning, and it was predicted that similar organizations would follow suit.

Morris H. Petigor, a soda fountain manufacturer of 216 East Forty-second Street, also controlling the Oceanic Marble Company and the Howden Tile and Manufacturing Company, told the committee that his tile and marble business had been ruined by the Marble Industry Employers' Association in conjunction with the three marble trade unions.

Petigor told of five instances in which he was hounded by the union men, who carried out the orders of the employers. The first had to do with a job for marble work at Fifth Avenue and Seventy-fourth Street. A delegate of one of the unions suggested that he join the employers' organization. He demurred to paying an initiation fee of $500 and dues of $45 a month, but changed his mind when he was visited by Patrick Crowley, Joseph Lazanofsky and a delegate named Dunphrey, representing the three marble workers' unions. They told him he would have to join the employers' association and that they would not permit him to have union men if he refused.

Petigor sent his check to the association, but received no reply. He wrote three letters, and on May 2, 1917, his check was returned. He could not get any explanation of the reason why he was rejected. Later he learned that it was because he had made a bid for a contract lower than a member of the association. The union referred his request for an explanation of their failure to supply him with workers to the national organization at Indianapolis, and Mr. Untermyer read the union's reply, which he said was a "gem."

Contractor Frozen Out.

The letter said:

The Bricklayers, Masons and Plasterers' International Union of America.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 17, 1917.

Mr. Harry Marcus, Secretary, Oceanic Marble Company, Brooklyn:

Dear Sir—Replying to yours of May 10, asking for a reply to your request to be permitted to use marble cutters and setters of our organization, I wish to say that our Executive Board, after due consideration, feels that it would not be doing its duty to other employers of our men if we permitted your firm to use members of our union. Therefore you must transact your business in whatever way you feel disposed, independent of any assistance or association from us.

Yours very truly,
J. WILLIAM DOBSON, Secretary.

Q.—Now, was there any way in which you could transact your business? A.—No, sir.

Q.—So that that meant you could not transact any business at all, didn't it? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—You could not do any business because you did not belong to the Employers' Association, and the Employers' Association wouldn't let you in? A.—Correct.

Q.—So, being thus between the devil and the deep sea what did you do? A.—I was forced to let this contract to somebody who is a member of that association, and pay about 45 per cent. more than I originally bargained for the work.

Then Petigor applied for individual membership in the employers' association and was again rebuffed without any explanation and his check returned. Petigor said that he was a member of the employers' association in the tile industry and was in this way affiliated with the Building Trades Employers' Association, but the union insisted that he join the marble employers' organization as well.

How the Boycott Worked.

His second experience was on a contract for the Nameloc Co., 43-51 West Thirty-sixth Street. He was unable to get men from the three unions and was forced to give up the work to a member of the employers' association and pay an additional 45 per cent. above his contract price. Subsequently he signed a contract with the unions on their own terms but they failed to give him men, as he was not a member of the employers' organization. He had to sublet the contract to Haick & Co. He took another contract, this time for the marble work on the Holland Building, Fifth Avenue and Thirtieth Street, and had a similar experience. Work for which he contracted to charge $2,500 he was forced to sublet for $4,500. His fifth experience was on the Beth Moses Hospital in Brooklyn. As he could not get men to do the work he sublet it to the Eastern Marble Co. for $6,000. His own price was $3,500.

It was on the contract for the marble work on the Hebrew Guardian and Sheltering Society, 425 Lafayette Street, said Petigor, that a union delegate threatened to drive him out of business if he did not give up the contract to the firm of Di Paolo & Kelly of 229 West Twenty-ninth Street. Thomas J Kelly is Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Building Trades Employers' Association. This contract was for terrazzo work and was worth $30,000. He struck a snag shortly after he took the job. The union of mosaic workers notified him that it had adopted a resolution forbidding work on the building under penalty of $500 fine. No reason was given, said the witness, but he knew the reason at once and gave the "reason" as Kelly.

The union men demanded that he rescind his contract and permit Kelly to do it.

Q.—What did you do about it? A.—I told them I would not do it, and they said, "If you don't do it we will put you out of the tile business, the same as we put you out of the marble business," and he says, "You know that my word goes; when I say it I do it; I did it with the Oceanic and I will do it with the Howden Tile."

Q.—Who said this? A.—Mr. Price, the representative of the International.

Q.—The International Union? A.—Yes, sir, the same as——

Q.—Plasterers, masons—— A.—Yes; and to my surprise—he was a man of his word, he immediately ordered a special meeting to be called by the President of the Mantle Association and he summoned Mr. Howden and they wanted to take his labor away with the tile work.

Q.—Go on. A.—But Mr. Howden is too long in the business, and he knows his ground pretty well.

Q.—Yes? A.—And he said he cannot understand why Mr. Price is here at this meeting. He said, "I understand that Mr. Price represents the labor; he cannot represent both. I refuse to answer any questions."

Q.—Yes. And the meeting was then adjourned, or they dismissed the complaint.

Q.—What happened to you? A.—We could get no labor, and we have tried all we could with the union, reasoned with the delegate, and we could not get it.

Q.—Did you ever do anything unfair to union labor? A.—Never.

Q.—Have you ever had any complaints of being unfair to union labor? A.—None at all, sir.

Q.—What effect has all this had upon your marble and your tile and your mosaic business? A.—It ruined me.

After the testimony concerning Mr. Kelly of the Building Trades Employers' Association had been given by Petigor, the name of Kelly was called out by Mr. Untermyer, as it was understood he would be permitted to attempt a rebuttal of the witness. There was no response.

Joseph G. Siegel, a builder, of 59 Livingston Street, Brooklyn, said that he received three bids for the marble work on the Earlington Hotel, 49 West Twenty-seventh Street, which he was converting into an office building. Two members of the Marble Employers' Association bid $97,000 and $99,000, respectively, and an outsider, Daniel M. Rader, whom he came upon accidentally, bid $57,000. Rader got the job, but a week later David Danahy of the Marble Cutters' Union and one Price of the Plasterers' informed him Rader was a "scab" and that if he continued having the work done by Rader all the employes in the other trades would walk off the building.

Brindell Ordered Work Stopped.

Q.—Did he say whose orders he was carrying out? A.—I will come to that. About two days later Mr. Danahy pulled all the other trades off the building, and that meant the whole building was at a standstill. I called Mr. Danahy and said, "What are you doing?" He said, "I have got orders from Mr. Brindell to pull this job." I said, "I haven't done anything wrong. I have got union men and everybody else on the job are union, and, assuming that these men in the shop are scabs, the men on the job are union. What difference does that make?" He says, "Well, we can't allow those men to work. That is all these is to it. The best thing for you to do is to go out and get one of the men who belong to the association to do the job."

Because of the trouble the owners of the building decided to omit all marble work and use only plaster. The marble work that had been erected was ripped out, and Siegel asked Danahy to permit the other workers to continue on the job. Danahy replied: "You intended to put marble on this job, and you are going to put it on, otherwise you will have a monument on your hands instead of a building."

Siegel made haste to give the contract to the C. M. Gray Marble Works, as was Brindell's intention, he said. He asked permission of Danahy to go on with the other work on the building, and Danahy said the work could continue if Mr. Rosenbaum of the Gray concern was satisfied. The next day the trades which struck returned to work.

Builders Gouged on Labor.

Fertig, the next witness, who said his salary from the Marble Industry Employers' Association was $10,000 a year, reluctantly testified as to the workings of the local and national associations. Fertig gave the standard rates adopted on May 1, 1920, showing the rate of labor charged builders for day's work by the thirty-six members of the Marble Industrial Employers' Association and the union scale. Here are the rates:

	Union Scale May 1, 1920.	Charge to Employers.
Building foreman (setter)..	$10.00	$16.25

Fertig readily admitted that the organizations were governed by Codes of Practice, one of the rules being that a contractor could not throw out bids, but had to accept one of the original bids. If he thought the bids had been matched and were too high he had no recourse. The owner, according to one of the rules, was not permitted to dicker for a figure lower than the lowest named to him. The Code of Practice was binding, said Fertig, who declared that the national association's code was similar. When asked whether such a condition did not "paralyze competition," Fertig admitted it did.

August R. Zicha of the Cork & Zicha Marble Company, Long Island City, testified that he was invited by the P. J. Carlin Construction Company to bid on the marble construction work on the Queens County Court House in June, 1916. His bid was for $62,509 and was accepted. Subsequently he was commanded to appear before the Executive Committee of the marble men's organization and was informed he could not do the work, as he was not the original bidder, that Mr. Carlin had received other bids on the work previously. He told the committee he felt entitled to the work because the Carlin Company was submitting a revised bid. He was found guilty of violating the Code of Practice and was not permitted to do the work. He was not expelled, because he promised not to violate the rules again.

The committee will meet on Tuesday at 10:30 A. M. in the City Hall.

On the night of December 7th the annual ball of the Knickerbocker Ice Men was held at Palm Garden. The ball was preceded by a vaudeville show. Dancing began at eleven o'clock and not until the "wee small hours" was "Home, Sweet Home," played. Yet—not a single report of "late Wednesday morning" has come in.

So uniformly regular is Knickerbocker Service you can "almost set your clock by the driver's arrival." Patrons say it is much easier to keep servants because Knickerbocker helps to run the house "like clockwork."

UNIONS JOIN TO RULE ALL NEEDLE TRADES

New Alliance Reaching Out for Every Local Body in Entire Industry.

FACE TEST HERE NEXT WEEK

Manufacturers Will Then Ask Men to Start at New Piece-Work Rates.

The tentacles of the newly formed "one big union" of needle trades workers, comprising five organizations of about 400,000 workers, began reaching out yesterday to all manuufacturing centres for every local union in the garment industry. It is the plan of the organizers to form a combination that will seek to enforce the demands of any one of the subsidiaries wherever made in the industry.

It is expected that first test of the strength of the coalition will come when the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America open battle next week with the Clothing Manufacturers' Association over the piece work system and the "open shop." Neither union nor association thinks it possible now to avert this test, and both are preparing for a long fight.

One of the aims is to put this new labor power behind the 170,000 members of the Amalgamated so that they may win what some of the union officials believe might otherwise be a hopeless fight. The new organization will give financial aid, and will also seek to prevent any of the members of the four allied unions from doing any sort of work that would aid the manufacturers opposed by the Amalgamated.

In some other strikes manufacturers of men's suits have been able to place orders in shops where women's suits have been made, but the new and dominating union will try to stop this, so that no manufacturer in this city will be able to get any work done anywhere until he comes to terms with his own workers. Every needle worker will be bound not to go to work in a shop where members of another unit of the "one big union" are not working because of dispute over wages or working conditions.

Union Chiefs to Meet on Sunday.

Preparing for the clash with manufacturers, Sidney Hillman yesterday sent out a call to the heads of all the local unions of the amalgamated to come to this city for conference on Sunday. While they are here they will also discuss some of the details of the new and larger organization, which is to be called the Needle Trades Workers' Alliance. Heads of other unions also will confer on the new alliance.

There were indications yesterday that the dispute over wages and working conditions might go beyond the issues involved between the amalgamated union and the clothing manufacturers, and that the five allied organizations might be lined up in war against all the garment manufacturers in this city. An unverified report yesterday was that the manufacturers themselves might ally in a "super-association" to fight what some of them have called a "menace to society."

With the abrogation of the wage agreement between the Children's Dress Manufacturers' Association and the branch of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union employed in that industry, has come a crisis similar to the first incident in the dispute between the Amalgamated Union and the employing manufacturers. The original contract in the children's dress field expired in September, and negotiations have been in progress for a renewal of the agreement.

The union reported that it would flatly refuse any request of the children's dress manufacturers for a minimum scale of production and minimum wage. About 5,000 members of the Garment Workers' Union are engaged in this work when the shops are running at full production.

There have been unverified rumors also that the cloak and suit trades might become involved, as well as some of their allied fields. Some of the smaller branches of unions in these fields have reported dissatisfaction with agreements, as have smaller locals in fields as yet undisturbed by rumors of impending readjustments.

Representatives of the five unions deliberated for several hours yesterday at the Hotel McAlpin on the plans of organization, and it was announced that officers probably would be elected today. The Governing Board of the alliance is to comprise fifteen members, five members each from the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, the Furriers' Union, the Journeymen Tailors and the United Cloth Hat and Cap Makers' Union.

Schlesinger May Head Alliance.

The temporary chairman of the alliance and one of the principal organizers is Benjamin Schlesinger, President of the International, who has made an extensive study of economic and social conditions in the last year in Germany and in Soviet Russia. It is anticipated among union officials that he will be the head of the super-union of garment workers. Another prominent adviser in the formation of the new alliance is Abraham I. Shiplacoff, formerly a Socialist member of the Assembly and former secretary of the United Hebrew Trades. He is now an officer of the Amalgamated.

Whether this new alliance will seek affiliation with the American Federation of Labor apparently has not yet been decided by the several leaders. Three of the organizations already are affiliated, but the Amalgamated, now about to clash with the manufacturers, and the Cap Makers' never have been affiliated. Their membership comprises nearly one-half the total in the new alliance. Replying to a question as to whether entrance of the Amalgamated into the new alliance meant that it sought affiliation with the federation through co-operation with other organizations affiliated with the A. F. of L., President Hillman said:

"When we get ready to join the American Federation of Labor we will go in by the front door. We are not antagonistic to the A. F. of L."

Nor do any of the officials of the affiliated organizations believe that the new alliance will alter their relations with the coalition of affiliated unions headed by Samuel Gompers. They will retain their affiliation as always.

Manufacturers State Case.

A new schedule of piece-work charges will be presented by a committee this morning at a meeting of the Clothing Manufacturers' Association in the Hotel Brevoort, and will be posted in the shops on Monday or Tuesday. Then workers will be invited to come in to start work on the garments for next season's trade. William Bandler, President of the association, yesterday gave out this statement:

"The attention of the association has been called to the fact that Mr. Hillman persists in charging that specific members of the association have locked out their workers. The charge is absolutely without basis and fact and made out of whole cloth, because there is no or little business.

"Certain manufacturers are compelled to lay off workers for a few days and until they get more business. This is not a new situation. It has been going on for over six months, and is customary between seasons.

"In the near future, and under the direction of the association, its membership will announce the plan for the resumption of operations, upon a basis whereby each individual worker will be responsible for a standard of production based on a competitive basis with other markets wherever the Amalgamated Union workers are employed. It is only a matter of days, therefore, when the fact will be clearly established whether it is a precipitated lockout by the manufacturers or a strike called by the union."

Other manufacturers yesterday denied assertions of union officials that "lockouts" had been established in their factories. Cohen & Lang denied they had shut out any of their 2,000 employes, but said that "the truth is that owing to lack of business our factories have been closed for some four or five weeks, and we were obliged at that time to lay off the help in our shipping and stock rooms." Zeeman & Grossman denied the "lockout" and "sweat shop" charges, and said they dismissed their 485 employes several weeks ago because they were unable to produce clothing at a cost that would meet the market demands. Labor costs were found to be "about 33 per cent. higher than the labor costs in the other markets where they are working under an agreement with the same Amalgamated Union," their statement said. Fruhaff Brothers & Co. made the same denial.

ASSAIL BOSTON CLOTHIERS.

Amalgamated Says They Profit by "Curse of Unemployment."

BOSTON, Dec. 10.—The Boston branch of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America today pledged its members to "support, defend and protect our organization, rights and working conditions against all attacks," and declared that the organization will "never permit the restoration of the ancient rule of arbitrary power and sweatshop conditions in our industry."

The resolution adopted refers to the abrogation by the Clothing Manufacturers Association of Boston of its agreement with the Amalgamated, and says:

"The true cause of the abrogation is not the uncalled for, unfounded and unjustified allegations, but the fact that there is now a state of universal unemployment in all industries, and our employers are seeking to profit by this social curse of unemployment, and are seeking to demoralize our organization and working conditions, for which purpose they deem it necessary to free themselves from the obligation implied in the agreement."

A. Miller, manager of the Joint Board of the Boston Branch, said:

"Capital has seized what it believes to be the opportune time to break down the labor movement and has given us the honor of being the first to be attacked. With the present depression they believe the time is right to establish the open shop. We want peace, but if they stand committed to the open shop they are going to have one of the biggest labor fights in the history of this or any other country."

MRS. HAMON GUARDED.

Detectives Watch Chicago Home of Slain Politician's Widow.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—Mrs. Jake L. Hamon, widow of the Oklahoma oil man and politician, who was slain in a hotel at Ardmore, returned from Oklahoma today, accompanied by her daughter. It has been reported that in her absence her apartments in Sheridan Road had been entered and papers and letters stolen in search of evidence bearing on the death of her husband and his relations with Clara Smith Hamon.

Two detectives have been employed to guard Mrs. Hamon and her daughter and they are on duty day and night, armed and ready to repel invaders. All the servants have been instructed to admit no one, to answer no telephone calls and to refuse to converse with any one about household affairs.

Mrs. Hamon declines to see any one or to comment in any manner on the tragedy. Her daughter went for a ride along the North Shore today, accompanied by a detective.

FORT WORTH, Texas, Dec. 10.—Clara Smith Hamon failed to appear at the offices of her attorneys, McLean, Scott & McLean, here today as had been expected. All arrangements had been made for her reception and the law firm's outer offices were filled all day with newspaper men. Motion-picture cameras were set up in the street, and once when a young woman reporter hurried up to interview Mr. McLean a camera man ground madly.

The fugitive was not to be arrested while in Fort Worth, it was understood, but was to be permitted to return to Ardmore. Preparation had been made to make her submission to the law as convenient as possible, and it was understood she would leave the train somewhere west of Fort Worth and be driven into the city in an automobile.

Once here, she was to be interviewed by the law firm and then permitted to resume her journey to Oklahoma. The meeting in the law office was scheduled for noon.

SENATE COMMITTEE GETS CABLE FACTS

Davis Explains Situation in Pacific Over Japan's Insistence on Yap Island.

CONFERENCE STILL AT ODDS

French and Japanese, It Is Said, Are Opposing Compromises Offered by United States.

Special to the New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Norman H. Davis, Acting Secretary of State in the absence of Secretary Colby, laid before the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations today a statement of the situation which has arisen over the Japanese effort to control German cable landing stations on the Island of Yap, and which involves the broader question of the economic and strategic control of the Pacific Ocean. The situation has become so complex and annoying that the Administration deemed it wise to take the Senate committee into its confidence with a view to preparing it for developments and to obtain its guidance in handling the situation.

It became known today that the State Department had taken up the matter with the British Government, which it has notified that in no circumstances will the United States recognize the exclusive rights to cable landings in Yap claimed by Japan.

Under Secretary Davis was before the Senate Committee for nearly two hours. He went into the Island of Yap phase of the Pacific problems with great detail and it is understood that the committee was practically unanimous in suporting the State Department's position. It is understood that Mr. Davis placed the State Department's entire case before the committee. Mr. Davis also gave to the committee much information relative to the Atlantic cable situation, and it is understood that the position of the committee is that prewar conditions should be re-established, as soon as possible in the Atlantic, especially with regard to cable connections with Germany. Senator Lodge, Chairman of the committee, said afterward that he was not prepared to make a statement as to what had been discussed at the committee's meeting, which was held behind closed doors.

Holds Yap Was Not in Decision.

The United States contends that Yap was not included in the decision at Paris concerning the disposition of Pacific islands between Japan, Australia and New Zealand. President Wilson himself stated the American view and made reservations covering Yap which were never contradicted.

The State Department holds that Yap is a necessary point for international radio and cable stations, and that it should not be controlled by any one power, and, in any event, should be open to all nations.

The United States would not object to the use of any of its own unfortified islands by any other nation for radio or cable purposes, and has sought, at the International Communications Conference here, to obtain recognition of the principle, advanced by the American delegation, that islands unfortified, wherever located, and necessary to the use of radio and cable, should be at the disposal of all nations for such purposes.

Japan's position is understood to have been supported by one communication from the British Government, but the State Department has made further representations, indicating that this Government will not yield its own claims, which rest on the proceedings of the Peace Conference and the Supreme Council.

There were indications today that the deadlock in the communications conference is unlikely to be broken at an early date, and that the solution may have to be found by the next Administration. As far as can be learned, Senate leaders approve of the course taken by the State Department, and it is possible that a resolution covering the subject may be presented to the Senate, adoption of which would further strengthen the State Department in its efforts to find an early solution. Final decisions are not in the hands of the delegates to the communications conference, but of their respective Governments, which seem to wish, it is said, to exclude the United States from benefits to be derived from the distribution of the former German cables.

Communications Conference at Odds.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (Associated Press).—Disagreement between the representatives of the principal allied and associated powers over the disposition of the former German cables is understood to have about reached a point threatening disruption of the preliminary International Communications Conference, which has been in session here for some weeks.

The United States, Great Britain and Italy are said to have reached an accord on most of the principal points at issue, but France and Japan have refused to accede to the major proposals advanced by the United States and Italy and upon which the American and Italian Governments insist.

So far as the United States is concerned, the principal issues are control of the cable lines centring at the Island of Yap, in the Pacific Ocean, and a direct line between the United States and Italy. Italy is joining with the United States in insisting upon the direct cable between the two countries.

A plenary session of the delegates to the communications conference scheduled for today was not held, it was said, because of the impossibility of reaching an understanding among the chiefs of the delegations of the five powers who met last night informally in an effort to bring about a compromise.

At this informal conference, it is understood, a proposal was brought forward that instead of proceeding in the attempt for the distribution of the cables among the five powers, an agreement be reached for joint ownership of the lines. The United States, Great Britain and Italy are said to have supported this plan and France and Japan to have opposed it.

Internationalization Is Opposed.

Internationalization of islands such as Yap, serving as the centre for cable communication, also is reported to have been brought forward at the informal meeting last night, but Japan and France are said to have opposed it.

According to information today in official circles the American Government has proposed that a compromise be effected on the distribution of the cables emanating from Yap and now in the hands of Japan by the allocation of the Guam-Yap cable to the United States, that of the Yap-Dutch Indies cable to Holland and the Yap-Shanghai cable to Japan. This plan, however, is understood to have met with the disapproval of the Japanese delegates, who contended that Japan should retain at least a half interest in the Guam-Yap cable as well as in the Yap-Dutch Indies cable.

A proposal of the American delegation that the German cable in possession of France and extending from New York to Brest via the Azores be diverted from the Azores to Genoa, Italy, and divided between Italy and the United States, is said to have met with the determined opposition of France. It has also been proposed that the cable between South America and Africa, the Monrovia-Pernambuco cable, be jointly owned by the United States and France.

So far as the transatlantic cable from Halifax to Penzance is concerned, Great Britain, which now controls it, has acceded to the desire of the American Government that this line be restored to its former connection between New York and Emden, Germany, in consideration of the transfer to Great Britain of one of the American transatlantic cables between England and Canada.

Senators said that Secretary Davis had informed them, however, that a disposition on the part of Great Britain to obtain operating control of the German cables now worked under its authority formed another phase of the situation.

Some of the Senators who heard Mr. Davis expressed hope that the communications conference might yet reach an agreement. Senator Lodge and other members said the differences had not reached an acute stage, but that they were informed by Mr. Davis that a recess of the conference was planned soon so that the representatives might return home for conferences with their Governments regarding future negotiations.

ARABS INVITE JEWS.

Settlers in the Gilead Community Welcomed by Sheiks.

LONDON, Dec. 10 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency).—The Arab Sheiks Rasbid and Alichzal, heads of the Arab community in Gilead, Syria, have officially invited Jewish settlers to establish themselves there, says a dispatch from Jerusalem today.

A Jaffa dispatch received today states that some Arab newspapers are again preaching anti-Semitism.

A dispatch from Beirut states that the Democratic Union, an Arab organization, has been founded there for the purpose of advocating separation of religion from the State.

MINGO COAL MINERS CLAIM LAND AT PIT

But Operators Deny It, and Protest When Tent Colony Is Set Up on It.

COURT FIGHT THREATENED

Military Reports Worker Beaten Up and Injured Internally While Returning Home.

WILLIAMSON, W. Va., Dec. 10.—Coal operators and representatives of the United Mine Workers in the Williamson coal strike district came to grips today in a controversy over the possession of a piece of land near Burnwell, W. Va., where a tent colony was set up by the striking miners this morning.

Claims and counterclaims were made by both sides, and officials of the operators and of the union asserted that they would carry the case to the highest court if it is not settled satisfactorily by civil authorities acting under the direction of the military in control of the strike district.

Officials of the Coal Operators' Association said that more than one hundred men appeared on a plot of ground near the Smith Pond Creek Coal Company's mine of Burnwell and set up tents, where the company had been accustomed to place mine cars and other equipment. Their men, they said, made no attempt to resist the miners. They said further it was their belief that the strikers had selected this plot of ground for a camp to interfere with the working of the mine, which it was planned to put into operation shortly.

David Fowler, international representative of the union in charge of the strike, asserted, on the other hand, that the ground belonged to the union, which, he said, had been paying a rental for it since last Summer.

Counsel for the operators has placed the matter before Colonel Hall, commanding the provisional battalion here, and it is expected a conference between the Colonel, W. H. Bronson, Prosecuting Attorney of Mingo County, and Judge R. D. Bailey of the Circuit Court, will be held shortly in an effort to settle the matter satisfactorily.

Military headquarters reported tonight that John Floras, said to be employed by the Matta Co-operative Coal Company at Hilmer, W. Va., was badly beaten by unknown persons last night while he was returning to his home from a store near the mine.

Half a dozen men claiming to be prohibition agents, carrying rifles, arrived in Williamson this morning. The military reported their arrival to Sheriff G. T. Blankenship, who disarmed the men and had their rifles taken to the Court House until the men could present satisfactory credentials. Late this afternoon the prohibition agents had proved their identity, the Sheriff said, and the rifles will be returned to them.

GETS $3,428,644 DAMAGES.

Langley Estate Wins Claim for Army's Use of Brooklyn Land.

Under a decision handed down yesterday by United States District Judge Edwin L. Garvin in Brooklyn, the estate of William G. Langley, whose property along the shore of New York Bay from Sixty-first to Sixty-third Street, Brooklyn, was taken by the Government for use as an army supply base, is awarded $3,428,644 damages, the full amount asked.

A board of appraisers composed of army officers set a value of $1,796,522 on the property. The estate objected to the amount and, as provided by law, accepted three-quarters of the award and brought suit for the balance which they claimed with interest, which amounted to $2,081,000. District Attorney Leroy W. Ross stated that he would appeal the case.

HUNT HENRY FORD AS RUMELY WITNESS

MAIL WRITERS TESTIFY

No Attempt to Influence Their Work in Behalf of Germans, They Assert.

At the resumption of the trial of Dr. Edward A. Rumely, S. Walter Kaufman and Norvin R. Lindheim yesterday in the Federal court on a charge of concealing the alleged German ownership of The Evening Mail in 1917 from the Government, it was learned that for the last month Government agents have been endeavoring to subpoena Henry Ford in the case. In the examination of a witness the day before Mr. Ford's name was mentioned several times, and on one occasion the witness was asked if Dr. Rumely referred to the automobile manufacturer as a possible subscriber for stock in the newspaper.

A process server made a trip up the State several weeks ago when Mr. Ford, Thomas A. Edison and John Burroughs, the naturalist, were on an outing, but he returned to the city with the information that he was unable to subpoena Mr. Ford because the latter had started for his home in Detroit.

Another agent was sent to Detroit with a subpoena, but he found that Mr. Ford was on his way to California. Since then, it was said, the Government agents had been unable to obtain any trace of Mr. Ford.

Writers and Cartoonists Testify.

Writers and cartoonists employed on The Evening Mail when the newspaper was under the control of Dr. Rumely, from 1915 to 1917, were called to the witness stand by the defense yesterday. Among them were Rhita Child Dorr, Zoe Beckley and Rube Goldberg, cartoonist.

"One time I showed Dr. Rumely a sketch of the Kaiser in an ashcan," Goldberg testified, "and he laughed at the idea. He let me have a free hand in my work."

All the writers and cartoonists testified that no effort was made by Dr. Rumely to influence them to color their writings or pictures in behalf of the Germans in the war. Members of the editorial staff testified that the newspaper was decidedly pro-ally. One writer said that Dr. Rumely instructed him to expose the German dyestuff combine in this country. Dr. Rumely also assigned him to expose a pacifist meeting in Minneapolis which was dominated by German-American interests, he declared.

Frank M. O'Brien, an editorial writer on The Evening Mail from July, 1915, to March, 1916, caused a laugh when he told of the preparation of an advance editorial on the fall of Verdun. The editorial, he said, was "colored" to attribute the fall of the French fortifications to the co-operation of German industry with the German Army. Considerable time was spent in compiling data for the editorial, he explained, but the editorial was never published because Verdun did not fall.

Says May Beveridge Was a Spy.

Rhita Child Dorr testified that Dr. Rumely sent her to Russia to report the Russian revolution. Harold Harper, Federal prosecutor, asked her if she met May Beveridge, who, it was reported, was a niece of ex-United States Senator A. L. Beveridge.

"Yes, I did," responded the witness. "She was a German spy."

The name of Miss Beveridge has been mentioned several times in the examination of witnesses by the prosecution, which contends she was a correspondent for The Evening Mail in Germany.

The first witness called by the defense yesterday as George Ehret Jr., brewer. He told of conversations with Dr. Rumely in 1915 in which the latter tried to interest him in the newspaper. In June, 1917, he said, he invested $5,000 in the S. S. McClure Newspaper Corporation, holding company for The Evening Mail under Dr. Rumely's control.

The trial will be continued next Monday, when it is expected the Government will put several witnesses on the stand in rebuttal, including Mrs. Herman Sielcken, widow of the "Coffee King," who, it was alleged by the defense, gave Dr. Rumely $1,500,000 for the purchase and maintenance of the newspaper between 1915 and 1917 while Sielcken was living in Germany.

Ford Expected Home in a Week.

DETROIT, Dec. 10.—E. G. Leibold, personal secretary to Henry Ford, said this afternoon that Mr. Ford is not in Detroit; that he has not seen him for about ten days and does not know his whereabouts. He added that Mr. Ford is expcted to return in about a week.

ADMITS HE SET FIRES IN THREE COUNTIES

Special to the New York Times.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Dec. 10.—Members of the Pennsylvania State Constabulary arriving in Uniontown tonight announce the arrest of Frank Koma, alias Frank Smith, who is suspected of being a pyromaniac, for connection with the various incendiary fires which have kept the Counties of Fayette, Westmoreland and Washington in a state of terror for the last month. Koma was arrested at North Bellevernon last night by members of the State Constabulary.

He is said to have confessed to Captain Smith, who is in charge of constabulary forces at Bellevernon that he has set fire to five lumber yards in Fayette County and in Washington County and to three garages in Washington County. The State police tomorrow will take Koma to various places where fires have occurred, for the purpose of verifying the story he has told them.

Captain Smith of the State police said tonight that Koma had talked in such a rambling fashion that his sanity is doubted by those who listened to his confession.

Many of the fires that have occurred of late have been in schoolhouses. Tonight every school building in the three counties is being guarded. Members of the State Constabulary, special Deputy Sheriffs and members of the American Legion who have volunteered for this work, are scouring the country roads in the storm that is prevailing tonight looking for suspicious persons.

Koma when asked whether he had any recollection of having set fire to any school building passed his hand over his forehead in a dazed fashion and said that he could not remember.

The State police are not at all certain that the arrest of Koma will mean the solution of the mystery surrounding the recent fires in the three counties. He is held tonight in the Bellevernon jail but may be brought to this city and lodged in the Fayette county jail.

REDS CARD INDEXED, PALMER DISCLOSES

More Than 200,000 References Kept—Blames Aliens for 90% of Radical Agitation.

1,049 PROFITEER CASES

Attorney General in Annual Report Also Says 28 Anti-Trust Suits Are Pending.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—The campaign against the high cost of living, efforts to break up trusts and combinations in restraint of trade and the Government's fight on radicalism are reviewed by Attorney General Palmer in his annual report sent today to Congress.

In a discussion of the radicals problem, Mr. Palmer discloses that the Department of Justice has developed a card index system, containing more than 200,000 cards, giving detailed data on the activities of ultra-radicals and their organizations as well as a complete library of reference on the general radical movement.

Ninety per cent. of the communist and anarchistic agitation during the last year, the Attorney General says, is traceable to aliens. This agitation, he adds, is not confined to the so-called "economic evils," but has been directed also toward the stirring up of racial prejudice. One of the fertile fields, he says, is among the negroes, who "have been appealed to directly for support in the movement to overthrow the Government of the United States."

The foreign-language press has been "particularly noticeable for its strong ultra-radical leanings," the Attorney General says. He declares that the spread of radical doctrines has been "aided" in twenty-six or more foreign-language newspapers in the country.

The results of the raids last January on the Communist and Communist Labor Party meetings, Mr. Palmer says, caused a "marked temporary cessation" in radical activities. Meetings of the communist and anarchist groups were suspended, and this was followed by the declaration of the American delegate to the Third Internationale at Amsterdam that the January raids had destroyed the hopes of the Communists in America.

He recommends practically a general increase in the salaries of United States Attorneys and Marshals. In most cases the increase is $500 a year.

SAYS ARMY WOMEN SUFFER.

Gen. Edwards Declares System Cannot Endure Without Relief.

BOSTON, Dec. 10.—The lot of the army wife is a hard one and unless it is made easier the army system cannot endure, Brig. Gen. Clarence R. Edwards said today. He was addressing several hostesses at army cantonments, whom he met at the headquarters of the First Corps area, where he was a caller while on leave of absence from his duties at Camp Dix, N. J.

"These wives and daughters of soldiers," he said, "have patted their husbands and fathers on the back and sent them to war without a murmur. They have followed the flag from one place to another, patched and schemed, frozen on one side and roasted on the other from garrison stoves, put up with all sorts of hardships and never found fault. But things are a little different now. They each have a vote and they can reach this system through their representatives in Congress. If these cantonments are not made at least comfortable for women of the army, it is my opinion that the system cannot endure."

CONTEST MILITARY'S ACTION

Texas Editor Appeals Arrest by Army Officer.

Special to The New York Times.

HOUSTON, Texas, Dec. 10.—Whether a military officer commanding a martial-law zone can go outside that zone and arrest an editor for criticising his official conduct is a question sought to be determined by the highest courts through a suit filed in the District Court here today by The Houston Press.

The suit is brought on behalf of the editor of the newspaper, G. V. Sanders, against Colonel Billie Mayfield, Texas militia officer, and three Lieutenants under his command, who are alleged to have attempted to kidnap the editor from the Houston Country Club on Aug. 30.

Mayfield was Provost Marshal under Brig. Gen. Jake Wolters at Galveston during the martial-law régime growing out of the longshoremen's strike. The Houston Press was circulated in Galveston and vigorously criticised what it called Wolters's autocratic rule. Mayfield admitted ordering Sanders arrested and brought to Galveston to be confined in the bull pen. Mayfield was court-martialed and acquitted. Sanders was forcibly taken from militia officers by Houston citizens, who denied their right to arrest him.

The Houston Press announced its intention of carrying the case to the United States Supreme Court to have the constitutional question determined.

JUDGE MALONE'S WILL FILED

Holograph Testament Leaves Entire Estate to Widow.

The will of Judge James T. Malone, who died suddenly in his chambers on Dec. 1, was filed for probate yesterday. The entire estate goes to the widow, Mrs. Mary Malone of 2,086 Fifth Avenue. Judge Malone wrote his will by hand on both sides of one sheet of paper. In one clause he said:

"I request that my funeral be nad as soon after my death as it is practicable to do; that it be as plain, simple and inexpensive as ordinary Christian decency and prudence would suggest."

He did not mention his five children in the will, "because I am content and satisfied that they will be cared for by their mother according to their just merits."

LAMONT ASKS QUICK AID FOR THE CHINESE

Won't Wait to Put in Operation a "Drive' 'to Help Famine Sufferers.

Thomas W. Lamont, who has been designated by President Wilson to act as chairman of the country-wide Committee on Chinese Famine Relief, issued this statement yesterday regarding his plans:

"We shall be able to outline shortly the simple organization we have in mind. I have already dispatched a preliminary telegram to the members of the committee and have pointed out the possibility of securing from the country an adequate response to the President's appeal for the Chinese famine sufferers, without undertaking to set in motion all the machinery of a socalled drive, or putting too much of a burden on the committee.

"I want to make especially clear the fact that all the members of the committee are very deeply in sympathy with the present effrots, under Herbert Hoover's direction, to relieve the starving children of Europe. Many of us are identified with Mr. Hoover's committee and every effort will be made to have one work of mercy supplement the other.

"The feeling in America for the Chinese people, the admiration for their industry, their honesty and their efforts to work out a stable and progressive Government is so strong that I am sure that the response to their need in their present terrible distress will be adequate."

De La Salle Victor on Court.

De La Salle Institute's basketball team defeated the Union School of Religion quintet last night in a one-sided game on the former's court by the score of 13 to 9. The victorious five led throughout the contest, working up a lead of 18 points in the first half in which the Union players were held scoreless. Knapp and McCarthy showed the way in the De La Salle offensive, while Holroyd starred for Union.

ACCUSED OF HAVING SIX WIVES OR MORE

LED BY ONE INTO A TRAP

Brooklyn Man, Charged With Bigamy and Larceny, Asserts He Is Friend of Prominent Men.

On complaints of bigamy and grand larceny made by two women who say they are his wives, Lawrence A. Schaeffer of 200 West Seventieth Street, claiming acquaintanceship with some of the most prominent citizens of Brooklyn and connection with several business concerns in Manhattan, was held in $25,000 bail on each charge yesterday by Magistrate Bernard J. Douras in the West Side Court. J. H. Gilbert of 220 West Forty-second Street, counsel for the two women, told the court there was evidence to show that the defendant had six known wives and possibly more.

The women who lodged the complaints were Estelle Farrell Schaeffer, who had lived with Schaeffer until the day before his arrest at the Seventieth Street address, and Florence Flamberg Schaeffer, now living with her parents at 348 Watkins Street, Brooklyn. They accuse him not only of bigamy, but of the larceny of $200 and $150, respectively.

Mrs. Estelle Farrell Schaeffer said she was married to the defendant on Jan. 20 last by the Rev. Father Patrick Hoey at the Chapel of the Paulist Fathers, Fifty-ninth Street and Columbus Avenue. It was further stated Schaeffer had been married to Miss Florence Flamberg, on or about July 7, 1919, at Secaucus, N. J., by the Mayor of that village.

Schaeffer was arrested on Thursday night by Detective Edward Fitzgerald and John Morrell of the West 100th Street Police Station while going, with his latest wife, to a restaurant in the neighborhood. It was disclosed that Mrs. Estelle Farrell Schaeffer had become suspicious of her husband and about a month ago had hired detectives to make an investigation. When the detectives informed her that evidence of another wife had been found, she immediately laid her case before Mr. Gilbert and instructed him to start proceedings for an annulment.

At the time of his arrest Schaeffer is said to have displayed a gold badge of a Deputy Sheriff of Kings County, and explained that it was given to him by Sheriff Alexander Drescher, whom he described as a personal friend. Papers found in his pockets indicated he had been appointed for 1920-21. The prisoner also told the detectives that he was a friend of District Attorney Harry E. Lewis of Kings County; that he was a member of the Tenth Assembly District Republican Club, and that he had managed the campaign of Reuben L. Haskell for County Judge in 1919. Many of the Republican leaders of Brooklyn, he said, were among his friends.

The prisoner also said he was a blood descendant of Russian nobility, but the police said they had disproved this claim by tracing his parents to 142 Flatbush Avenue, Brooklyn, where they operate a shirt factory.

Counsel for the two women told the court that after he married Miss Flamberg in Secaucus, the couple came to Manhattan and lived at the Hotel York for two days. Then Schaeffer is alleged to have procured $200 from his wife and departed. This wife, then only 19 years old, returned to the home of her parents, whom she never told of her matrimonial venture, according to Mr. Gilbert.

The two women who say they are the wives of Schaeffer met for the first time on Thursday in the offices of Mr. Gilbert.

HULBERT AND VAN NAME CLASH IN VERBAL DUEL

Estimate Board Quarrel Ends in Corridor When Commissioner Threatens to Break Jaw.

Quarreling in the Board of Estimate came from a new source yesterday when Calvin D. Van Name, Borough President of Richmond, and Dock Commissioner Murray Hulbert clashed in verbal battle and continued hostilities in the corridor. When Commissioner Hulbert told Mr. Van Name he would break his jaw if he were twenty years younger, the encounter ended.

The controversy began during consideration of the petition of the Irving Manufacturing Company of Staten Island for repeal of a resolution, passed two years ago, acquiring part of Jersey Street in the Borough of Richmond. After arguments for and against the resolution, Mayor Hylan asked Commissioner Hulbert if he had anything to say.

"I hope he won't speak," said Mr. Van Name. "If he does, I am going to tell some of the things that have occurred on Staten Island during this administration."

"I think he ought to speak now," said the Mayor.

"I have some rights here," said Commissioner Hulbert, pounding the desk in front of him. "I have been accused of something and I am going to answer."

"Oh, you're a very nice man," said Mr. Van Name. "But you haven't any sense."

"You're full of nonsense," retorted Commissioner Hulbert.

Mr. Van Name, in the corridor later, attempted to explain that he did not mean to imply anything wrong in the official acts of Commissioner Hulbert. This did not satisfy the latter, who said he would obtain a copy of the stenographer's minutes and look them over to determine whether anything Mr. Van Name had said was actionable.

STATE SUPERVISION URGED.

Workmen's Compensation Insurance Council Adopts Resolution.

The National Council on Workmen's Compensation Insurance, composed of the leading compensation insurance firms of the country, in annual meeting yesterday at 16 East Fortieth Street, adopted resolutions favoring a supervision of rates by State authorities.

Two reasons were given for this action—to safeguard the solvency of the carriers authorized to write workmen's compensation insurance and to promote equitable competitive conditions between stock corporations, mutual associations interinsurers and State funds. funds.

The council also approved a plan whereby compensation rates would be administered through central bureaus under State supevision.

The Travelers Insurance Company of Hartford and the Utilities Mutual of New York were added to the Governing Committee. There were present at the meeting representatives from 99 compensation insurance underwriters from all parts of the United States.

SLAVIN SUES McGRAW.

Asks $25,000 Damages as Aftermath of Row at the Lambs.

A revival of the feud between John J. McGraw, manager of the Giants, and John C. Slavin, a comedian, growing out of The Lambs row, came to light yesterday when it was learned that Slavin had started a suit against McGraw for $25,000 damages. Nathan Burkan, attorney for Slavin, said the action had been filed in Queens County about two weeks ago, but pressure of other business had prevented him from pushing the case for trial.

Mr. Slavin is quoted as saying that there had been no settlement of claims for assault against the baseball manager. It was said that Mr. Slavin has been in a nervous condition since the night when it was alleged Mr. McGraw assaulted him.

THE OUTLINE OF HISTORY

Being a Plain History of Life and Mankind

By H. G. Wells

What They Are Saying

E. F. Edgett in the Boston Transcript:

In his entire career Mr. Wells has never written a more important book than this. It is a superlatively fascinating piece of writing, in all its details and as a whole, and it proves that the best historian is the man with imagination who has created, or who is capable of creating, real literature

Jesse Lee Bennett in the Baltimore Eve. Sun:

There are no words too great to use in praising these books . . . There are no words strong enough to use in urging every intelligent and ambitious man to buy and read them at any sacrifice whatsoever.

Dr. Frank Crane in the New York Globe:

The smashing literary event of the year. . . .
Wells to my mind is king of modern writers. . .
Just think of one thing—a history of man, beginning with the Pithecanthropus or Ape man, and ending with the League of Nations!

Some Other Opinions in Brief:—

"One of the great books of our generation."—Chicago Post.

"A great story of human progress."—N. Y. Evening Post.

"Among the most exciting books ever written."—N. Y. Tribune.

REPORT OIL RIGHTS INVADED IN MEXICO

Concessions by Huerta Permit Drilling Through Portions of American Properties.

BY TAKING STREAM BANKS

Dutch and British Are Said to Be Benefiting—State Department Is Inquiring.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—American oil interests are aroused, and the State Department concerned over the latest developments in the Mexican oil situation, which, it is charged, seriously endanger the rights of United States citizens in Mexico.

The claim is being made that events in Mexico which have led to protests filed with the State Department furnish evidence of British, French and Dutch plans to monopolize the oil supply of the world. The happenings in Mexico emphasize, it is contended, the protest of the United States over the action of the British Government in carrying out its mandate for Mesopotamia, which this Government construes as closing the door to equal opportunity for all nations in developing Mesopotamia's petroleum resources.

The State Department has taken cognizance of the situation in Mexico and is making inquiries. It is giving assurances to those concerned that it stands firm on its insistence for the protection of American rights within Mexican territory. So far no additional action has been taken, but the situation has developed to a point where this Government is irritated over what is alleged to be a concerted effort on the part of foreign interests to freeze out American citizens in the oil fields of Mexico.

The new situation arises primarily from an extension by the late Government of President de la Huerta of the Mexican Federal zone system, an extension which permitted the Mexican Government to grant concessions to bore for oil on property controlled by American interests.

How the System Works.

Under the original Federal zone system, of which the United States had no complaint to make, the Mexican Government reserved to itself the right to strips of land ten meters wide on each side of all navigable streams and to grant concessions to bore for oil in these strips. De la Huerta extended this system so as to provide that the Federal zones should apply to all streams within the republic, whether navigable or not. In the closing days of the de la Huerta Administration, which ended on Nov. 30, concessions to bore for oil in these additional zones were granted by the wholesale to Mexican citizens who in turn sold them to British and other foreign oil interests.

The new arrangement works out this way: If you have obtained a concession for an oil area in Mexico and are working it, you are confronted by the appearance of some concessionaire who proceeds to drill for oil on the banks of a trickling rill that winds through the property you have leased. The Mexican Government controls each side of the trickling rill for a distance of ten meters, and farms out the privilege of exploiting these strips to other persons interested in oil production. You may have struck a valuable lead. The new Federal zone concessionaire drills in the narrow strip that he has obtained from the Mexican Government and strikes your lead. Result, your oil supply is tapped and your investment damaged.

Today the State Department received additional reports on the situation. These, with others that came previously, indicate that the Corona and the Eagle or Aguilar Oil companies of Mexico, which are subsidiaries of the Royal Dutch Shell Group of oil companies, have acquired important concessions along non-navigable streams in the oil regions. It is charged also that British companies have obtained other valuable concessions. The American interests concerned have protested to the State Department that these grants invade and take over oil rights for whose protection the department had made strong representations to the Mexican Government. Another allegation made is that the British Government and British oil companies had gone on record as protesting against the very confiscatory concessions which they are now acquiring.

From other than the pecuniary standpoint involved, the matter is important for its effect upon the question of the recognition of the Mexican Government by the United States. If this Government should feel that Mexico was not living up in good faith to its obligations to American citizens and their interests, recognition would be deferred and the belief of this Government that the Obregon Administration was not acting in good faith toward the United States would certainly interfere with the conclusion of the treaty which the Mexican and American Governments propose to negotiate as a fundamental of recognition.

The Situation as Now Existing.

The situation, as it is understood to exist, was thus expressed today:

Heretofore the American, British and other foreign Governments and oil interests were united in the effort to protect their rights in Mexico under the hostile administration of the late President Carranza. As matters now stand, the United States Government and oil interests are arrayed against the Mexican Government and British. French and Dutch oil interests, backed by their Governments, are seeking to protect rights that had been granted to the American interests.

In the Carranza régime the granting of concessions for oil lands was notoriously indulged in for the benefit of Government officials. In the closing days of the de la Huerta Administration the extension of the Federal zones so as to take in strips along non-navigable streams opened the way to a revival of this practice, which became rampant. More than thirty concessions were granted some days, and the practice was kept up feverishly to the very last minute that de la Huerta was in office, or until midnight on Nov. 30. There is some evidence that concessions are still being granted by the Obregon Administration, but not in great number. It is claimed that nearly all the waters in Mexico—lakes, rivers and tiny streams—are involved in the concessions granted.

According to information received here, General Benjamin Hill, now Minister of War in the Obregon Cabinet, has disposed of valuable concessions to the Aguilar and Corona companies, subsidiaries of the Royal Dutch Shell group. Serna and Cortina, prominent Mexicans, are said to have bought concessions of General Jacinto Trevino, who was Secretary of Commerce and Industry in the de la Huerta Cabinet, and to have disposed of them to the Dutch group. It is charged that on the very night of de la Huerta's retirement the Mexican Government granted an omnibus Federal zone drilling concession which gave the right to extract 60,000,000 tons of oil. This amount would make about 400,000,000 barrels. In 1920 nineteen companies exported from Mexico only 140,000,000 barrels.

Mexican Newspaper's View.

Some Mexico City newspapers have had articles on the subject of the oil concession frenzy which is attracting much attention there. An article in El Universal of Dec. 2 said:

"A person well informed on petroleum matters has assured us that the Department of Industry, Commerce and Labor has been granting a series of concessions for the exploration of lands which are reported to be oil bearing so intensive and so vast as to have left only the States of Mexico and Aguascalientes from concessions.

"'There have been days,' he said to us, 'when thirty-five concessions, all of them of unusual scope, have been granted. I know of a certain party who has been given the right to drill in three or four States of the republic. I have been informed that in Lower California other concessions of the same character have been granted, including even Magdalena Bay, whose strategic importance has been the cause of certain political uneasiness to Mexico.'

"Should the above fact be proved, it will readily be seen that it involves the greatest dangers, since the concessions may be sold or transferred or a company formed where American or other foreign capital predominates, and in this way the public peace will be jeopardized and our foreign safety seriously threatened.

"Our informant states that the concessions have been granted by a high official of the Department of Industry, Commerce and Labor, who, taking advantage of his position of trust, did a large business in this way. Inasmuch as General Trevino did not fully understand the details of this complicated problem, it was easy for the official in question to fool him, so that he granted concessions not by lots, nor in larger or smaller portions, but wholesale. We are not informed whether the direct influence or favor of certain officials intervened in these matters; but the fact exists and it is indispensable that it should be given to the public, so that it may be duly cleared up, since it is a question that interests the economic situation and even the political."

SUGGESTS AMERICA URGE DISARMING

Gen. Bliss Outlines Broad Proposal Which We Might Present to Other Nations.

RETAIN NAVIES, CUT ARMIES

Abolition of Military System Is Part of Idea Offered at Philadelphia Peace Forum.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 10.—General Tasker H. Bliss in an address at the Philadelphia Public Ledger Peace Conference Forum tonight, suggested that the United States take the lead in a "definite proposal and demand for a reasonable limitation of armament." The Forum is under the supervision of Colonel E. M. House.

If a refusal of European nations to abide by their agreement in the Peace Treaty forced the United States also to continue in the race for armaments, General Bliss said, the time might come when they would have more fear of the United States than they had of themselves.

"Those of you are mistaken who may think that there can be an enduring and effective association of the nations for the maintenance of peace so long as those nations are armed to the teeth solely against each other," said the General. "And those are mistaken who think that so long as the present military system exist there can be any successful international court of arbitration."

After describing the work of the Peace Conference, where it was decreed Germany should reduce her military power below where it would no longer be a menace to other nations, General Bliss said:

"We are saying to the world, 'We do not wish to join in any formal association with you because we fear it will not make for our peace, but war.' They are saying to us, 'We want you, because without you there can be no continued peace.'

"Why should not the United States say to the nations, 'We will take you at your word, and will test it to decide its worth. Will you, the nations that accepted the preamble to the military peace terms with Germany, sign this further document with us?'

"'We will agree with you that each nation that so desires shall keep and build whatever frontier and coast fortifications it wishes. Fortifications cannot stride across the earth, devastating fields and destroying cities.

"'We will agree with you that each nation may maintain its navy. No navy without an army can conquer and hold foreign territory.

"'We will agree with you on a date when we shall simultaneously abolish any military system which is solely necessary for international war.

"'We will agree with you on a date, as remote as the existing conditions make absolutely necessary, when we shall begin the gradual reduction of our armed forces until they are at the limit necessary for the maintenance of internal order. In coming to an agreement about this we will accept any reasonably just principle of proportion, provided it results in a reasonable and material reduction, but admitting in advance that reduced armament can no more be equalized than excessive ones. We will trust to the ultimate good sense of the common peoples of the nations, who suffer most from excessive armaments, to see to it that when the movement has once begun it is pushed as rapidly as may be to its proper limit.

"'We will agree with you on the proper amounts of material to be kept on hand for the reduced forces. And we will further agree with you to cease the manufacture of material until the amounts now on hand are reduced to what we agree upon as necessary for the reduced forces.'

"Are these propositions reasonable?" asked General Bliss. "And if agreed upon will they accomplish anything in the maintenance of international peace? Manifestly, they do not guarantee against war, and I know of nothing that now will. But they will undoubtedly have a tendency to deter any nation from undertaking international war. And they will ultimately minimize the chances of the occurrence of another war such as the last one.

"I agree," the General said, "that perhaps the greatest difficulty will be in coming to an agreement with European powers as to the reasonable force that each nation requires to maintain internal order. But I do not believe that this difficulty is insurmountable."

MONUMENT FOR ROOSEVELT

Committee Decides Against Utilitarian Memorial in Washington.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Decision that the Theodore Roosevelt memorial to be constructed in Washington would be "in no way a utilitarian structure," but a monument "comparing in grandeur and impressiveness" with the memorials to Washington and Lincoln, was reached at a meeting here today of the committee of the Theodore Roosevelt Memorial Association, headed by Elihu Root.

The committee announced that it had considered several sites for the memorial, which will require a tract of land of about sixty acres, but would reach no decision on a site until it had made a further study of possible locations. It is hoped, the announcement said, that a design for the memorial which would "meet the approval of the whole American people," can be completed within three months.

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—Nicholas Viana, formerly a choir boy, was hanged in the county jail today on his 19th birthday. He was the second member of the Cardinella gang to die on the gallows in the county jail.

Viana, who was known as the "songbird" of the jail, because he sang daily for the prisoners, gave his last concert Thursday night when his mother, father, brother, four sisters and about fifty other relatives called to say good-bye. At his mother's request, he sang Kipling's "Mother o' Mine."

WILSON ACCEPTS THE NOBEL AWARD

Formal Presentation to Our Minister Made in Norwegian Storthing.

PRESIDENT'S LETTER READ

He Notes Progress Toward Peace While Voicing Humility Before Unfinished Tasks.

CHRISTIANIA, Norway, Dec. 10.—The distribution of the Nobel Prizes was made here this afternoon. The principal awards—the peace prizes for 1919 and 1920—were respectively to Léon Bourgeois, French member of the commission which drew the League of Nations Covenant, and Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States.

The peace prizes were presented in the Storthing in the afternoon at a ceremony which was shorn of all ostentation. The literature and other prizes were delivered this evening in the Academy of the Muses in the presence of the royal family. The King and the members of his household did not attend the afternoon ceremonies. Large numbers of notables of the worlds of literature, art and science were present on both occasions.

The document presenting the Peace Prize to President Wilson and also the Nobel Medal, was received by Albert G. Schmedeman, the American Minister to Norway, who read a message of thanks from President Wilson.

The text of President Wilson's message, read by Mr. Schmedeman, follows:

"In accepting the honor of your award, I am moved by the recognition of my sincere and earnest efforts in the cause of peace, but also by the very poignant humility before the vastness of the work still called for by this cause.

"May I not take this occasion to express my respect for the far-sighted wisdom of the founder in arranging for a continuing system of awards? If there were but one such prize, or if this were to be the last, I could not, of course, accept it, for mankind has not yet been rid of the unspeakable horror of war.

"I am convinced that our generation has, despite its wounds, made notable progress, but it is the better part of wisdom to consider our work as only begun. It will be a continuing labor. In the definite course of the years before us there will be abundant opportunity for others to distinguish themselves in the crusade against the hate and fear of war.

"There is, indeed, a peculiar fitness in the grouping of the Nobel rewards. The cause of peace, and the cause of truth are of one family. Even as those who love science and devote their lives to physics or chemistry, even as those who create new and higher ideals for mankind in literature, even so with those who love peace, there is no limit set. Whatever has been accomplished in the past is petty compared to the glory of the promise of the future."

Minister Schmedemann said in his address:

"The honor bestowed on President Wilson is of signficance and of the utmost satisfaction to me. To have the privilege of accepting on behalf of the President the evidence of appreciation of his efforts to replace discord with harmony by appealing to the highest moral forces of each nation is an event to be cherished. * * * He, perhaps, as much as any public man, is conscious of the fact that the time is past when each nation can live only unto itself. His labors have been inspired with the idea and the hope of making peace universal.

"It is impossible to make a proper estimate of President Wilson and of his great work for international peace until time has revealed much of that which for the present must be a sealed book. * * * No more fitting word of appreciation could be voiced than that contained in the President's message which acknowledges the great honor conferred upon him."

The Aftenposten and the Tidens Tegn devote their first pages today to pictures and biographies of President Wilson and M. Bourgeois. The Aftenposten says in an editorial:

"It will be told with great joy that President Wilson gets this prize. After disappointment in Versailles he returned home a beaten man, ridiculed by his adversaries and fellow-citizens. By circumstances out of his control he was restrained from promoting his international peace work. As President of the United States he was unable to do anything more, but history will keep memory of him as creator of the League of Nations. To Europe and to great parts of America President Wilson looms as the man of peace who broke with the old doctrines and showed the way toward new ideas. He is, first and last, the great peace promoter—popular among the victorious and among those beaten."

The Tidens Tegn calls the awarding of the prize to President Wilson a great demonstration for the League of Nations, and especially "for its creator," who, the newspaper declares, suffered disappointment as his most precious plans were not accepted by his own nation. "But," it adds, "without President Wilson there would have been no League."

Knut Hamsun, the Norwegian author who received the prize for literature, arrived from Stockholm on Thursday morning, after a tiresome twenty-four hour automobile journey to the Swedish frontier, made necessary through the cessation of train service due to a strike. M. Hamsun received an ovation at tonight's ceremony, being personally congratulated by the King.

President Buen of the Storthing expressed the delight of the Storthing and of the nation that President Wilson had been chosen as the recipient of one of the peace prizes. He characterized Mr. Wilson as the creator of the League of Nations and thanked him for his efforts to promote international peace.

After the ceremonies this evening M. Hamsun, Professor August Krogh, who received the prize for medicine, and others of those honored attended a banquet presided over by Prince Carl of Sweden and made speeches. This ceremony was a very democratic one. No uniforms or orders were in evidence, even the Ministers appearing in their ordinary street clothes. Mrs. Schmedeman and Charles B. Curtis, Secretary of the American Legation, sat in the diplomatic box. The galleries were crowded.

WILLERS DENIES SPY STORY.

Tells War Comrade He Told It as Excuse for His Embezzlement.

Officials of the Judge Advocate's Department at Governors Island were noncommittal yesterday regarding the alleged repudiation by John A. Willers, ex-Captain in the Forty-eighth Infantry, of his tale of being a German spy. They said that no further details concerning Willers would be made public until he was brought before a court-martial on charges of embezzlement and desertion.

Sidney P. Howell of the National Bank of Commerce, a former brother officer, who visited Willers at Fort Jay, said Willers told him he had invented the spy story as an excuse for his actions.

"I did not want you fellows to think me an ordinary thief. As a matter of fact I have been in America fourteen years. The story was a lie from beginning to end," Howell quoted Willers as saying.

The Government is making a thorough investigation of Willers's life.

Italian Lawyers to Strike.

NAPLES, Italy, Dec. 10.—All lawyers here have decided upon a forty-eight-hour strike in protest against what they call the "small amount of deference" which the Judges show toward them. This will necessitate suspension of all judicial business.

THE PLAY

By Alexander Woollcott

The Trials of Tagore.

The production at the Garrick Theatre yesterday afternoon of two plays by Rabindranath Tagore provoked afresh the question as to whether such works are not better served by being left to the quiescence of the bookshelf when the alternative is, as seemingly it must have been, a performance which, at its best, is merely oratorical and, at its worst, unbelievably grotesque. The longer and less familiar play called "Sacrifice" has little except the spirit behind it to commend it to our audiences. But "The Post Office" is a beautiful and gently pathetic work which can tug at the heartstrings of all the world. It is gravely to be doubted whether a stranger to the play who had strayed into the Garrick yesterday afternoon could have guessed as much from the obfuscating and singularly deterrent performance to which it was subjected.

The central figure of this "Post Office" is a little, sick boy who is a Kim at heart and fairly yearning for the great road of Hind, but he must needs sit at his window and watch the world go by. How his wistful and avidly curious questions about that world which he puts to all the passers-by, rich or poor, humble or haughty, sends them on their way with a new valuation of the mere joy of living, is most potently set forth. To see this part played not by a little boy but by an adult woman is to witness a monstrous perversion of the play. To see her arrayed in what may be pure Hindu, but which also happens to be pure Greenwich Village, and to watch her translating the boyish wistfulness and shyness into an extremely feminine, incorrigibly flirtatious cajolery of the passers-by is to see "The Post Office" as through a glass very, very darkly.

The second play, which is a cry against blood sacrifice throughout the world, was presented yesterday afternoon with a clumsiness which would never be tolerated in the much-derided commercial theatre and which achieved its deepest impressions with an Indian General rigged up to look quite killingly like the late Queen Victoria, and with the old High Priest of Brahminism (the best rôle of the piece) intrusted to an earnest young actor who played it exactly in the manner of the silk-hatted villains in the old Furteenth Street melodrama.

It was to be gathered from the program of yesterday's matinee—the first of a series—that this production was intended to foster "The Union of East and West" until a branch of that London society could be opened in New York. The matinees, then, are propaganda, and, like so much propaganda, extremely weak as such.

ALLEGED J. C. KING WILL REJECTED AS FORGERY

Chicago Judge Sustains Lower Court and Criticises Gaston B. Means for Part in Case.

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—The fight to probate an alleged second will of James C. King, lumberman, who died Nov. 1, 1905, failed again today when Judge Jesse Baldwin in the Circuit Court sustained the decision of the Probate Court that the purported last will is a forgery. A will probated shortly after Mr. King's death, and now upheld, leaves the estate of between $3,000,000 and $5,000,000 to found a home for aged men.

The latest attempt to establish the validity of the alleged second will was made in the name of Mrs. Mary C. Melvin, sister of Mrs. Maude King, who was shot and killed at Concord, N. C., Aug. 29, 1917. Gaston B. Means of New York and Concord, Mrs. King's business manager, at whose home she was visiting, was tried and acquitted on a charge of murdering her.

Judge Baldwin, in his decision, criticises Means's association with the will case.

"No fair consideration of this case," he said, "can ignore the fact that Gaston B. Means is shown to be the controlling and dominating spirit in the attempt to establish this will. Indeed, the conclusion is irresistible that Mrs. King and Mrs. Melvin were singularly under his influence and were largely dominated by his strong personality and inflexible will.

BREAD PRICES REDUCED.

Consumers to Get Benefit of Cuts by Large Baking Companies.

Bread prices to the consumer are to be reduced 1 cent on fourteen-ounce loaves and 2 cents on twenty-ounce loaves, effective Wednesday, Dec. 15, according to Mrs. Louis Reed Welzmiller, Deputy Commissioner of Public Markets. She announced yesterday that the Ward, Shults, Cushman and General baking companies had agreed to reductions similar to those already made by many of the smaller bakers.

Under the new schedule a fourteen-ounce loaf, which now sells to the retailer for 9½ cents and to the consumer for 11 cents, will be sold to the retailer for 8½ cents and to the consumer for 10 cents, Mrs. Welzmiller said. The twenty-ounce loaf, which now sells to the retailer for 14 cents and to the consumer for 17 cents, will be sold to the retailer for 12½ cents and to the consumer for 15 cents. The new price to the consumer is still higher than is charged by one of the large chain stores, which is selling a sixteen-ounce loaf at 9 cents.

Mrs. Welzmiller said that some baking companies still have on hand a large quantity of flour bought at the peak of high prices and that the reduction in bread prices will mean considerable loss to them.

$50,000 FIRE IN HARLEM.

Flats and Apartment Buildings on Three Sides Threatened.

Fire was discovered in the three-story building at 26 East 125th Street early last night by Patrolman Green, who turned in an alarm. The structure abuts on flats and apartments on three sides, and when Chief Kenlon arrived he turned in two more alarms. Quick work by the firemen enabled them to confine the flames to the one building. The damage was estimated at $50,000. The building was occupied by the Ormes Music Company and the Community Furniture Company.

The surface lines on Lexington and Madison Avenues and 125th Street were tied up for over an hour, and reserves from three stations were called out to handle the crowds.

COLBY THANKS MATHIEU.

Secretary of State Sends Radiogram to Chilean Ambassador.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Ambassador Mathieu of Chile received today a radiogram from Secretary Colby, who is en route to South America, expressing appreciation of the farewell address made by the Chilean Ambassador.

"I shall always remember," said the message, "your courtesy, and again wish to express my sincere appreciation of your very beautiful address before the Governors of the Pan American Union."

KAISERIN STILL IN DANGER.

Reports From Doorn Indicate That Her Condition Is Serious.

DOORN, Holland, Dec. 10.—Augusta Victoria, the former German Empress, whose heart attacks have given her family concern for several weeks, was said today to be still in a serious condition.

THE OPERA

By Richard Aldrich

Parsifal.

The rigors and uncertainties of the New York climate, having already begun to make their inroads upon the singers of the Metropolitan Opera Company, continued their work yesterday by incapacitating Mr. Sembach from reappearing, as announced, in his old part of Parsifal in Wagner's "sacred stage festival play," which had its first performance this season yesterday afternoon. Orville Harrold took the part, in which he was first seen a year ago.

The performance was given in the English version of H. E. Krehbiel, as it was then. The most important change in the cast was that which assigned the part of Gurnemanz to Robert Blass, who in years gone by was a familiar figure in it. Another change was in the singer of the words of the disembodied Titurel, William Gustafson, one of the new members of the company, a young American.

The performance, which was under the direction of Mr. Bodanzky, was on a high level of excellence. Mr. Bodanzky takes some of the tempos faster than they have been taken in the past, to the advantage of the dramatic movement. The playing of the orchestra was excellent, though at times it seemed to lack in fullness of tonal body. There was perhaps somewhat more of the English text distinguishable than was the case at the first performance of the English version last year, and this is natural with the singers' increased familiarity with the text.

There was also something less of foreign accent heard. But Mr. Didur still prefaces his remarks from the tower of Klingsor's castle with the statement that "the time is comb"; nobody apparently having reminded him, in the course of a year, that "come" rhymes with "hum" and not with home." This is an isolated instance of a few defects in English pronunciation on the part of the foreign members of the cast that might so easily be remedied.

The clearest enunciation of the text was heard from Mr. Whitehill, whose Amfortas is one of the noblest, most powerfully tragic impersonations of the part that have been seen here, and one of the most beautifully sung. Mme. Matzenauer's Kundry calls again for much admiration in its richness of voice and intelligence of action, though there are the passages that she has difficulty in reaching and that are, in so far, an obstacle to unalloyed enjoyment of her performance. She, too, is one of those who form the English words into the greatest clearness. Mr. Blass did not have full success in making Gurnemanz seem interesting, or in holding the attention to his long recital—fortunately less long than once it was—in the first act. There were at least times in which he, too, sang words that could be understood as English.

It must not be forgotten, however, in the matter of understanding the text, that it is dependent not entirely upon the singer but is much governed by the amount of orchestral tone by which his voice is supported or covered; and that that, in turn, is much governed by the methods of the conductor; and, in the final analysis, by the work of the composer.

The scenery of the present production does not commend itself in its landscape features wholly to those who remember the real charm of the scenery originally used for "Parsifal" here, though it did not submit to classification under the latest styles of art, scenic or other. But there has been one positive improvement; one that makes much difference to the effect of the scene of Kundry's temptation of Parsifal in the second act. The stout little pagoda in the middle of the garden, with only limited accommodations for two, has been abandoned. Kundry now appears reclining upon a flowery divan, that is pushed upon the stage from the wings by the magic of a magic garden, and the scene is carried through naturally and freely.

"Tosca" Repeated.

Puccini's "Tosca" was repeated at the opera last evening, Mme. Destinn in the title rôle returning to a part vocally familiar to her and familiar to her admirers in former seasons. Mr. Gigli for the first time here sang the hero, a Mario of genuine fervor in his outbursts of Italian patriotism, while Mr. Scotti gave his usual distinction to the sinister Scarpia, and Mr. Moranzoni conducted.

Four singers in "Oberon" today are ill, but Mr. Gatti-Casazza last night found others ready for their rôles, and it was said the opera would be heard as promised for the first time this season. Owing to the indisposition of Mr. Sembach, Mmes. Ponselle, Howard and Delaunois, the parts of Rezia, Fatima, Puck and Huon will be taken by Mr. Kingston, Mmes. Easton, Gordon and Kellogg, respectively. Mr. Diaz remains in the cast as the original Oberon.

CAPTAIN O'HAY TO BE ACTOR

Veteran of Many Wars to Appear in "Passing Show of 1920."

Captain Irving O'Hay, one of the Rough Riders under Roosevelt, and a veteran of half a dozen wars, will make his first appearance on the stage in "The Passing Show of 1920," soon to open at the Winter Garden. O'Hay fought under General Gomez in Cuba in 1897, and after service with Colonel Roosevelt in the Spanish-American War he fought with a Canadian cavalry regiment in the South African War. In 1905 he saw service in the Balkans, and then in Nicaragua, Honduras and Mexico.

He joined the Princess Pat regiment in 1914, and the United States Army in 1917. It was here that he rose to the rank of Captain. He has been decorated with the French Legion of Honor and the American Distinguished Service Cross.

Grace Northrup in Song Recital.

Grace Northrup, soprano, gave a matinée recital of songs in four languages yesterday at Aeolian Hall, assisted at the piano by Richard Hageman, whose setting of a graceful poem, "Happiness," was encored, as was also "A Dream" from delightful "Songs of the Turkish Hills," by George Clutsam. Miss Northrup has before now been recognized as a singer of much charm and cultivated style; more ambitious numbers included airs of Handel and Carissimi, lyrics of Schubert and Brahms, and five by French composers, especially marked by admirable diction.

Lawrence Haynes, Tenor, Appears.

Lawrence Haynes, a young tenor of some experience on the stage, appeared at Aeolian Hall last evening, accompanied by Malcolm Lang, in French songs of Faure, Duparc, Debussy and Hue, an air from "Scheherazade" and Greek folksongs arranged by Ravel, and a Russian group by Rachmaninoff. Mr. Haynes, while his voice is not of highest lyric quality, has natural ease and suavity that fitted well in such music, touched lightly with sentiment and gayety.

The Philharmonic Concert.

The concert of the Philharmonic Society yesterday afternoon was devoted to Brahms and Tschaikovsky. Brahms was represented by his "Tragic" overture and his violin concerto, played by Alfred Megerlin, the concert master of the orchestra; Tschaikovsky by his "Francesca da Rimini" fantasia, the andante cantabile from the string quartet, Op. 11, arranged for string orchestra and his "Marche Slave." There was the usual large matinée audience.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Marie Dressler has been engaged for "The Passing Show of 1920."

Following his performance at the Globe tonight, Fred Stone will leave for Boston, where he will head a benefit program at Mechanics' Hall tomorrow night in aid of the Children's Hospital and Convalescent Home.

The Young People's Theatre will give a series of matinees at the Apollo Theatre on Dec. 27, 28 and 30. They will present "Nevertheless," by Stuart Walker; "The Dolls' Adventures," by Mme. Alberti, and "The Pills in a Bottle," by Rachel Lyman Field.

Four one-act plays were acted at the Morosco Theatre yesterday afternoon under the auspices of the League of American Penwomen. On the program were "P's and Q's," by Annie Nathan Meyer; "The Door of Miracles," by Ruth Murray Underhill; "Euphemists," by Elizabeth Alaiga, and "White Tulips," by Fair Van Valkenburgh Vilas. The plays were acted by professional casts.

I REMEMBER HOW, MANY YEARS AGO, AFTER I HAD SEEN DAVID WARFIELD IN "THE MUSIC MASTER," I WANTED MORE THAN ANYTHING ELSE TO MEET HIM PERSONALLY. HE WAS THE PERSONIFICATION OF MY IDEA OF A WONDERFULLY HUMAN, LOVABLE CHARACTER. AND I MADE IT MY BUSINESS TO ARRANGE THROUGH A MUTUAL FRIEND TO MEET MR. WARFIELD. TO THIS DAY I HOLD HIM IN HIGH REVERENCE. SO WHEN MRS. MARY CARR, WHO PLAYS THE "MOTHER" IN "OVER THE HILL," TOLD ME SHE RECEIVES HUNDREDS OF LETTERS WEEKLY FROM PEOPLE WHO HAVE SEEN "OVER THE HILL," ALL OF WHOM ARE ANXIOUS TO MEET HER, I GRANTED HER THREE DAYS' LEAVE OF ABSENCE FROM THE STUDIO, DELAYED WORK ON THE PICTURE MRS. CARR IS AT WORK ON, AND HAVE ARRANGED FOR MRS. CARR TO BE PRESENT IN PERSON EACH AFTERNOON AND EVENING NEXT MONDAY, TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY AT THE LYRIC THEATRE TO MEET HER ADMIRERS PERSONALLY.

MRS. CARR WILL HOLD DAILY RECEPTIONS DURING THE PERFORMANCE AND YOU WILL BE MORE ENDEARED TO HER THAN EVER AFTER MEETING HER IN PERSON.

EXTRA-HAZARDOUS TRADE.

The Anglo-Russian trade agreement has hung fire week after week. The latest report is that the terms arranged in London by Krassin have been repudiated in Moscow by Lenin. Whether this be well founded or not, the Russian dictator has made it plain that he will not live up to any trade agreement or concession longer than it suits his convenience. Defending himself for having made concessions to foreign capitalists, Lenin is said to have declared cynically to the protesting Soviets that, when the time came to make universal war on property owners, he would cancel the concessions and confiscate all the capital invested in Russia.

This is only one of many clear indications that trading with Russia is bound to be extra-hazardous. The Germans are considering the risk. Knowing Russia better than Mr. Lloyd George and some amiable persons in the United States, they are aware that the Bolsheviki have really little to trade with. But, urges the Berlin correspondent of the Frankfurter Zeitung, German exporters could take a lien on the receipts of the Russian railways, after they were got going again by German materials. This leads the Temps to ask if the claims of those who lent the money to build the railways originally ought not to have priority.

That any merchant who ventures to trade with the Soviet Government will run the risk of losing more than he can possibly make is indicated by the action of a number of English firms which formerly did business with Russia. They have filed a formal notice with the British Foreign Office that they have valid claims against the Soviet Government for property destroyed and funds confiscated. From this it is plainly to be inferred that if any money or goods from Russia arrive within the jurisdiction of an English court they will be attached. The same thing might happen in this country—even to the imports of our great billion-thinking concessionaire, Mr. Washington Vanderlip. No wonder that the State Department has warned American exporters that they can trade with Russia only at their own risk. It is more than a risk. It is a gambling operation.

THE ARCHITECTS' CODE.

It was natural that Mr. Untermyer as counsel for the Lockwood committee should inquire into the fee system of architects, but no impropriety of code or combination was disclosed in the testimony and none is conceivable to those familiar with the practice of the architects who compose the Institute.

The "minimum charge" of 6 per cent. "based upon the total cost of work completed" contrasts significantly with the profits of from 89 to 355 per cent. which were revealed in the investigation of manufacturers of automatic sprinklers at the same session. This charge of 6 per cent., moreover, is, as was explained by Mr. Fenner, only "what the architect believes he should receive for his services." There is no definite agreement, as in other instances which Mr. Untermyer has brought to light, with graded penalties for the breach of it that run into the thousands and are capped by expulsion from the association. Mr. Fenner indicated clearly that architects might vary their charge upward or downward to meet exceptional conditions, and that in fact they do so.

Few things are more important to the stability and repute of a profession than a generally recognized code of ethics in all matters that are capable of an agreement. Lawyers frequently make charges far in excess of those of the American Institute of Architects. Physicians also have been known to take large fees; but they gladly practice gratis in hospitals, treat poor patients for nothing in their private practice, and renounce all patent right in professional inventions. In architecture, the need is for a gentlemen's agreement upon a definite rate that is dignified without being extortionate.

That young and untried members of the profession may sometimes find an advantage in undercutting the 6 per cent. rate is possible; indeed, Mr. Fenner admits that this actually occurs. But as soon as they feel able they ask the conventional rate and cling to it, not merely for the monetary profit, but to maintain their professional reputation. The value of this excursion of the Lockwood committee lies in the contrast it draws between reputable and disreputable practice in the building world.

RELIEF FOR CHINA.

In his appeal for relief for the famine sufferers in China President Wilson recognizes clearly the claims of the movement under Herbert Hoover in behalf of the children of Central Europe. The Chairman of the Relief Committee, Mr. Thomas W. Lamont, emphasizes the fact that no rival "drive" is intended. As it happens, many of those whom the President has called to the Chinese Relief Committee are already serving under Mr. Hoover. The crisis is of such magnitude, however, that it is not possible to neglect any available means of bringing it to the knowledge of the American public.

Over thirty million people are in dire necessity and a full half of them are actually starving. Our consular and diplomatic agents report that unless relief is forthcoming the deaths will run into millions. The industry and the honesty of the Chinese are proverbial, and their friendship for us is a matter of history. They are working out for themselves a stable and progressive government founded as far as may be on free institutions. Already our friends, they are capable of being bound to us by the strongest commercial ties. Every motive of reason and humanity summons us to their assistance. The very fact that no "drive" is intended should make every American their ambassador to his own heart.

CONSTANTINOPLE.

The Russians have reached Constantinople at last; and though they have come rather pitifully—the starving remnants of General Wrangel's army and the refugees who fled with it—they are beginning to talk of staying. Indeed, it looks as if Constantinople were ripe for trouble. There is, to begin with, the Sultan and his court—virtually in prison, but still in the raiment of authority. For a time they seem to have been as despondent as the situation warranted, but lately Mustapha Kemal, who has been upholding the cause of Turkish nationalism in the mountains, has been making progress. He has reconquered all of Turkish Armenia and a good part of the Armenian territory lost to Russia in 1878; he is likely to recover Smyrna from the Greeks. It would not be surprising if patriotic Turks dream of his triumphant entry into Constantinople, with the foreigners fleeing before him.

There are, to be sure, some British, French and Italian troops—not many—in and around the city, and some warships in the Golden Horn. Whether there are enough of them to repress a Turkish rising and repel an attack by Mustapha Kemal at the same time is another matter. Hitherto the Greeks have attended to Kemal, but the Greek army in Anatolia seems to have lost heart. Not so the Greeks of Constantinople. There are hundreds of thousands of them; they are augmented by the prestige of the head of the Church, and by the glamour of the city which for a thousand years was the nation's capital. They, or the majority of them, will have none of Constantine. They protest against his return to Athens; there are rumors of a dissociation of the Greek community of Constantinople with any national movement of which the monarch is the head. If it were not for the allied garrisons—and the reviving strength of Turkish nationalism—it is not impossible that some effort might be made to set up here another centre of independent Hellenism.

And there are the Russians—thousands of them, and most of them soldiers. Also, they are very hungry and uncomfortable. Hunger and discomfort are the best allies of Bolshevism, and stories from Constantinople would have us believe that many Russians who fought the Reds are prepared to adopt the Red doctrines in so far as these deal with the elementary steps of expropriating those who have food or money. Efforts have been made to colonize these refugees in Algeria or Cyrenaica, but, aside from other difficulties, they do not seem to want to go. Constantinople is far enough.

General Wrangel, according to reports, is afraid of an outbreak which might have as one of its objects the setting up of a Bolshevist Government in Constantinople. If that happened, some Russians of the old school would be apt to remember first of all that this was a Russian Government, and to consider its color only later, if at all. Not so Wrangel. He wants to use the loyal remnant of his army to put down Bolshevism in Constantinople and then lead it against Mustapha Kemal. Evidently both Wrangel and the army want to be led somewhere very shortly, and the army, at least, wants enough to eat. Even Constantinople has rarely had so choice an assortment of the raw materials of trouble in its vicinity at the same time; and where men used to fighting are going hungry trouble can easily start.

GOVERNMENT CARE OF DISABLED SOLDIERS.

Certain charges in regard to the neglect by the Government of discharged soldiers in the hospital at Elberon, N. J., were set forth in an article in The Times of Nov. 11. The Times had been informed on what it regarded as trustworthy authority that the Government was giving "no help whatever" to these men; that they had no "resource but charity" unless their relatives were able to relieve them. We are glad to say that these charges are disproved by Government records, and we thank the Bureau of the Public Health Service for taking the matter up and showing in detail and with ample documentation that these men have been treated with care and consideration. They have been paid by the Government. Two of them are receiving insurance in addition to their pay. Almost all of them have been treated by medical Government officers, their expenses at St. Joseph's paid by the Government, which placed them in the hospital at Elberon exactly as it so places others at some twenty-five hundred hospitals which it makes use of for the benefit of discharged soldiers.

To the men at Elberon and their dependents the Government has paid over $14,000; for their maintenance it has spent $3,600, and for insurance nearly $2,300. In short, the Government has spent more than $20,000 on these cases. We regret that we gave further currency to a fiction or a legend, generated, it is natural to suppose, in honest sympathy for disabled soldiers, and fed by rumor or hearsay, not by fact. The documents sent us are the strongest evidence of the patience, the carefulness, the thoroughness with which the Public Health Service considers the cases of disabled soldiers, attends to their claims, to their health, their interests and their welfare. Under so elaborate a system many complaints must arise. Nobody can wish more heartily than The Times that all of these may be found as baseless as those which reached us from Elberon.

PEACE WITH JAPAN.

In a speech on Thursday in the House of Representatives upon relations with Japan Mr. Kahn of California said that he had no fear that there would be war between Japan and the United States "in my lifetime, nor even in the lifetime of my sons." Mr. Kahn is a man of peace, but he believes that the best assurance of peace lies in preparedness, which in the United States he would have take the form of universal training. His view is that no nation would risk the test of battle with a country so populous and so rich in all the resources for waging war as the United States is. At the present time its navy is probably abreast of Great Britain's in strength, assuming her utmost mobilization, and it could call almost 4,000,000 fighting men to the colors, about half of them veterans of the campaign in France. Yet Mr. Kahn, for all his confidence in peaceful relations with Japan for a generation or more, gazes with apprehension across the Pacific Ocean at "the politicians, the agitators and the demagogues" in that country. They might bring on a war by goading the United States; he is sure no one in America would be responsible. But, to be perfectly fair, have we not our own demagogues and agitators whose utterances are sometimes exasperating to the Japanese and provocative of retort? Should not our demagogues be expected to exercise temperance in speech and to refrain from imputing sinister designs to the Japanese when the evidence is mere hearsay or misinterpretation of facts? Only the other day an alarm was sounded because the Japanese were landing troops in Formosa, a savage land where pacification is not completed. It was hinted that the force thus disembarked was intended for the Philippines. This is the sort of groundless rumor that excites resentment in Japan.

In the course of his remarks Mr. Kahn accepted as true a statement attributed to Count Okuma in the cable news that if the United States restricted Japanese emigration to this country by statute, instead of relying upon "the gentlemen's agreement," Japan, rather than "suffer such prejudice to her prestige, must resort to force." Mr. Kahn added: "Happily we in America are not worked into a frenzy of excitement by purely political happenings." Unhappily that cannot always be said of the people on the Pacific Coast, where politicians occasionally, in the heat of a political campaign, are as violent as Count Okuma is declared to have been, perhaps on insufficient evidence. Mr. Kahn finished by giving heed to rumor and asking whether the Japanese were "trying to bring about the world-old conflict between the white races and the yellow and the brown races." As Chairman of the Military Affairs Committee of the House, Mr. Kahn is regarded in Japan as a representative American statesman. Her own statesmen may not be altogether pleased with his remarks, but his faith in peace for many years to come should reassure them.

PENROSE PHILOSOPHIZES.

Senator Penrose is not, so far as known, on the list of those who are presently to make Marion the intellectual centre of the nation. He does not need to be. Whether in Philadelphia or in Atlantic City, he is able to utter the thoughts that arise in him. And he has been doing it with the freedom of a philosopher wandering in the shade of the Academe.

Significantly, his discourse has seemed to be strongly directed against his own Republican colleague from Pennsylvania—at least against the suggestion that Senator Knox should be appointed Secretary of State. Why, asks Penrose, should Mr. Knox want an honor which he has already enjoyed? Besides, the office of Senator is really greater, as well as much more comfortable for a man averse to hard work.

These observations are taken in Pennsylvania political circles to mean that the senior Senator will oppose and prevent the selection of Mr. Knox for the State Department. Mr. Penrose does not want a new and untried Senator from Pennsylvania. He knows how to get on with Knox, who is supposed to be lazily indifferent about most matters of patronage, but it might be different and difficult with an appointee of Governor Sproul.

Going deeper into the history and philosophy of the case, Senator Penrose remarks that Cabinet appointments do not go necessarily to strong Republican States. Their purpose is, rather, to strengthen the party in States where it is weak. Pennsylvania, he explains, will not feel hurt if she has no representative in the Cabinet. She is used to that. She will roll up her big Republican majorities just the same. There is nothing small or grasping about Pennsylvania.

All this might be questioned both as fact and theory. But it is not necessary. The sole importance of Senator Penrose's disquisitions is that they have the curious way, no matter where they go in, of coming out against the choice of Knox for the Cabinet. The inevitable conclusion of the newspapers reporting Penrose is that Knox's chance is "not bright." It is plainly shadowed by the Penrose extinguisher.

BULGARIA IN THE LEAGUE.

The Membership Committee of the League Assembly has given its approval to the application of Bulgaria, whose admission may be expected to follow in due course. Neighbors of Bulgaria had objected, claiming that she had not fulfilled her treaty obligations nor shown sufficient willingness to fulfill them. Against this was set off a report by Marshal Foch that Bulgaria "had done more than any other of the Central Powers to fulfill her treaty obligations," a somewhat ambiguous statement which is not irreconcilable with the arguments of the Rumanians, Jugoslavs and Greeks.

The report of Marshal Foch apparently had reference chiefly to military affairs. The Bulgarian Army has been cut down, so that at present the State can hardly be regarded as much of a menace to her neighbors. She is still less a menace so long as Mr. Stambolisky is at the head of the Government. On the other hand, it appears that reparations under the treaty have been made about as slowly by Bulgaria as by the other members of the defeated alliance; but there are some items on the other side. Greece, for example, has gained a good deal of territory that was Bulgarian before the war. Rumania, which suffered considerably from the Bulgarian forces of occupation, and Serbia, which was terribly devastated by the armies that struck her in the back, are worse off; particularly Serbia. The new Jugoslav kingdom has made some gains along the frontier which give certain safeguards against another Bulgarian attack, but it has received little in the way of reparation for the destruction and pillage done by Bulgarian troops.

However, if Bulgaria has given up her schemes of conquest and is willing to live in peace with her neighbors, a good deal has been accomplished. It is a little early to say that she has experienced this change of heart, but at any rate she will probably be safe so long as the present Government is in power. And both the security of her neighbors against Bulgarian attack and the likelihood that those neighbors will recover some compensation for the damage they suffered will be increased by Bulgaria's admission to the League.

DOWN-STATE ILLINOIS.

Illinois has been treating itself to a Constitutional Convention. The expected war between Cook County and the ruralists has broken out. The Chicago delegates agreed to a limitation of Chicago's representation in the State Senate. Such a limitation, familiar to us by a similar provision in the New York Constitution, may be just and natural, or it may be a concession to an unnecessary fear, exploited by the politicians, of the future overshadowing growth and power of a great city. At any rate, a compromise in regard to the Senate was accepted without too many murmurs by Chicago. The insatiate agricoles pressed on to a new triumph over the wicked, wicked city. They insisted on limiting Chicago representation in the House as well as in the Senate. Thereupon such Chicago delegates as were Chairmen of committees resigned in protest. The Chicago Tribune urges them to "bolt the convention" and thinks that they "may do so if the insulting, narrow and unjust policy of the country delegates continues."

The superior virtue of the rural politicians is an amusing theory. New Yorkers know how much truth there is in it. From time to time the performances of Tammany at its worst seemed to give some support to the artless brethren up-State, but, taking politics in the long run, the urban politicians are innocents, babes and sucklings, altruists, higher-browed than Mont Blanc before it lost its top lately, compared with the deep-revolving practitioners and managers up-State. Our Chicago contemporary heartlessly remarks that "the Tanner, Yates, Cicero Lindley, Len Small gangs were not bits of the State's lavender and lace. Their piety was that of a robust piracy." Bitter words, showing a regrettable misconception of the function and object of a temptingly rich city in the State. Such a city is the inexhaustible milch-cow of the rest of the State. Tax it to the limit. Fetter its power as much as possible. It is a nursery of evil. It exists as a horrible example, an encroacher on the liberties of the simple Arcadians, and it is first, last and all the time the fattest, most unprotected and most long-suffering of taxpayers.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

His Sorrow Should Be Gladness.

Probably nobody in England except Horatio Bottomley would have made formal complaint to Parliament that the Poet Laureate was not earning his salary by writing poems with sufficient frequency. All Britons who know the history of this peculiar office and are familiar with what may be called the output of its occupants are well aware that as a rule the nation has been better served by their abstentions from production than by their industry.

Of course, there have been several exceptions—several laureates who could exalt the royal family and their relatives in verse at least melodious, and a few who could and did hymn the national glories in exalted strains. But too often, and so often, have the wreathed bards failed, in the eyes of critics, to justify their selection, that when one of them neglects opportunities to write the chances are that he deserves his country's gratitude.

Of Dr. Bridges, the present laureate, it cannot be said, indeed, that anything he writes is likely either to give offense or to excite ridicule. He is a poet of more than respectable ability, and doubtless he could have sung commendably, if moved thereto, the unknown soldier who was buried in Westminster Abbey. But as he was not so moved, he did well not to raise his voice, and Mr. Bottomley only revealed how little he knows about poets and poetry when by presenting his grievance against Dr. Bridges he confessed by necessary implication his own belief that what England wants is a laureate like the majority of them in the past—men whose impulsion to write came from the outside, not from within.

The wiser Premier recalled that many fine poems had come from Dr. Bridges while the war was on, and declared that no change was needed. And none is needed, for a poet less likely than Dr. Bridges to say the wrong thing in these troubled times probably could not be found today in England. Kipling's heart would be all right, but there would not be quite certainty as to his head—meaning thereby his judgment.

It Seems Long to Wait.

To forecast the weather for long periods ahead has been the hope rather than the expectation of real meteorologists. Quackish prophets, of course, long have undertaken the task with confidence, and their predictions, whether based on conjunctions of the planets or on wishbones, muskrat houses or the hoards of squirrels, have received the serious consideration of the credulous. When the prophecies thus founded have chanced to be fulfilled, great has been the boasting of the makers and their devotees, but the more numerous failures have passed unnoted.

Our own Weather Bureau attempts no long-distance divination, rarely venturing an opinion extending beyond one day ahead. But now a man who is not a wishbone prophet expresses the belief that observations of the sun, if made carefully enough, and continuously for fifty or a hundred years, may render possible trustworthy forecasts as to general weather conditions for a whole twelve months to come! He is R. M. Stewart, Assistant Director of the Dominion Observatory, and therefore beyond suspicion of entertaining peasant superstitions or of calling moons wet or dry according to their inclination from the horizontal.

The idea that the sun controls the weather—that terrestrial storms and solar "spots" are somehow connected—is an old one, but the influence, though long held probable, is subjected to so many disturbances and diversions that no practical results have followed. As the Canadian savant says, such results may come in time, and they will be worth having, though there isn't even a chance that they ever will help in deciding which hat or coat to wear when starting downtown in the morning.

"Lest We Forget."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

H. G. Wells's articles in The Sunday Times are interesting. But all the brains of Bolshevism will prove of no avail for the uplift of Russia so long as Lenin, Trotzky and their followers ignore God. They do not know that righteousness exalteth a nation and that the fear (love) of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom.

The British Empire stands and has stood so long because it has not forgotten God. The same is true of America.

The English speaking race will last as long as we adhere to righteousness. Then let us have no recognition of the Red fever or the ungodly Bolshevist plague.

AUSTRIAN JUDGES IN NEED.

Appreciation of American Aid for Viennese Supreme Court.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I read in The Times of Oct. 8 a statement of the destitute condition of the Supreme Court of Austria, and thereupon sent a food draft addressed simply to the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, Vienna. A letter of thanks just received from him is in part as follows:

"No one who has not experienced it can have any conception of the present distress in Austria. Your gift especially gratifies us because we see in it a sign that the international fellowship of Judges and intellectual workers is not dead, but forms an unbreakable bond, uniting the intellectual workers of all nations. I shall share the good with the most needy members of the Supreme Court."

From other expressions in his letter I am sure that the Chief Justice would be glad to distribute to "intellectual workers" the food represented by any drafts sent him. Food drafts in denominations of $10 or $50 may be purchased at any bank, and should be made out and sent to the President of the Supreme Court, 1 Schmerlingplatz, Vienna, Austria. I hope that this form of practical assistance will appeal to many of your readers.

The Bonus and the Disabled.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Now that the "Bonus bill" is passed all that the disabled soldier has to do is to go around with his hat in his hand and accept gracefully whatever his more fortunate brothers in arms chooses to give. In all discussions, pro and con, anent the bonus question, whether State or national, both sides agree on the fact that first attention should be paid to the disabled. Let us see how that has worked out in New York State.

Those who choose, and it yet remains to be seen how many there will be, may set aside their bonus for the benefit of disabled soldiers, who, if they wish to accept the charity of their buddies, may apply for assistance.

This certainly does not seem to be the proper method of handling this question. If the disabled soldier is entitled to further consideration it should be given to him, and it certainly should not be necessary for him to beg for it.

Quite some time ago there was a bill introduced in the New York Legislature, to allow disabled soldiers $25 a month during the time they were disabled. What has become of this bill? Can it be that it was sidetracked because the well men have more votes than the sick?

As for my own case, I happen to be totally disabled, absolutely unfit to work, but as I happened to be unfortunate enough to hold a higher rank than captain, I am not even entitled to the bonus, whether State or national.

Of course, it is understood that all officers saved enough out of their pay to live comfortably ever-after.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

"One cent cut in milk to benefit public," a heading in your Sunday edition attracted my attention as I am a farmer and dairyman, and I do not feel the article in question deals fairly with the subject. It all tends and attempts to show that milk should be lower in price. Patrick D. Fox, President of Borden's Farm Products Company, says: "We have steadfastly stood for a lower price and have honestly endeavored to distribute milk to consumers at a minimum figure." I would like to ask him and the Sheffield Farms what they are doing to reduce the price of milk. Why not help reduction by reducing the dividends of these companies, and not leave the matter to the dairyman to still add more to his losses?

Please let me add a few words to the public who are the consumers of the milk. Let us compare the price of milk with other articles of food: One quart of 5-cent milk has the same nutritive value as any one of the following foods, viz., ¾ pound lean beef, 2 pounds chicken, 2 pounds salt codfish, 1 pint oysters, 4 pounds cabbage, 6 pounds spinach, 8 eggs, ¾ pound ham, 4-5 pound loin pork, 5 pounds turnips. How do the prices of any of these articles of food compare with the price of milk sold in the city at 16 or 19 cents per quart? You cannot say that milk is high, even at a much higher price.

Paderewski's Dinner Party.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Today's issue of your valuable paper gives a cablegram from Geneva with an amazing story of a fabulous sum paid by Ignace Paderewski for a dinner—a story more amazing than probable. I have neither the right nor the desire to impugn the good faith of your correspondent; on the other hand, I know that Paderewski is not a man to stupidly throw money out of the window, and that the price of £1,000 for a dinner is simply impossible. I can only conclude there must be some misunderstanding, and I think I can give a satisfactory explanation. Your correspondent must have heard that Paderewski "a payé mille livres pour le banquet," and, unaware that Frenchmen often use the old denomination "livres" for "francs," understood it as "pounds." The price of 1,000 francs for a dinner for twenty persons, 50 francs per head, is at present a normal one.

Charity and the League.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I see that Mr. Hoover is trying to raise $23,000,000 to help the children of Europe and the Near East. Mr. Hoover is very much interested in Armenia now, but Mr. Hoover supported the candidate who is against the League of Nations, and he was opposed to our accepting a mandate over Armenia. These methods, it seems to me, would have been more businesslike and doubtless more successful than the method Mr. Hoover is using.

What Armenia needs is a chance to make a living. If we can keep Turkey and others off her, and if we lend her of our economic experience, and if we guide her with the same fervor that we give to these various charitable funds, she will not need this charity.

But the $23,000,000 will be raised. I will give and thousands of others will give. But how long?

"UNTO ONE OF THE LEAST OF THESE."

What would you do if now upon your breast
Should rest
A little bony, gaunt but precious form,
Still warm
With blood of yours?

What would you do if now upon your cheek
Were pressed pale, mumbling lips that could not speak,
Though fibre joined with fibre in a shriek
For food?
Could such necessitude
Unheeded be?

What would you do if now upon your ear
Fell plaintive moanings, groanings—could you hear
Your starving child in anguish, prone
Upon the barren ground—to find—a stone?

If you had gone before,
No more
To guard life of your life, no more enfold
The thing, God-given, you had learned to hold
Most dear,
What would you do
If, from behind the veil, you could peer through?

What will you do, when now, upon your heart,
Is lain the burden of a million cries?
Ere dies within us the ennobling spark,
We hear a voice, a still, small voice—then—Hark!
From height, from depth, the Master's magic plea
Reverberates: "Ye've done it unto Me."

ALICE PACKARD PALMER.

IRISH POLITICS IN AMERICA.

Opinions on the Fifth Avenue Riot and the Sinn Fein Agitation Here.

Last Sunday the Rev. C. W. Petty, from the pulpit of the Mount Morris Baptist Church, lectured the Archbishop of New York and Catholic Chaplain Bishop of the American Forces on psychology, patriotism, canon law and the Constitution.

Mr. Petty can be, when he wishes, subtle, insinuating, mysterious, oracular. What did the Archbishop mean when he said that the Union Club stood within its civil rights in flying a flag, and the Irish Society stood within its ecclesiastical rights in having mass said for Terence MacSwiney? Doth this not smell of treason? "I would like the Archbishop to explain the subtle underlying implications involved in his distinction between civil and ecclesiastical law." Does it point to "some supernational and super-governmental power"?

Even Mr. Petty does not expect, I am sure, that the Archbishop of New York will answer his question. It is quite possible that he does not know of Mr. Petty's worries or even of his existence. Therefore, I, as an old acquaintance of his in the Bronx, and an occasional fellow-worker in matters for the public good, shall strive to allay his fears.

The Catholic Church has its own rules as to when and for whom a mass of requiem can be said. Its right to frame its regulations is guaranteed by the Constitution, laws and courts of this Republic. And when a little group among a Bishop's flock publicly challenges him, it is eminently proper that he should maintain his position on the grounds of the laws of the "beloved Church" in whose interest they claim to be acting. And not even the coming of a sturdy Baptist auxiliary can modify the nature of the position.

I am not well posted on Baptist Church laws, but are there not regulations on infant baptism and the assignment of ministers, on profane amusements and Sabbath breaking (soon happily to be enforced by the union of Church and State)? Yes, and there are rules and regulations for the Union Club and the Corkmen's Association, for the Elks and the B'nai B'rith, for the Bricklayers' Union and the Stock Exchange. If any member of these organizations disapproves sufficiently, he enjoys the American privilege of quitting them and leaving them flat. And nobody has to join. If Mr. Petty does not like the idea of having a mass said for the repose of the soul of Terence MacSwiney, he is at liberty to remain out of the Catholic Church. He will be satisfied, the Catholic Church will try to get along, and the Constitution of the United States will remain calmly indifferent.

We Catholics do not go out of our way to intrude ourselves into Protestant Church matters. We are not the ones who are stirring up this religious bugaboo in the country. Why do many Protestant clergymen work themselves into a state of excited worry when they think of the Catholic Church?

Their laity do not seem to share their fears. This I can say from personal knowledge. I have as many friends among Protestants as most ministers; as many among Jews as most rabbis. It is known to all of them that I am a Catholic priest and also a strong sympathizer with republican principles, even in Ireland. Yet none of my friends seems to suspect me of being un-American. I think I could speak of America as Greater Ireland, or of New York as New Jerusalem or New Cork or Nuova Napoli without provoking anything but a smile. And if anybody did call me a hyphenated American, it would be my cue to smile, for I know that to some people all of us are hyphenated, except the Anglo-Saxons and the Scotch-Irish.

No one who knows Archbishop Hayes will question his stalwart Americanism. He rendered magnificent services to the country during the war, not only by supplying the religious wants of Catholic soldiers, which did so much for their morale, but by co-ordinating the enthusiasm of all Catholics for the vigorous prosecution of the war. All thinking men in this community look upon him as the competent leader of the strongest force in our city for the maintenance of order and for the defense of American institutions against the menace of revolutionary principles of government.

The churches of the country worked together during the war. There still exist grave problems in the solution of which our interests are in common. There is nothing to be gained for religion or for the republic in using our pulpits to sow unjust suspicion or engender needless strife.

FRANCIS P. DUFFY.

Irish Here Misled by Politicians.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have just finished reading the many articles of condemnation on the actions of the Sinn Feiners outside the Union Club recently, and particularly that of John Reynolds, published in today's issue of your paper.

There is no "dominant element" in the Catholic Church, as Mr. Reynolds would have us believe. Nobody can dispute Mgr. Lavelle's title to an individual expression of opinion and to counsel others in an unofficial capacity in the question of Irish independence or any other matter, but most Britishers have such a limited power for intelligent thought that it is not surprising to have a Catholic Church official's individual opinion on a lay matter react on them as being representative of the views of those who are in common with him in their religious beliefs.

The press and politicians have long been intimidated by the Irish element in this country. They have countenanced the arrival on our shores of President de Valera; they have given expression to their sympathy in the case of the much lamented Terence MacSwiney; they have given accounts of the proceedings of meetings held in Madison Square Garden and other places in the interests of Ireland without criticism, and to what end? The former found it profitable and the latter politically advantageous, but they did not consider the effect such pretended sympathy produced on the minds of the Irish. By cunning phraseology politicians gave them to understand with their election the question of Irish independence would be made a national issue and the Congress coerced into a definite course of action. But these politicians expressed themselves in very indefinite form and fooled the unsuspecting and susceptible Irish voting element. They have played with fire and are surprised that they should get burned. They think the Union Club affair affords them an opportunity to make the Irish cognizant of the real situation without losing any of their dishonest gains. The press and politicians should have acquainted the Irish with our position. A clear and truthful statement setting forth the many reasons why America could not recognize the Republic of Ireland under existing conditions should have been published in the newspapers. It would have been given intelligent reflection by the Irish; it would have incurred no ill-will, and their patriotism, or hatred if you will, would have asserted itself in less destructive terms. But since they chose to quibble about America's course of action in order to influence the Irish vote, why, that's their funeral and, incidentally, it will be a very solemn one.

GEORGE KELLY.

Back to Noah.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I wish to state through the columns of your paper that the views expressed in this morning's issue by John Brooks Leavitt are so biased, untruthful and un-American, that by his "dispassionate discerning man" he must surely mean a mollycoddle, steeped in Anglomania mush, for no other kind of a man could be accused of saying:

"(1) There has never been any such nation as the Irish nation."

"(2) History does not give us the name of a single non-English King ruling the whole island."

Now, if Mr. Leavitt will study history a little closer, he will learn:

(1) Ireland is the oldest nation of Western Europe. The Milesians, the ancestors of the present Irish race, settled in Ireland in the year 1234 B. C. The Milesians traced their descent from Fenius Farsa, King of the Scythians, who invented the first alphabet, and was fourth in descent from Japhet, one of the three sons of Noah.

(2) Heremon, son of Scotia, was the first King to rule over all Ireland; he died in the year 1220 B. C. And from that year an Irish King reigned in continuity until the death of the last Irish King of all Ireland, Roderick O'Connor, who died in the year 1198 A. D.

If Mr. Leavitt desires it, I will send him a Chronological History of Ireland, embracing the leading events and the names of Ireland's Kings from Heremon to King Roderick O'Connor.

Infusions of Cambric Tea.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Dr. Petty of the Mount Morris Baptist Church seems to uphold some "fifty prominent Catholics," several of whom I know, who want "no infusion of politics" into their religion, and who violate all etiquette in making their views known. Yet at times religion and politics simply won't be parted—the "Prominent Fifty" kept quiet when Cardinal Mercier was doing it in Belgium; they said not a word in their sorrow over "politics in religion" when six Irish Protestant clergy toured this country for a year or near it, speaking their thoughts in season and out of season and most often in Baptist and Methodist churches as they had a right to do, I suppose. Where were the fifty then?

Religious bodies in this country, of great weight and vigor, are entering politics to enforce prohibition and blue laws. Lord Beaverbrook, head of the British propaganda, says the Methodist Church is the greatest political machine in the country because it put over prohibition on us. I am a little more than half way disposed to praise it for the enemies it has made in the matter, but it and the Lord's Day Alliance are adepts in "infusing politics into religion, or is it vice versa, "religion into politics"? I am quite ready to infuse the two, at least to some extent. But why did the fifty not oppose this undoubted infusion? Why reserve their ammunition in so tactless a way for the weakest of infusions, cambric tea we may compare it to, when under mob psychology a misguided crowd, finding brickbats and the like at hand, resented the flying of the only British flag that was flung to the breeze on Evacuation Day, as well as Thanksgiving Day, in all the greater city?

The Right of Protest.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The thing which impressed me most in reading the letter of the Archbishop was its tone of arrogance. "Protestants" in the Church are to be sat upon instantly and told not to talk back, even though it be in their opinion their duty as Americans to do so. But real Americans claim this as their privilege. We are not greatly concerned with church etiquette so far as it refuses the right to protest against such demonstrations as that of Thanksgiving Day, except to say that such etiquette is that of a foreign rather than domestic institution. Nor does it avail that we are told by the Archbishop that he utterly disclaims responsibility for that un-American demonstration. We would respectfully remind him of the fact that the mob which undertook to carry an unrecognized flag to the cathedral, and then, after having been told in the cathedral they belonged to a "Greater Ireland," went out to pull down a flag belonging to a friendly nation and then to destroy the front of the building, did not issue from St. Thomas's Church, nor from the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, but from St. Patrick's Cathedral. There is a certain responsibility which we all must bear and acknowledge for those of our own household. Nor does the fact that we disclaim it release us therefrom.

Irishmen in the Revolution.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The statement is often made, as part of the Irish propaganda with which the country has been flooded for several years, that Irishmen formed a large element of the American army in the Revolutionary War. It is curious that this old fiction should still be circulated and believed. Down to 1845 there were very few real or southern Irish in the United States. The so-called "Irish" who fought under George Washington, and who were chiefly from Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia and the Carolinas, were nearly all Ulstermen or the descendants of Ulstermen. In other words, they belonged to a race which had about as little in common with the southern Irish as could be imagined, being Scottish Protestants of a rather high degree of civilization who had for one or more generations dwelt as an alien and hostile people in the northern counties of Ireland.

It is true that in America they were often spoken of as "Irishmen" by their English Quaker and German and Yankee contemporaries in the eighteenth century, and that their descendants have, improperly, allowed themselves to be called "Scotch-Irish"; but a perusal of their annals, and especially of the muster-rolls of the Revolutionary regiments, will show that they were as truly Scottish as if they had migrated directly from Scotland. Moreover, they were not a people among whom treason and secret assassination were highly regarded.

CASENAVE DENIES KNOWING HIMMEL

DID NOT VOUCH FOR HIM

Declares His Only Interest in Project Was to Further Franco-American Amity.

Maurice Casenave, French High Commissioner, who presided at the dinner at the Hotel Ritz-Carlton to André Himmel last July on the eve of his departure for France, after a visit of several months in this country which resulted in the incorporation of the Franco-American Cinematograph Corporation to facilitate the exchange of films between Europe and America, denied yesterday that he had vouched for M. Himmel or his proposed motion picture combine.

M. Casenave explained that he was invited to attend the dinner by McDougall Hawkes and Frank D. Pavey, who were among the incorporators of the film combine, of which only $10,000 was paid in as the minimum capital stock at the time of its incorporation in Delaware. Referring to Mr. Hawkes and Mr. Pavey, M. Casenave further explained:

"I knew these gentlemen as extremely respectable men who were of the first class, so I could not refuse to go to the dinner when they invited me to preside."

Asked if M. Himmel had presented any letters showing that the French Government was supporting his project, M. Casenave could not recall that he had, but he did remember that M. Himmel brought a letter of introduction from the Minister of Foreign Affairs. When the objects of the proposed film combination were explained to him in such way that he understood that friendly relations were to be promoted between America and France through an exchange of films, M. Casenave further explained that he was interested in the matter only to the extent of furthering these friendly relations. He said that before M. Himmel's appearance in this country he had never heard of him, and that since he had received no word concerning the activities of the film combine organizer.

Lucien Jouvard, President of the French Hospital, who was also one of the incorporators of the Franco-American Cinematograph Corporation, admitted that he had never heard of M. Himmel before being introduced to him by Mr. Pavey. He was induced to become one of the incorporators, he explained, because he also wished to be helpful in the promotion of friendly relations between the United States and France, and he took at their face value the representations that the film combination would offer such a vehicle. Soon after the corporation was organized M. Jouvard asserted that he resigned as a Director.

Following the departure of M. Himmel he said he had received no inquiries that would indicate that the French Government was in any way interested in M. Himmel's project. He said the only recent information concerning the enterprise had been found by him in the cable dispatch from Paris to THE NEW YORK TIMES yesterday.

MIDDIES SEGREGATED IN HAZING INQUIRY

Ordered to Reply to Charges by Boards of Investigation, Daniels Announces.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—A number of Naval Academy midshipmen have been segregated on board the receiving ship Reina Mercedes and instructed to reply in writing to Rear Admiral Scales, Superintendent of the Academy, in answer to charges of participating in hazing which were recently brought against them by several boards of investigation, Secretary Daniels said tonight.

The cases are not new, but came up more than a month ago, the Secretary said. The boards, consisting of naval officers stationed at the Academy, have been conducting an investigation for several weeks and their reports are now being submitted. Admiral Scales followed the usual course in segregating the men and instructing them to make full reply to the charges.

There has been no recent outbreak of hazing at the institution, the Secretary asserted.

FEW DEMANDS ON MILLER.

Governor-Elect Has Little Trouble With Patronage Seekers.

Accompanied by his recently appointed Military Secretary, Major Randulph Compton, Governor-elect Miller returned to the city from Albany yesterday and resumed conferences at the Hotel St. Regis with Republican leaders.

George W. Aldridge of Monroe and William L. Ward of Westchester, with State Chairman George A. Glynn, discussed with him plans for reorganizing several State departments. The Governor-elect said he had reached no decision regarding changes or retrenchments and would make no official announcements until after he had taken office.

Contrary to expectation, Mr. Miller has had little trouble regarding patronage seekers. Outside one or two positions for which candidates have appeared, little demand has been made for places, even by party leaders. The latter apparently have taken the Governor-elect at his word that he intends to reduce next year's budget estimate over $1,000,000 and plans rigid retrenchment in all departments.

One appointment which Governor Smith is expected to make before he goes out of office is that of Judge of General Sessions to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Judge Malone. Friends of Francis P. Garvan, Deputy Attorney General, have suggested him for the place. The Governor is said to be inclined to appoint Supreme Court Justice Edward J. McGoldrick, former Assistant Corporation Counsel.

Aid American Academy in Rome.

The first of a series of three dances which are being given by the Association of the Alumni of the American Academy in Rome was held last evening at the Hotel Plaza and the proceeds from the dance will be used to create an endowment fund for the academy. Mother, in Will, Cuts Son for Wife.

The filing of an appraisal in the Surrogates' office yesterday brought to view the testamentary intervention of a mother-in-law, in behalf of a daughter-in-law, and against a son. Mrs. Kate Irwin Davis, dying in Philadelphia in August of last year, left an estate worth more than $300,000, of which $31,000 was taxable here. To her son, Howard, of New Egypt, N. J., she left only $2,000, because she could not approve of his attitude toward his wife and children, "and it is my duty to side with, and protect, his wife and children." The will includes no direct bequest to Howard's wife, but provides that her children share equally with Mrs. Davis's other sons and daughters in the residuary estate.

AGED COUPLE KILLED, AUTO SPEEDS AWAY

Woman Struck Crossing Street—Boy Killed on Sidewalk—Four Injured in Accidents.

Mrs. Elizabeth Kutzleb, 76 years old, was killed and her husband, August, a music teacher, 77, was mortally injured last night when they were struck by an automobile in crossing Morinigside Avenue at 116th Street. Mr. Kutzleb died in Knickerbocker Hospital early today. The automobile, a dark painted limousine, did not even slacken its speed, although it sideswiped another machine before it struck Kutzleb and his wife.

The aged couple were returning to their home at 370 West 116th Street, after a visit to a daughter. They paused at 116th Street and Morningside Avenue to await an opening in the traffic and then started across the street. Howard Lancaster of 225 South Broadway, Yonkers, was driving his car north when he saw Mr. and Mrs. Kutzleb crossing the street.

As he stopped to let them pass, a private car that had been coming at a fast rate of speed behind him swerved to the right with the evident intention of passing on the wrong side. The chauffeur misjudged the distance. There was a crumpling of mud guards and the limousine continued north.

Mr. and Mrs. Kutzleb stepped from the front of the standing automobile in the path of the other car. Mrs. Kutzleb was struck first. Both were knocked ten feet away and the chauffeur continued on his way.

Spectators took the couple into a nearby apartment, where Dr. Foster of Knickerbocker Hospital said Mrs. Kutzleb had been instantly killed.

Woman and Boy Killed.

Mrs. Margaret Knight of 1,768 Topping Avenue, the Bronx, was crushed to death by an auto truck last night while crossing 168th Street, near Third Avenue. The driver said he was unable to avoid the accident. He was locked up in the Morrisania Police Station. Mrs. Knight was 55 years old.

While walking along the sidewalk beside the Long Island Railroad Station, near Varick Street and Flushing Avenue, Samuel Gordon, 6 years old, was crushed to death by an automobile that backed upon the sidewalk to unload. The boy lived at 75 Gratton Street, Brooklyn. James Krester of 755 Metropolitan Avenue, the driver, was arrested charged with homicide.

William Lynch of Pearsall Place, Lawrence, died in St. Joseph's Hospital from injuries received on Thursday evening when he was hit by an automobile in Central Avenue, near the Rockaway Turnpike. He was riding a bicycle. Ward Englehardt, driver for the Queensborough Gas Company, who was driving the car, was arrested.

Ten passengers on an eastbound Flushing Avenue trolley car were slightly injured when it crashed into an automobile truck at Flushing Avenue and Sumner Place, Brooklyn. Salvatore Trava, 19 years old, of 59 Strong Street, Corona, Queens, was taken to Greenpoint Hospital suffering with lacerations on hands and face. The others sustained minor injuries.

Mather Joel of 21 Emma Street, Brooklyn, motorman of the car, applied the brakes, but the vehicle slid along the slippery rails. Charles Lutz, age 29, of 1,280 Madison Street, Brooklyn, owned and operated the automobile.

Four Others Hurt by Autos.

Emile Lomifield, 70 years old, of 311 East Ninety-sixth Street, was struck by an automobile at 101st Street and Second Avenue. He received lacerations of the eye and was taken home.

Philip Cantor, 6 years old, of 687 East 138th Street, was struck by an automobile at 138th Street and Franklin Avenue, the Bronx. He was taken to Lincoln Hospital suffering from a possible fracture of the skull.

Frank Tenadi, 28 years old, of 105 Macdougal Street, was driving a wagon that was struck by an automobile in front of 86 Sixth Avenue. He received a possible fracture of the right hand and was taken home.

Joseph Yaeger, 67 years old, of 219 East Eighty-ninth Street, while sweeping a roadway at the Willis Avenue bridge, was struck by an automobile. He received a contusion and an abrasion of the right leg. He was taken home.

PARTIES FOR DEBUTANTES.

Misses Isabella Wood, Urling Valentine and Carolyn Ferriday Presented

Yesterday's entertainments for débutantes included a large dance and several afternoon receptions with dancing or dinners and parties for the play.

Mr. and Mrs. Theron R. Strong of 763 Fifth Avenue entertained last evening with a dance for their cousin, Miss Isabella Wood, the débutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Wood. The dance, which took place in the solarium atop the Waldorf-Astoria, was preceded by various dinners, including that which Mrs. Charles M. Connfelt gave for Miss Betty Merchant.

Mrs. Strong and Miss Wood, the latter in Nile green taffeta and tulle touched with silver, received alone. The guests included a few of the older people and a number of young married couples as well as older girls and débutantes, there being about 500 in attendance. A dozen young men acted as ushers. A supper was served from 12 o'clock until 1:30.

Among those who accepted were Mr. and Mrs. William B. Dinsmore, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pelham Robbins, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Wood, Mr. and Mrs. John Hadden, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert L. Satterlee, Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Baldwin, Mr and Mrs. Theron B. Strong, Mrs. Henry Asher Robbins, Mrs. Louis T. Hoyt, the Misses Phyllis McVickar, Lucile Baldwin, Vouletti Proctor, Millicent M. Rogers, Caroline C. Prentice, Dorothy Duncan, Betty Barber, Helen Trevor, Geraldine Thompson, Mary Cameron, Emily Hammond, Julia Fincke, Katherine Morris, Julia de Forest, Virginia de Haven, Virginia Fox, Ellen Randolph, Eleanor Coward and Cynthia Bigelow.

Mrs. Henry C. Valentine gave an afternoon reception to introduce her granddaughter, Miss Urling Valentine, the daughter of Langdon B. Valentine by his first wife, and who makes her home with her maternal grandmother, Mrs. J. Henry Harper. The débutante was assisted in receiving by the Misses Camilla Livingston, Alice Mitchell, Tacie Bell Houston and Mrs. J. Henry Harper Jr. A dinner and theatre party followed.

Mrs. Henry McKeen Ferriday introduced her daughter, Miss Carolyn Woolsey Ferriday, at an afternoon tea, with dancing, at her home, 31 East Fiftieth Street, where she herself, when Miss Elsie Mitchell, made her début at a reception that her mother gave. The young girls receiving with Miss Ferriday were the Misses Georgina T. Wells, Margaret Davison, Catherine Watjen and Betty Wolcott Merchant. A dinner for the girls and a number of Miss Ferriday's relatives followed the reception.

Church to Get $300,000 Bequest.

Surrogate Cohalan decided yesterday that St. Bartholomew's Protestant Episcopal Church is entitled to a bequest of $300,000 under the will of Mrs. Mary Warden Harkness, who died Dec. 8, 1916. The question of whether the bequest should be paid arose from the fact that in addition to leaving the church $200,000 in her will Mrs. Harkness, at a time long before her death, wrote the rector that she intended to give $300,000 additional as a memorial to herself and husband, but did not mention it in the will.

PASSIONIST ORDER OPENS BRANCH HERE

Plans to Erect Its First Monastery in the Archdiocese of New York.

The Passionist Fathers have received permission from Archbishop Patrick J. Hayes to establish a branch within the Archdiocese of New York and have purchased property in the Bronx, where they will eventually establish a large monastery and probably a church, and conduct a theological seminary. The property is at Sedgwick and Reservoir Avenues, and consists of about four acres. The sum paid is said to have been about $100,000. On one acre is the principal house, which was the Eames House on the Claflin estate. In this large dwelling the priests will live temporarily.

The property was obtained from purchasers at the Claflin auction through Auctioneer Finegan and James R. Murphy of the office of Joseph P. Day. It extends from Sedgwick Avenue through the proposed Webb Avenue and Claflin Avenue to University Avenue, and looks out on the Jerome Park, Reservoir and Van Cortlandt Park.

Five priests will compose the new community at present. The Superior will be the Rev. Alexis Cunneen, formerly of Boston. The Rev. Leonard Byrne and the Rev. Hilary Walsh, other members of the branch, also come from Boston. The Rev. Agatho Purtill and Benedict Whalen, a lay brother, will join the community from the Passionist Monastery at West Hoboken, N. J., where the mother house is located. For the present these priests will continue to devote their time to conducting missions throughout the country.

The property was purchased in the name of the Rev. Dominic Langenback, Superior of the Passionist Order.

Although this is their first entrance into the Archdiocese of New York, the Passionists have houses in Boston, Baltimore, Scranton, Pittsburgh and Dunkirk, N. Y. A few weeks ago the bicentenary of the order was celebrated.

The monastery is to be named after St. Patrick. In one of the principal rooms a temporary chapel has been erected. The other rooms are being fitted up for the priests according to the austere rules under which they live.

BIANCHI CALLS ON MOSES.

Guatemalan Envoy's Visit Follows Resolution on Cabrera's Deposition.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Dr. Julio Bianchi, the Guatemalan Minister, called on Senator Moses today to talk over with him the Guatemalan situation which, as a result of a resolution introduced in the Senate by Senator Moses, will probably be subjected to a searching inquiry by the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations. The Minister's visit was characterized by Senator Moses as "an utter violation of diplomatic privileges." It recalled the sensation caused when Dr. Wu Ting-fang, then Chinese Minister in Washington, appeared before the Senate Appropriations Committee to give his views on the appropriation for enforcing the Chinese Exclusion act.

Senator Moses informed the Minister that the Senate investigation, if ordered, would be confined to an effort to get all the facts contained in the State Department files as well as the records of the American Legation in Guatemala City.

Senator Moses said that Señor Bianchi appeared very much agitated. The Minister appeared to desire, Senator Moses added, a complete investigation of the situation in Guatemala by a Commissioner who might be sent from this country for that purpose.

It was pointed out to the Minister by Senator Moses that the proposed investigation was intended to develop whether the American Minister, Benton McMillin, had, in the part he is alleged to have played in the deposition of Estrada Cabrera, exceeded his authority or instructions as American Minister, and whether it was true that Minister McMillin had become a party to an agreement as to the future status of Estrada Cabrera which he, Mr. McMillin, had not carried out, and which might involve the good faith of the United States.

SADLERS IN ETCHINGS SALES

"Darby and Joan" Brings $230 in Helen C. Bostwick Collection.

W. Dendy Sadler's famous "Darby and Joan," etched by W. H. Boucher, brought the highest price at a sale of etchings after famous paintings from the collection of the late Helen C. Bostwick of New York at the American Art Galleries last evening, going to C. W. Kraushaar for $230. It was a remarque proof on parchment signed by both painter and etcher. There were nineteen Dendy Sadlers in Mrs. Bostwick's collection, good prints, etched by the same artist and with the signatures, but this was the only one which ran into three figures.

POPE'S BROTHER DEAD.

Marquis Della Chiesa, a Paralytic, Dies Suddenly in Rome.

ROME, Dec. 10.—Marquis John Anthony Della Chiesa, brother of Pope Benedict, died suddenly today in the presence of his son Joseph.

The Marquis was born in 1853 in Genoa. He entered the navy as a cadet when 13 years old, and became a Rear Admiral. He left the service in 1908. Two years ago the Marquis was stricken with paralysis, following the death of his wife.

Mgr. Migone, private secretary to the Pope, communicated the news of the death of the Marquis to the Pontiff before he celebrated mass this morning. The Pope was deeply affected. The brothers had met last Wednesday in the Vatican gardens, and, except for the infirmities due to paralysis, the Marquis seemed well. As a sign of mourning for his brother the Pope has suspended all audiences and religious ceremonies at the Vatican.

HORACE E. DODGE DIES IN FLORIDA

BROTHER DIED THIS YEAR

Sole Head of Industry Employing 18,000 Men Began His Career as Machinist With John F. Dodge.

PALM BEACH, Fla., Dec. 10.—Horace E. Dodge, millionaire automobile manufacturer, died here tonight at his Winter home.

Mr. Dodge had been in ill-health since he suffered an attack of influenza a year ago at the time his older brother, John F. Dodge, died in New York, but it was said the immediate cause of his death was cirrhosis of the liver. He was 52 years old.

Mr. Dodge recently purchased Marina Villa here from Charles B. Dillingham, New York theatrical man, and with Mrs. Dodge and their son, Horace E. Dodge Jr. came to occupy it ten days ago accompanied by a Detroit specialist.

After his arrival here Mr. Dodge appeared to be regaining his health. The Detroit physician returned home, but a few days later Mr. Dodge grew worse, and New York specialists were sent for last night when his condition became much more serious. He was sole head of the Dodge industry since the death of his brother.

John F. Dodge, who was President of the company founded by him and his brother Horace, died last January at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel in this city at the age of 54. The two brothers were taken ill with pneumonia while attending the automobile show and for a while it was feared that neither would survive.

On completing their apprenticeship in the parental shop they worked as journeymen machinists in several Michigan cities until the year 1901, when they started their own place in Detroit. They employed only eleven men and used machinery taken in payment of a debt. They then began to specialize—John becoming the business executive and Horace the technical expert on gas engines.

When Henry Ford organized his company in 1902 he took the Dodge brothers in with him for a combined interest of $10,000, the stock to be paid for by their manufacture of 650 chassis. In 1916 they won an action against Mr. Ford to restrain him from what they considered misuse of the company's profits.

A few years ago the brothers gained a rapid success in the manufacture of the Dodge car. They were popular with the 18,000 men who worked for them: the day after the death of John Dodge the organization paid him the tribute of breaking all production records for the plant.

Horace Dodge's daughter, Miss Delphine Dodge, was married last June to James H. R. Cromwell of Philadelphia, a son of the late Oliver Cromwell of Washington and the present Mrs. E. T. Stotesbury.

MORAN KNOCKS OUT BECKETT IN LONDON

FINISH COMES SUDDENLY

American Heavyweight Weathers Heavy Punching Until He Drops His Opponent.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Dec. 10.—Frank Moran of Pittsburgh knocked out the Englishman, Joe Beckett, in the second round of their scheduled twenty-round bout at Albert Hall tonight. Some of the spectators seemed to think Moran used a foul blow, but this was not the opinion of "Corinthian," the pen name of the well-known English boxing expert. Describing the contest in The London Chronicle, "Corinthian" says:

"Each boxer started as if he meant to finish the business as quickly as possible, and terrific punches were dealt out on both sides until the second and final round. Beckett made a tremendous onslaught upon Moran, but the latter is fond of inboxing, and Beckett tried to beat him at that. In justification of the British boxer's tactics it can be said he landed punch after punch on Moran's chin. The wonder was that Moran looked utterly unconcerned when he received these punches, which would have caused most men on earth to sag at the knees and show some weakness. All the effect that Beckett's punches had upon Moran was to make the latter more determined.

"Moran left his chin in position for Beckett's uppercuts, and pulled both of his hands, first the left and then the right, far back in an effort to try to get in the one punch of which he is capable. Beckett had been told to expect something of that sort, and he ducked his head clar each time Moran tried to land with those long swinging blows.

Moran Changes Tactics.

"To try something else was the obvious thing for Moran, and he changed suddenly to the use of an uppercut with his right. All of the power of which his strong arm is capable and all the concentration of effort which his rigid face betokened were put into that punch. The fist caught Beckett on the chin, and the bronzed fellow from Southampton collapsed to the floor of the ring. Moran fell after he had delivered the punch, and the force of the blow may be gathered from that fact. It was a punch which traveled upward and forward, and it is doubtful whether Beckett had ever been hit harder in his life.

"It was a contest in which each man meant to win quickly by one big punch, but when one saw how Beckett flinched at the few punches he received and how Moran merely became more determined when he received those full-bodied blows to his chin, it was clear the verdict could only go to one man, and that was Moran.

"There were two occasions when Moran was booed by some who seemed to think he had struck Beckett with his elbow. That was not so, for Moran merely punched with that upward short movement of fist which is common in boxing when the men are close together."

Reprimand for Moran.

Sporting Life, describing the fight, declares that "early in the first round Moran used his forearm in a way that brought a stern reprimand from the referee," his arm striking Beckett's chin. In the second round the same journal says that Beckett's blows seemed to arouse the American's ire, "for again he used his forearm in a clinch in a way that, to say the least, is not permitted by the rules of fair boxing, and again he was warned even more sternly than before."

The Sportsman also says that Moran was cautioned and adds that "the crowd did not like his methods, as his wrists seemed to come into action in very ugly fashion."

An agency report of the match says that during a clinch in the second round Moran held with his left hand and hit with his right, inflicting considerable damage and was cautioned by the referee. The report concludes: "It cannot be said that the crowd received the result with any degree of pleasure, and, while cheering for Moran was fairly good in some parts of the hall, it was drowned by the hoots and hisses of a very unsportsmanlike section of the attendance."

No Chance With Dempsey.

The feat performed by Frank Moran, blonde Pittsburgh heavyweight, in disposing of Joe Beckett, British heavyweight champion, tends to emphasize the inferiority of the English boxer, rather than to attract attention to the awkward and wild-swinging Pittsburgher. The defeat should eliminate Beckett absolutely from further consideration in important matchmaking, and will probably result in a cancellation of the Englishman's proposed trip to this country. Some time ago it was reported that Beckett contemplated a visit to this country in quest of a match against Jack Dempsey, the world's champion. There isn't even the remotest possibility of such a match materializing now.

Moran did not score his victory with his famous "Mary Ann," according to the reports. This blow, a terrific, full-arm, swinging punch which starts from the floor and is aimed at an opponent's jaw, does not in any respect resemble an uppercut.

Moran will probably seek a match with Georges Carpentier, as a result of this victory. It was the announced intention of the Pittsburgher to polish off Beckett and then campaign for a match against the French boxer. Chances of such a meeting, however, are decidedly slim, for Carpentier will not jeopardize his proposed bout against Champion Dempsey by rushing into an embroglio with Moran. The Pittsburgh heavyweight, while not considered above the ordinary, nevertheless has the uncanny faculty of making things interesting even for the most accomplished ringman, and it is safe to say that with the incentive afforded in a bout against Carpentier, Moran would work as never before in order to accomplish the downfall of the Frenchman, if they ever clashed.

Not a Title Contender.

Moran is not regarded seriously as a title contender in his division here. The Pittsburgh boxer is just a rugged, courageous, fearless heavyweight, who pounds away wildly and awkwardly at an opponent while he is in action. Moran has no knowledge of the scientific side of boxing and never professed to possess any cleverness. On the contrary, the Pittsburgh blond relied solely on his ability for assimilating punishment and still remain dangerous, to pull him through his bouts.

Moran is a seasoned veteran of the ring and has engaged in many hard-fought contests. In his long career he has engaged two world's champions in bouts and has stood up against the title-holders on each occasion. Moran went through twenty rounds against Jack Johnson, June 27, 1914, when "Lil Arthur" was champion. Johnson got the decision. In Madison Square Garden in 1916, a year after Johnson had been dethroned, Moran went ten scheduled rounds against Jess Willard, then champion.

The Pittsburgher's famous right hand punch first gained prominence in Moran's bouts against Jim Coffey, the heavy-hitting, though weak-jawed, Irish heavyweight. The pair clashed in 1915, when Moran crushed the Roscommon giant in defeat in three rounds, and the following year, just before the Willard bout, Moran again knocked out Coffey, this time in nine rounds. It was in these bouts that Moran's "Mary Ann" became recognized as a dangerous ring element, and in subsequent bouts opponents showed a wholesome respect for Moran's terrific right. The Pittsburgh boxer went along until Feb. 25, 1918, when he contracted for a twenty-round bout against Fred Fulton at New Orleans. Moran took a terrible lacing for three rounds before Fulton finally put him away.

Wild Bill Donovan Signs As Manager of Phillies

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 10.—Wild Bill Donovan, former big league pitching star, today signed a contract to manage the Philadelphia National League team next year, succeeding Gavvy Cravath. Donovan is a Philadelphian and gained his greatest fame as a pitcher with the Detroit Americans. Later he managed the New York Americans and last year was the manager of the Jersey City International League club.

BIG CROWD VIEWS MOTORBOAT SHOW

Power Craft of All Descriptions Attract Enthusiastic Observers at Opening.

Without any fuss, flurry or formalities, the eighteenth annual motorboat show opened last night at the Grand Central Palace and the usual crowd of enthusiasts who may be depended upon to attend this annual event were there in force as well as enough others to make the opening a complete success both as regards box office and general interest, for most of those present last night were real enthusiasts and super-critical.

Most of the exhibits were in place, the exceptions being chiefly in the way of motors. Of those which were to have been exhibited last night but were not in place, practically all were within the confines of the Palace and by this morning may be expected to be on view. Chief in general interest to the majority are the boats and they were all ready for inspection, in their coats of fresh paint and burnished fittings.

Well-Equipped Cruisers Shown.

Of the boats shown, the usual percentage is made up of cruisers with their comfortable, cozy cabins, galleys and other accommodations which the average landlubber expects to find only on shore in well equipped homes. The famous Rainbow, winner of a leg on the Carl Fisher Trophy at Detroit this last Summer and on her way to Miami, Fla., where her owner expects to repeat the performance, is expected to prove the stellar attraction of the show even though she is not the type of craft the average prospective purchaser would find the most use for.

However, there are craft for all purposes and all purses, ranging from the small "dinks" with outboard motors to the lengthy teakwood express cruiser with its giant motors, which drive it along at a better speed than many ordinary railway trains. There are some very attractive tenders for use aboard large yachts, and the finish of these is like the proverbial looking-glass, while others of the fishing dory class have a much more rough-and-ready appearance. Each type has its following.

Several representatives of concerns having exhibits announced last night that they had booked orders within a couple of hours of the opening of the show, but they admitted these were placed by prospective customers who had been in communication with them before and awaited only such evidence as the show might afford of the details of craft they contemplated placing orders for.

A Brilliant Spectacle.

The interior of the Grand Central Palace presented a brilliant appearance as a result of the simple but most effective use of American flags and ensigns as well as club burgees and occasional private signals. The upper floor, which is set aside for the accessories, attracted a large percentage of those who visited the show, and who, already having their power boats, are chiefly interested in the details of equipment which may add to the pleasure and safety of the sport of motorboating.

The busiest man at the show last night was Ira Hand, Secretary of the National Association of Boat and Engine Manufacturers, under the auspices of which the show is being held. It was Ira Hand who had to account for any delayed exhibits or details regarding space or signs or any of a score of other topics appertaining to the show, but, as the evening session drew to a close, it was remarked on all hands that the preparations were about as perfect as they could have been and much more so than in any previous show.

The doors open at 10.30 o'clock this morning, and, barring tomorrow, the show is to be open until next Saturday. The officials expect it to be the most successful ever held in this city, and, judging from the opening night, it well may be.

NOBLE OUTBOXES MICHAELS

British Featherweight Again Defeats East Sider in Fast Bout.

For the second time within the space of a few weeks, Tommy Noble, British featherweight, who formerly held the Lord Lonsdale belt, gained the decision over Bobby Michaels, hard-hitting East Side boxer, last night. The pair clashed in a return meeting at the Pioneer Sporting Club and at the end of fifteen rounds of fast boxing, the judges agreed upon Noble as the winner. A remarkable recovery when he appeared in danger of defeat brought Noble to the front with a rush. Through the greater part of the bout the Briton carried the milling consistently, forcing Michaels to retreat under the attack.

Michaels started strongly and showed to advantage in the first two rounds. In the second session he sent Noble toppling to the canvas with a right to the stomach and a left hook to the jaw. The Briton took a count of nine before arising and stalled through the remainder of the round. Michaels in his too great eagerness to follow his advantage, was wild and ineffective and lost a golden opportunity to end the match in a knockout triumph. The one minute respite between rounds gave Noble his old strength, and, from the third session to the finish, he forced the fighting without interruption and fought furiously in an effort to topple Michaels. The East Sider in the fourth round was forced partly through the ropes and Noble, in his excitement, continued his attack without letup. The action of the Briton aroused the spectators, but tendencies to disorder were quickly quelched and the bout continued, with Noble hammering his way to victory.

In the semi-final bout of ten rounds, Irish Kid Williams of Limerick, Ireland, gained the decision over Joe Delayo of Plainfield, N. J. The Celtic lightweight was the aggressor throughout and landed more frequently and with greater effect than his New Jersey opponent.

REISLER PUTS LAHN OUT.

Harlem Lightweight Finishes Brooklynite in Fourth Round.

Johnny Reisler, Harlem lightweight, knocked out Battling Lahn, veteran Brooklynite, in the fourth round of their scheduled fifteen-round contest last night at the East New York A. A., Brooklyn. A well directed right to the jaw early in the fourth session started Lahn on the downward path, and crashed him to the canvas. Arising, Lahn was sent down on three subsequent occasions under a shower of rights and lefts.

The fourth time Lahn went to the canvass, Referee Stone had completed his fatal ten-second count, when, almost simultaneously, Lahn's seconds tossed a towel into the ring in token of defeat for the Brooklyn veteran.

BASEBALL OFFICIALS WILL CONFER TODAY

Judge Landis to Preside Over Meeting of Major and Minor League Committees.

This morning at 11 o'clock there will begin at the Hotel Commodore a conference weighty with import to the baseball world and its affairs. Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis will make his first official appearance as the tutelary genius of the national game and will preside over the deliberations of a round dozen—not all as round as Colonel Ebbets, but pretty round at that—of moguls representing the major and minor leagues, who are convening to discuss a sweeping reorganization of the government of professional baseball. A code of laws is expected to emerge from all the outpouring of words which will supplant the national agreement and will not only effect the needed reforms on the diamond, but will afford adequate protection to all leagues and clubs, as well as the players themselves.

The National League will be represented at the meeting by August Herrmann of Cincinnati, Charles H. Ebbets of Brooklyn and Barney Dreyfuss of Pittsburgh. The committeemen of the American League are Frank J. Navin of Detroit, James C. Dunn of Cleveland and Thomas Shibe of Philadelphia. The minors are to have six potentates on hand in the persons of Michael J. Sexton, President of the National Association of Minor Leagues; Thomas Hickey, President of the American Association; John D. Martin, President of the Southern Association; George H. Maines, President of the Michigan-Ontario League; W. H. Walsh, President of the South Atlantic League, and J. Walter Morris, President of the Western Texas League.

Others to Attend Conference.

Presidents John Heydler and Ban Johnson of the two major leagues, Secretary John H. Farrell of the National Association, and George Wharton Pepper, who has served as legal adviser in important baseball cases, will also attend the conference.

The primary motive in instituting a successor to the ancient national agreement is, of course, the cleansing of the game of the impurities which became manifest a few months ago, and other advantages which may accrue will come as by-products of the grand laundering process. The scandal concerning the world's series of 1919 and the lesser signs that infected spots existed aroused in the bosoms of all but a handful of those intimately connected with organized baseball a disgust which exceeded even that of the teeming fans from coast to coast. Immediate and vigorous action resulted in the agreement reached at Chicago on Nov. 12 between the two big leagues and the selection of Judge Landis as the supreme arbiter and court of last resort under the new compact. His term of office as Commissioner has been set at seven years, but the agreement between the major leagues covers a term of twenty-five years. It now remains to bring the minors into line under the modern dispensation, and that is the primary object of today's council.

Some preliminary confabs were held in this city yesterday. Mr. Shibe called upon Messrs. Heydler, Herrmann, Ebbets and Dreyfuss at President Heydler's offices and a long chat resulted, which is expected to facilitate proceedings at the Commodore today. The committeemen from the minor leagues also got together at the Commodore and discussed all the pros and cons regarding terms of the coming drafting agreement and other matters close to the hearts of the club owners outside of the major circuits.

Change in Meetings.

According to an announcement from Chicago yesterday, the meeting of the American League will be held there next Friday and Judge Landis has proposed that the joint meeting of the two major leagues be held in that city on Saturday. The new leader of baseball finds it impossible to remain in New York all week.

President Heydler received a telegram late yesterday from Judge Landis notifying him of the change in the plans for the joint meeting. A majority of the club owners of the National and American Leagues had arrived in New York for the meeting today on the new national agreement, and had arranged such plans that the trip back to Chicago will cause considerable inconvenience.

President Heydler indicated that he was in favor of the original schedule of holding the joint meeting in New York, and said that the National League will be able to finish the business of its annual meeting in time to hold the joint session here Wednesday. Last night the club owners, especially those who had planned to go on vacations from this city, literally were "up in the air." It was impossible for them to get into communication with Judge Landis or President Johnson of the American League, both of whom had started from Chicago for New York.

BIG CROWD SEES DEMPSEY.

Champion Heavyweight Gives Sparring Partners Lively Session.

Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, who is matched to defend his title against Knockout Bill Brennan of Chicago in a fifteen-round bout at Madison Square Garden Tuesday night, convinced a host of admirers yesterday of his readiness to face the Chicagoan. Despite the inclement weather, a big crowd jammed the gymnasium of the U. S. S. Granite State, where Dempsey is doing his gymnasium work, and saw the title-holder go through his daily workout. In sparring matches against Bill Tate, Marty Farrell, Dan O'Dowd and Al Reich the champion unlimbered to a great extent and the sparring partners suffered in proportion.

Dempsey will conclude his training tomorrow with light exercise. The champion is in his accustomed form now and will follow some of the training routine merely for the purpose of keeping himself at the required notch. Camp attendants declare that the champion will weigh about 185 pounds when he enters the ring against Brennan. At this figure Dempsey will be at his best.

Kid Norfolk, one of Brennan's sparring partners and a formidable colored heavyweight, is working hard with the challenger in preparation for his participation in one of the preliminary bouts Tuesday night. Norfolk will clash with Bill Tate, a Dempsey camp worker, in a battle for a belt offered by Promoter Tex Rickard of the Garden. This contest will be for ten rounds. Charlie Weinert of Newark and Bartley Madden, west side heavyweight, will clash in another ten-round encounter. The opening six-round bout will bring together Marty Farrell and Frank McGuire, a pair of scrappy middleweights.

BRINGS FOREIGN BOXERS.

O'Rourke Sails With English Amateurs for Matches Here.

Matchmaker Tex O'Rourke of the International Sporting Club, who is returning to this country with British and French Army, Navy, Fire Department and Police Department boxers, for a series of international amateur bouts against New York fire laddies and policemen, and picked men from Uncle Sam's Army and Navy, sailed from Southampton yesterday on board the Imperator. Information on O'Rourke's departure for home came in a cablegram which was received yesterday at the I. S. C. headquarters.

It is expected that the Imperator will dock late next week. Plans for an official reception to the foreign amateurs are already under consideration by the I. S. C. officials. It is planned, immediately on their arrival here, to install the French and British boxers in training quarters where they can prepare for the tests against their American rivals.

When the bouts will be held, and where, has not yet been definitely determined, but the I. S. C. officials are considering a date next month and are making their plans accordingly.

SIX FAVORITES ARE BEATEN IN SOUTH

Peggy C. Is the Only Public Choice to Finish in Front in Races at New Orleans.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Dec. 10.—The clear and balmy weather provided the only consoling feature at Jefferson Park this afternoon for the majority of a large crowd which watched a succession of form upsets and surprises. Although the track was in good condition, the favorites fared very badly, and there was no relief in the series of disappointments until Peggy C., the public choice, won the sixth race. When count was taken of the results at the close of the day six favorites had gone down to defeat.

The principal event on the card was the Oak Glen Handicap at six furlongs, which brought out a better class of sprinters than has been seen here in several days. This race was won easily by W. O. Stoner's Rapid Day, which ran to his best form and had two lengths to spare over Lloyd Gentry's Sterling at the finish. Bud Fisher's Vice Chairman took third, and far back among the eight starters was St. Quentin, on which a majority of the players had pinned their hopes. He proved to be a bitter disappointment, for he was never prominent in the race and is evidently not in anything like the form he showed on the tracks in the North. The horse appeared to be sore going to the post, and he ran such a dull race that there was little doubt he was not at his best.

Rapid Day proved to be much the best, and, after being restrained for half a mile, he rushed to the front and held sway for the balance of the journey. Collins gave him a good ride and moved up at just the right time.

Sterling showed very good form. He went to the front at the start and raced Lady Luxury down in a quarter of a mile. Vice Chairman then took a fling at him, and Sterling disposed of this rival before turning into the stretch. Meantime Rapid Day had been close to the leaders, and when Collins let him down he moved up with a rush that put him in front in a few strides. After that he was not threatened, for Sterling had been used up and was left to fight it out with Vice Chairman for the place. The latter tired in the final sixteenth and was beaten a length for the position. He reached the wire just in time to be counted among the first three, for Pickwick was closing with a rush and was but half a length back of Vice Chairman. St. Quentin broke in front of his field but dropped back almost at once and was never able to become a factor in the race.

WANTS CASE DISMISSED.

Little Rock Club No Longer Interested in Pitchers' Status.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Dec. 10.—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals at Cincinnati has been asked by Charles Jacobson, attorney for the Little Rock Baseball Club, in a motion filed today, to dismiss the appeal of President Martin of the Southern Association in the case of Casey Smith and Tom Seaton, pitchers, on the ground that Little Rock has no further interest in the two players, Mr. Jacobson announced today.

The right of the Little Rock club to play the two pitchers, who previously had been released unconditionally by a Pacific Coast League club, was upheld in the United States District Court in Memphis, and President Martin, who previously had ruled against the eligibility of the two players, took an appeal. The players subsequently were released by the Little Rock club, and, according to Mr. Jacobson, further hearing of the case would be useless because of the local club's decision not to attempt to use the players.

BALL PLAYERS INDICTED.

Four Men Charged With Conspiracy in Pacific Coast Games.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 10.—Indictments charging criminal conspiracy were returned against four persons here today by the Los Angeles County Grand Jury, which for several weeks has been investigating charges of alleged "crookedness" in 1919 games in the Pacific Coast Baseball League.

The four named were W. Baker (Babe) Borton, former first baseman of the Vernon Club; Harl V. Maggert, former outfielder for the Salt Lake Club; Y. C. Rumler, Salt Lake outfielder, and Nathan Raymond, Seattle.

The indictments charge conspiracy to "throw" baseball games, the specific incident named being the Salt Lake-Vernon series in Los Angeles in October, 1919. They clear the Vernon team of charges made by Borton, that a "slush fund" was raised by members of the club to "buy" the 1919 league pennant, but state that, if the race had been played on its merits, the Los Angeles team would have won the championship.

Support Pledged to U. S. G. A. By Pennsylvania Golfers

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Dec. 10.—The Executive Committee of the Western Pennsylvania Golf Association, said to represent 10,000 golfers in this district, condemned the action of officials of the Western Golf Association in their stand for a revision of rules and pledged allegiance to the United States Golf Association, in a resolution made public here today. The resolution declared that the stand of the Western Association officials is an "attempt to disrupt the United States Golf Association, the parent organization, and an attempt to create strife."

DRIFFIELD WINNER ON HAVANA TRACK

Leads Sinn Feiner and Beaucaire in Close Finish—Three Favorites Successful.

HAVANA, Cuba, Dec. 10.—Track conditions were much improved at Oriental Park today. Three favorites were successful. There was no particular feature, but chief interest centred in the running of the fourth event in which a fair field paraded. Beaucaire set the pace until well in the stretch, when he tired, and Driffield, closing fast, won going away by three-fourths of a length. Sinn Feiner was second, a head in front of Beaucaire. Jack Healy, the favorite, finished a poor fourth, two lengths back.

In the opening event, Vic Munoz won rather easily by a length and a half, with Aunt Deda a length in front of Santa Claus. Red scored easily in the second race, defeating Homam by a length and a half. Jack Hill, receding choice, outgamed View for the winner's share of the purse in the third race. Marty Lou, the early pacemaker, quit badly and just lasted long enough to get third by a head. Lui-Meme led Doublet II. to the finish of the fifth race, winning by a length and a half.

MAROON READY FOR OPENER.

Fordham Quintet to Play First Game Tonight Against Pratt.

The Fordham University basketball team will open the season tonight with a game against the Pratt Institute five at the 69th Regiment Armory. The Brooklyn team got away to an early start this year, and has already played two regular games. The Orange quintet defeated Cooper Union with ease, but lost to the Crescent Athletic Club in a hard-fought tussle on the latter's court.

Coach Kinney has the Fordham team in excellent shape for this evening's fracas. He has been putting the twenty men who still remain on the squad through some intensive workouts for the last two weeks.

Practically the same team that made up the varsity last year will start for the Maroon tonight. Hoctor and Stocker will again work together as forwards. McMahon will be at centre, and Captain Culloton will hold down his old place at right guard. The only newcomer in the Fordham line-up will be Fallon, at left guard, who fills the place vacated by Cunningham when he graduated last June.

HOPPE SHOWS SKILL AT 3-CUSHION GAME

Makes Run of 7 in His First Public Exhibition of Carroms and Wins Team Match.

It evidently makes little difference to Willie Hoppe what style of billiards he plays as long as the game involves a cue and a set of ivory balls. Fresh from his victory in the title balkline tourney, the champion appeared in an exhibition three-cushion match at John Doyle's Broadway Academy last night and convinced professionals at the angle game that he would make a strong opponent for any of them. Teamed with Henry Frantzen against Charles Peterson and Fred Owles, the Hoppe combination won by a score of 40 to 32. Hoppe made the high run of the game with a cluster of 7.

It was the first time that Hoppe had ever given a public exhibition at three-cushion billiards. A year ago, while he was in practice, it was reported that he made a run of 25. This brought up a discussion of his ability to win the three-cushion title as well as the others he held. From his showing last night, in the opinion of such a good judge as John Doyle, Hoppe would soon be master at the style. He made several remarkably good shots and at times appeared to be deliberately playing position, with the idea of placing all three balls. The game was played under rules permitting the shotmakers to select either white ball as he went to the table. This eliminated safety play and afforded a very lively exhibition.

Hoppe gave his exhibition for the benefit of a Christmas fund and the entertainment drew the largest crowd that has ever been in Doyle's rooms. Hoppe followed with an exhibition at English billiards, and with Ed Cahill as a partner was defeated by John O'Neill and William Waldron by 150 to 140, though he had the two high breaks of the game with runs of 34 and 28.

A team pocket billiard match, which was also a part of the special program, was won by Morgan Hughes, the amateur champion, and George Barton, who defeated Vernon Whittle and William Downs by 75 to 69.

STEINBUGLER WINS TWICE.

Defeats Peterson and Servatius in Class C Billiard Tourney.

C. J. Steinbugler won two games in the class C 18.2 balkline billiard tournament at the Rational Recreation in Brooklyn last night and materially improved his chances of participating in the final round which will decide the championship in the class. Steinbugler defeated P. A. Peterson by a score of 150 to 95, and a little later defeated L. A. Servatius by a score of 150 to 126.

Steinbugler was in good form throughout the evening and played consistently well in both games. In his game with Servatius he met with much stronger opposition than in his earlier match and it was a nip and tuck battle to the last few innings, when Steinbugler finally gained a commanding lead and ran out. Several times during the game the lead alternated, but Servatius missed one or two easy shots, which gave his opponent a chance to draw away. This defeat eliminated Servatius as a contender in the final round.

Steinbugler had a comparatively easy time in disposing of Peterson, and had the game well in hand at all stages. He made a high run of 28 and had an average of 3 30-40.

There were two other games played in the tourney, James Langdon defeating C. Sloane by 150 to 143 in the closest match of the evening, and Frank Boyd defeating J. F. Blaisdell by 150 to 113.

Langdon and Sloane were always within a few points of each other. A high run of 24 finally gave Langdon a considerable boost and enabled him to go out with a short run when Sloane missed an easy shot. Blaisdell had a high run of 28, but it availed him nothing, as Boyd counted steadily and had a high run of 20 among his several clusters.

TRY FOR DARTMOUTH TEAM.

Special to The New York Times.

HANOVER, N. H., Dec. 10.—More than sixty men reported to Captain Ryland J. Rothschild of St. Paul, Minn., at the first practice of the Dartmouth hockey team held here this afternoon. As yet no coach has been appointed to take charge of the Green seven, but it is expected that Ward Fitzgerald, also of St. Paul, will be engaged for the season. Fitzgerald was a member of the United States hockey team at the Olympics last Summer and had previously seen service with the crack St. Paul A. C. outfit. Until his arrival, Captain Rothschild will be in charge of the daily workouts. The new rink has not yet been completed, and until it is ready for use the workouts will be held on Faculty Pond. Regular practice will be held at the new Boston arena during the Christmas holidays, as the first game will be played in Boston shortly after the beginning of the Winter term.

Dartmouth is a member of the Intercollegiate Hockey League and will also be matched against other strong sevens during the season. Yale, Harvard and Princeton are to be included in the schedule, with the Elis having the big date, Feb. 12, at Hanover. Harvard, always a leading ice rival of Dartmouth, will meet the Green at the Boston arena Jan. 22 in what is considered the leading out-of-town game of the year. Only two men have been lost to the Green by graduation, Captain Paisley, forward, and Gale, goal, on last year's varsity, but a wealth of strong material is available for these two positions.

Captain Rothschild is experiencing little worry along this line. Bower, former Middlebury star, who was ineligible to play for Dartmouth on account of the one-year eligibility rule, is out for a position, and should take the place of Captain Paisley on the offensive line. Other forwards of ability, all of whom have had experience in varsity play, are Captain Rothschild, Ross, Perry, Threshie, of last year's regulars, and J. Paisley, Smith, Furey, and Fletcher from the 1923 freshman team. For defense, Dorney, Neidlinger, Foster and Morrison are all good, with the odds a bit in favor of the first two. Tobin, a sub last season, and Billings from the 1923 team, are the leading candidates for goal.

Leader Brocco. Record, 2,390 miles, no laps, made by Lawrence and Drobach in 1914.

Savagery and violence were deplorably lacking last night in the vast arena of Madison Square Garden, where the six-day race is now waning toward its finish. There was no shooting, slugging or even bloodshed. If the writer seems to speak a touch of bitterness the cause will be found in the fact that he was deluded into going there by the promise that he would "see them mixing it properly" if he would only stroll down and look the affair over.

The amphitheatre was jammed full of people, at that, and all of them seemed to be in a condition of sustained excitement, except a dozen or so of youths, who pedalled calmly and even complacently around the track. They had every reason to be happy. They were the only ones among the thousands in attendance who had anything like all the room they needed. Even these fortunate bicyclists, however, cast aside complacency at certain stages, and worked their passage in a series of dazzling, flashing, whirling sprints that roused the crowd to spasms of excitement. There was nothing in the way of lap stealing or even of serious efforts toward this consummate end in the course of the evening session. All of the trailing teams appeared to be saving their energies for the final, crucial efforts today.

Along toward the witching hour of midnight a spectator longing for more action offered a twenty-dollar gold piece for a special sprint. Vandivelve of the tail-end team of Grimm and Vandivelve set out with the worthy intention of annexing this slice of coin. The other riders lay back and let him get away with it. Presently he found himself half a lap ahead of the field, whereupon he went to work to make it a whole lap. His partner, Grimm, relieved him and soon caught the pack for the gain of a complete circuit.

Two More Teams Lapped.

Piani and Leene and Spears and Lawrence were lapped by the field in a sprint for a $60 prize at 12:20 o'clock this morning. In the same whirl Debaets and Persyn and Van Hevel and Vanlerberghe incurred fines of $50 each for bad pickups and Grimm and Van Divelve lost the lap they had so recently gained.

The evening sprints resulted as follows:

First Sprint—Miquel, Verri, Egg, Thomas, Coburn, Smith.

Second Sprint—McNamara, Piani, Van Nek, Bedell, Taylor, Brocco.

Third Sprint—Egg, Smith, Miquel, Verri, Leene, Thomas.

Fourth Sprint—Piani, McNamara, Van Nek, Taylor, Bedell.

Fifth Sprint—Leene, Egg, Thomas, Coburn, Miquel, Verri.

Sixth Sprint—McNamara, Taylor, Van Nek, Bedell. Piani led in sixth sprint, but was disqualified for not holding pole.

Seventh Sprint—Leene, Verri, Thomas, Egg, Smith, Coburn.

Eighth Sprint—Piani, McNamara, Van Nek, Taylor, Bedell, Lawrence.

Ninth Sprint—Egg, Verri, Leene, Thomas, Coburn, Smith.

Tenth Sprint—McNamara, Van Nek, Piani, Bedell.

McNamara and Egg won the $50 prize for the supreme point winners of the sprinting field, piling up between them 52 points. Piani and Leene took second honors with 39 points.

The total points after the sprints were: Brocco and Coburn, leading by two laps, 577; Debaetes and Persyn, one lap in front of main field, 385; Van Hevel and Vanadenbergh, one laps in front of main part of field, 283; Egg and McNamara, 248; Piani and Leene, 152; Bedell and Thomas, 128; Van Nek and Miquel, 117; Verri and Belloni, 60; Taylor and Smith, 59.

Reggie McNamara by a narrow margin evaded a bad spill while chasing a $10 prize. The Australian's rear tire came off the rim while he was swinging around the Fourth Avenue turn into the home stretch. McNamara grabbed the tire with one hand and guided his bike with the other. He finished the sprint and won it on the rim of his bike. Frank Kramer, who was in the officials' stand, said the speed at which McNamara was going was the only thing which saved him from a bad spill.

McNamara Wins Prize.

Although the ground rules of the game at the Garden concede first places to Brocco-Coburn and second and third to the teams holding one lap on the general field, still McNamara's sudden ebullition of speed did not go unrewarded, for his riding brought to himself and his partner the special prize of $50 which goes to the mightiest point winner in each series of sprints.

The status of the Garden as a home of important matters pugilistic was maintained in the afternoon by a fight, or an almost fight, between Egg and Van Nek in the fourth sprint. The two riders were whirling into the stretch on even terms on the final laps, when the wheel of the Swiss rider swerved toward that of Van Nek and they almost came into collision. As they slowed down after the finish Van Nek turned toward Egg, who was then a little behind him, and waved a wicked fist in his direction. Egg made a few extemporaneous remarks in reply, suggesting a trip to a resort famed for its tropical climate. Van Nek took the matter under advisement and there things rested, much to the chagrin of a multitude of onlookers.

Hearts, hopes and handkerchiefs fluttering, fumes, germs and wits wandering, whizzing, whirling wheels in the fit and fascinated, frenzied fans in the seats, humpbacked figures that spin ceaselessly with alert eyes in white, drawn faces; an arena packed with persons who are only vision and voice—that's really all there is to it, Henrietta. If you don't care for it we shall go somewhere uptown and take in a lecture on Dante, or would you rather play dominoes?

Somebody Scoots in Front.

Well, really, Rudolph, it's a bit monotonous, isn't it? Let us sally homeward, and I'll show you the best slippers I'm crocheting for Aunt Matilda. Wait a minute, though. There goes somebody scooting in front. They're all after him. He's gaining. Go on, you fish-faced fossil! Go on! He's riding them dizzy. Go on, you wabble-jointed, tin-lined, bow-legged mustang! No, Rudolph, I don't think I care to go home yet. Home was never like this. In fact, as far back as I can recollect, home never even vaguely suggested this. Prate not to me of home. I hardly think I shall ever return there. If you drop in, tell the folks not to worry, but to look for me in the food bin just before the squirrels are fed.

Six-day race fans are born, it is understood, but they are also made. The incurable ones have usually been caught early, but middle-aged or elderly persons are not immune to the bacteria, especially if some confounded thing that goes on forever, like a brook or the maundering of a parlor Socialist, has fascinated them in early life. When once the lure of constant motion has gripped them they become inveterates, and it's the booby hatch or the six-day race for theirs.

When the long grind has reached its late stages, when the riders who started as robust youths on Monday have become octogenarians who feebly curse their wheels and impartially detest everybody in sight, then the fans are in their element. They were in glorious spirits last night, jabbering constantly, with a hum that filled the huge Garden, and that rose to a howl at the very slightest provocation.

Six-Day Race Sadly Changed.

The six-day race is not what it was in the dear dead years. The merry little sports of thimble rigging, shuffling the shells and three-card monte no longer appear as side shows, and even pocket-picking and overcoat-snatching have become pathetically rare. Of course, these omissions cut down the attendance. Last night, for instance, there were no more persons there than the Garden would hold. Only the capacity and standing room and rafters were filled. If one wanted to move, all he had to do was to mount the nearest shoulders and roll, in a reclining posture, over the clustered heads.

The team of Belloni and Verri had a three-quarters of a lap lead on the field in a wild jam at 6:30, but was caught before it could filch a lap from the other riders. Belloni started by jumping away in the homestretch. Egg was out in front and apparently thought Belloni was just kidding. Before Egg got started Belloni had a lead of a half lap. Van Hevel went out and cut the lead down, but Belloni and Verri increased it to three-quarters of a lap, with Leene doing the chasing. McNamara then stuck in two fast laps and cut the lead down. The relieving riders the next time around made a group pick-up, with Egg leading the pack. Brocco was the rider who finally brought the field up to Verri and Belloni by a sensational sprint. Leene was dropped far off in the jam, and it looked as if he would surely be lapped, but Piani came to the rescue, and by racing madly finally caught the field and saved his team.

The six-day race will wind up at 11 o'clock tonight. The hour of sprinting will be from 10 to 11, and during that hour it will be possible for laps to be gained or lost. Points in the last hour will count 72 for first, 5 for second, 4 for third, 3 for fourth, 2 for fifth and 1 for sixth. This morning and afternoon first place will count 12 points, second place 5 points, third place 4 points, fourth place 3 points, fifth place 2 points, sixth place 1 point.

Sharpe Tells Why Yale Dropped Boston College

BOSTON, Dec. 10.—Al Sharpe, Yale athletic director, in a letter to Graduate Manager Frank A. Reynolds of Boston College athletic activities, gives what he terms "the only reason" for Yale's dropping Boston College from its football schedule next year. This, he says, is the desire "to bring the Yale team along as gradually as possible, and as your game deserves a place well down in the schedule we could not play all the teams we would like to on the one or two possible dates open for a team of your class."

CRESCENT FIVE WINNER.

Defeats Brooklyn Law School in Basketball Game, 54 to 24.

The Crescent Athletic Club basketball team proved entirely too fast for the five from the Brooklyn Law School in a game played on the New Mooners' court last night, and the Crescents won by a score of 54 to 24. The winners never were in any real danger of being overtaken. The New Mooners passed the ball so cleverly that they were able to score goals almost at will. Kinney and Peck were particularly good on the offensive for the winners, while Hyman and Jakobson did most of the scoring for Brooklyn Law School.

At the end of the first half the Crescent five was leading by 23 to 8. Kinney and McTige were given a chance to rest while substitutes were sent in, and the law school team was able to roll up a few points. The latter made a much better showing in the second period.

The lineup:

CRESCENT (54).		B'KLYN L. S. (24).
Nicklas	L. F.	Hyman
Kinney	R. F.	Barsche
McTige	C.	Shorwin

N. Y. U. FIVE WINS EASILY.

Defeats Alumni Basketball Team by One-Sided Score of 82 to 20.

The New York University basketball team easily defeated the alumni five last night by a score of 82 to 20. Among the players on the alumni team were Cann and Mooney of last year's championship five. They played their usual good game, but could not match the speed of the present varsity.

At the end of the first half the New York University players had rolled up a score of 20 to 7, and in the remaining period passed the ball about with abandon and scored about as they pleased.

The lineup:

N. Y. U. (82).		ALUMNI (20).
Goeller	L. F.	Moore
Holman	R. F.	Cann
Robinson	C.	Mooney
Baker	L. G.	Burdansky
Delaney	R. G.	White

Field goals—Goeller (4), Holman (2), Robinson (3), Baker, Mooney (3), Burdansky, Portish (2), Hatterer, Pierce, Dorff.

Goals from foul—Mooney (6), Robinson (6).

Defeats Rensselaer by a Point in Basketball Game, 17 to 16.

Pratt Institute's basketball quintet registered its third victory of the season last night when it emerged victorious over the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute five in a keenly contested game on the former's court in Brooklyn, by a score of 17 to 16. A goal scored in the last minute of play gave the Brooklynites the victory.

The line-up:

PRATT (17).		RENSSELAER (16).

GAMES FOR MANHATTAN.

Basketball List Announced—Team Will Meet Brooklyn Law Tonight.

The basketball five of Manhattan College will meet the quintet of the Brooklyn Law School tonight on the De La Salle courts. Manhattan lost last week to Cooper Union, but a better showing is looked for in this game after a strenuous week of practice, especially in passing.

The Manhattan schedule is:

Dec. 11, Brooklyn Law School; 14, St. John's; 17, St. Francis; Jan. 8, Cooper Union; 11, St. John's; 14, Albany Law; 21, Albany Law; 22, New York State; 28, Pratt Institute; 31, St. Francis; Feb. 5, Cooper Union; 8, Seton Hall; 15, Cathedral; 21, Seton Hall; 26, New York State; March 2, Manhattan Alumni.

C. C. N. Y. BEATEN BY COLUMBIA IN TANK

Morningside Heights Swimmers Take Four of Six Events as Well as Water Polo Match.

The Columbia swimming team, in its first intercollegiate meet of the season, scored a double triumph over the City College of New York in the latter's tank last night, winning the meet as well as the water polo match which followed. The Blue and White captured four of the six events and gathered a total of 37 points to 16 for C. C. N. Y.. The water polo match fell easy prey to the Columbia swimmers by a score of 26 to 2.

Had it not been for Leahrman, who was the star of the C. C. N. Y. team, City College would not have won a single event. Leahrman won both the 50-yard dash and the 220-yard dash in good time. In all the other events Columbia outclassed its rivals, and, besides taking four events, had men placed second and third in each of them.

Leahrman defeated Chrystal of Columbia in the 50-yard dash, with which the tank meet opened. He led from the start and won in 0:26 3-5. Rothschild of Columbia was third.

The C. C. N. Y. star followed this with an equally easy victory in the 220-yard dash when he defeated Shiff of Columbia, Bernard, also of Columbia, taking third place. The time for this event was 2:57. As in the first test, Leahrman led his rivals all the way.

Columbia took first and second in the dive, the victory going to Baldrock, with Slater second and Haas of C. C. N. Y., third. Columbia also took the plunge. Mahar captured the event with a distance of 75 feet, Iverson of Columbia being second and Thuore of C. C. N. Y. third.

The 100-yard dash fell easily to Eberhardt of Columbia, but C. C. N. Y. took second and third through the efforts of Murray and Levin. The final points were added to the score of the Blue and White in the relay which Columbia won with Chrystal, Bernard, Baldrock and Eberhardt. The time was 2:41.

In the water polo match Columbia held sway from the start and piled up a big lead without much opposition. Ornstein for C. C. N. Y. scored two goals from foul and accounted for the only points made by the losers.

The summaries:

LEO GIEBEL WINS SWIM.

New York A. C. Representative Takes 100-Yard A. A. U. Met. Title.

Leo Giebel of the New York A. C., National A. A. U. 500-yard champion swimmer, last night annexed the Metropolitan A. A. U. 100-yard title from a field of three rivals, after one of the keenest races of his career. The event was conducted in the pool of the City A. C. as part of the organization's first indoor swimming meet of the season. Two heats were necessary to decide the issue, when the first swim resulted in a dead heat between Giebel and Leeming Jelliffe, another wearer of the Mercury Foot. In the deciding heat Giebel swam to victory by a margin of about two feet in 59 seconds. Jelliffe finished second and Paul Chace, another New York A. C. swimmer, was third. K. Kahele of the Central Y. M. C. A., Brooklyn, was the other competitor, but failed to land a place.

Giebel and Jelliffe swam on practically even terms through the first race for the title. From start to finish they followed their separate lanes without either obtaining an appreciable advantage. In the last turn of the pool Giebel appeared slightly in front, but Leeming closed strongly and swam to the finish simultaneously with his clubmate. After a short rest the swimmers were again called to the starting mark and sent away on the quest for the title. This time Giebel was the stronger, and with a sustained closing burst annexed the championship by the small margin of two feet.

Clarence Ross, New York A. C., annexed the local junior 220-yard swimming title in another race, in which several prominent junior swimmers competed. Ross emerged with a victorious margin of about three yards on Victor Kiffe, Central Y. M. C. A., who finished second, a short distance in front of Henry Giebel, New York A. C. Ross registered 2:36 4-5 in annexing the junior furlong championship.

Stephen Ruddy added another individual triumph for the New York A. C. when he swam to victory from scratch in a 200-yard breast-stroke race, in which he showed the way to Norman Buck and Johnny Curran, clubmates, in 2:56.

60-Yard Swim, Novice—Won by G. Enander, Rutgers College Paul Dezell, New York A. C., Brooklyn, second; A. Truell, Central Y. M. C. A., Brooklyn, third. Time — 034 4-5.

220-Yard Swim (Metropolitan A. A. U. Men's Junior Championship)—Won by Clarence Ross, New York A. C.; Victor Kiffe, Central Y. M. C. A., Brooklyn, second; Henry Girbel, New York A. C., third. Time—2:36 4-5.

INVITES STEVENS TO PLAY.

Columbia Makes Overtures for 1921 Football Contest.

The old football rivalry between Columbia and Stevens, which was interrupted this Fall when the Hoboken engineers failed to get a place on the Columbia schedule, may be renewed on the gridiron next year. It was learned yesterday that the Columbia football management has sent an invitation to Stevens for a game on South Field next Fall, but no reply has yet been received. The date offered to the engineers was not mentioned.

Announcement was made yesterday of the draw and the handicaps for the national annual handicap tournament of the National Squash Tennis Association, which will start this afternoon on the courts of the Harvard Club. Three of the best players of the local clubs, including Livingston Platt, Thomas Coward and R. E. Fink, are handicapped at minus 5, while P. M. Morrison is rated at minus 4. TENNIS BOARD TO MEET.

Executive Committee of National Association in Session Today.

The Executive Committee of the United States Lawn Tennis Association will hold its annual meeting this afternoon at the Hotel Vanderbilt and will receive important special committee reports on the ranking of players, on proposed changes in the amateur rules and suggested modifications in the Davis Cup regulations. The place for holding the 1921 national championship tournament will also come in for consideration and the West Side Club at Forest Hills is likely to encounter spirited competition, especially from Philadelphia, for the privilege of playing host.

The report of the committee on the ranking of players will be submitted by Abraham Bassford Jr., that on amateur rules by George T. Adee, former President of the association, and that on the Davis Cup recommendations by Julian S. Myrick. The most interesting matter before the Amateur Rules Committee has been the proposal to end the practice of naming racquets after well-known players. The Davis Cup Committee has been considering possible modifications in the rules governing competition for the famous international trophy, which have been advocated by the French and British associations. A special committee report on standard balls will be submitted by Walter L. Pate. The recommendations of the various committees will receive final action at the annual meeting of the national association in February next.

COLUMBIA FIVE TO PLAY.

Blue and White Basketball Team Meets West Point Tonight.

Coach Joe Deering had all decks cleared last night for Columbia's first basketball game of the season this evening with West Point in the Morningside gymnasium. The game will be the cadets' sole appearance of the season in New York, and with the exception of the contest with the Navy at Annapolis will be their only game away from home this year. The battle will get under way at 8:15.

The Columbia line-up will probably have Captain Tynan and Pulleyn at forward, Watson at centre and Harris and Stutz at guard. Johnson, the negro forward, who will not be eligible until January, will be the only veteran from last year missing. Harris, the football quarterback, and Pulleyn, from last year's freshman quintet, are the new men in the line-up.

WEBSTER ELECTED CAPTAIN.

Halfback Will Lead Colgate's Varsity Football Team Next Fall.

Special to The New York Times.

HAMILTON, N. Y., Dec. 10.—Robert T. Webster of White Plains will lead the Colgate football team next Fall. He was elected captain by a unanimous vote at a meeting of this year's letter men this afternoon. Webster is a member of the class of 1921 and will play his fourth and last year next season on the Colgate varsity.

Webster's playing at halfback this Fall was equal to his remarkable work of 1917, and it was only because Colgate's team this year was not up to the standard of other Colgate teams that he was not mentioned for all-American honors.

GIPP CLINGS TO LIFE.

Good News Brightens Face of Injured Football Player.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Dec. 10.—George Gipp, All-American football player, clung desperately to the thread of life today and showed slight improvement, despite unfavorable reports which emanated from the sickroom twenty-four hours ago. Gipp's endurance baffles analysis.

His face brightened momentarily this morning when he was told of his selection on Camp's All-America eleven. "That's Jake," was his comment on the latest and greatest honor that has been bestowed upon him.

RIVALS BREAK AGAIN.

Dartmouth and Brown Unable to Arrange Football Game Next Fall.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Dec. 10.—The Dartmouth-Brown football rivalry, renewed several years ago after a ten-year break, will be interrupted again next season. Inability to agree on dates is said to be the reason why neither team could find a place for the other on its gridiron schedule of 1921.

HARVARD DOUBLE-HEADER.

Crimson Football Team to Play Two Games in One Day.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 10.—The Harvard football management has succeeded in carrying out its plan to find two colleges willing to participate in the first double-header ever played by a Crimson eleven. It was announced today that Harvard would play both Middlebury College and Boston University on Sept. 24 next.

College Indoor Track Title Not to Be Decided This Year

BOSTON, Dec. 10.—There will be no intercollegiate indoor track championship games this year, it was announced today. Cornell, Harvard, Princeton and Dartmouth opposed the plan to hold a title meeting this Winter and the Executive Committee of the I. C. A. A. A. A. decided to abandon it.

ATHLETES RESENT BLUE LAW ACTION

James E. Sullivan Officials' Club Denounces Religious Extremists.

The James E. Sullivan Officials' Club has taken a decided stand against the agitation of Sunday blue law advocates which would preclude athletic competitions on Sunday. Action which promises a campaign to counteract the propaganda of the religious extremists was taken when the organization, at its annual meeting in the Seventy-first Regiment Armory, adopted resolutions condemning the agitation and appointed a committee of three to map out a course of opposition. This committee will report back at the next meeting of the club, Jan. 13, and George P. Mathews was returned to the office of Vice President. Other officers re-elected were: Secretary-Treasurer, Charles A. Elbert; Corresponding Secretary, William J. Arenholz; Board of Governors, John J. Walsh and Jacob W. Stumpf. Richard F. Remer was elected to the Board of Governors to succeed John J. McHugh, who declined renomination because of the pressure of business.

In the course of the meeting McHugh addressed the members of the club on the duties of a starter and clerk of the course at athletic meets. The action of the National A. A. U. Convention at New Orleans last month in adopting resolutions of the Metropolitan A. A. U. defining legitimate high jump and banning the use of leather straps or other supports by shot-putters was also discussed. A plan looking to the provision of suitable borders for indoor track meets, and individual lanes wherever it is possible in board floor races up to 300 yards, were other matters discussed by the officials.

MAY LIMIT YALE TICKETS.

New Scheme of Distribution Planned for Next Harvard Game.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 10.—Alteration of the plan for distribution of Yale-Harvard football tickets at the game in the Bowl two years hence was forecast by H. F. Woodcock, manager of the Athletic Association, in a descriptive explanation of this Fall's difficulties, in the Yale Alumni Weekly today. Officially no idea has been entertained of an increase in price from $3 to $5, as report had it.

Next time it is probable that graduate applications will be limited to two tickets. As Yale graduates unable to attend freely loaned their names, hereafter they will be required to state specifically whether or not they will use the tickets personally.

One difficulty was caused "by the misuse of privileges on the part of graduates themselves," Mr. Woodcock says, who notes also that many whose applications were cut from three to two, and who wrote letters of complaint, "were as bitterly disappointed as those whose applications were entirely canceled."

FOLWELL SIGNS CONTRACT.

Navy Football Coach Puts Name to Agreement for 2 or 3 Years.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 10.—Bob Folwell, who succeeded Gilmour Doble as head coach of the Naval Academy football team, will continue in that position, having signed a contract offered him by the Navy Athletic Association. It will cover two or three years, at Folwell's option. So pleased were the academy authorities with Folwell's work during the season that he was offered a renewal of his contract prior to the Army game in New York and without reference to the outcome of that contest.

HARVARD TO MEET GEORGIA.

University Elevens Will Play at Stadium in Cambridge Oct. 15.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 10.—Announcement of a football game next Fall between the University of Georgia and Harvard, to be played at the stadium here on Oct. 15, was made tonight by Fred Moore, graduate manager of athletics. Negotiations for a game with Centre College to be played here on either Oct. 22 or 29 are still pending. Colgate or Penn State will be Harvard's opponent on the alternate date, it was said.

COLUMBIA MAT MEN ARE EASY WINNERS

Take Six of Seven Bouts in Dual Meet With Pratt Institute Grapplers.

The Pratt Institute wrestling team was no match for Columbia in a dual meet in the Columbia gymnasium last night. The Blue and White grapplers celebrated the opening of their season by capturing six out of the seven bouts and ending with the score 28 to 5 in their favor. Five of the six Columbia victories were gained through clean falls and the sixth triumph came by decision after Hayman of Columbia and McHale of Pratt had wrestled for ten minutes without a fall in the 125-pound class.

Bill Miller, second-string guard on the football team, made his début as a Columbia wrestler and suffered the only defeat that was marked up against the home team in the course of the evening. Miller encountered Perry of Pratt, in the unlimited division, and after 6 minutes and 15 seconds of grappling the Columbia heavyweight succumbed to a half nelson and a body hold.

The 145-pound tussle between Hart of Columbia and Rupprecht of the visitors was the fastest bout of the evening. The Columbia mat man was fast on his feet and was always on the aggressive against his opponent, who ran into a number of holds before he was finally thrown with a body hold and arm lock. Only one minute was required for the fall.

Captain Paull of Columbia needed only 2 minutes and 50 seconds to pin Smith of Pratt to the mat with a half nelson and body hold in the 175-pound class. Another short bout was that in the 135-pound class between Odum of Columbia and Bernhardt of Pratt, the former winning by a fall in 1:35.

115-Pound Class—Harner, Columbia, threw Brennan, Pratt, with an arm lock and head lock. Time—2:38.

125-Pound Class—Hayman, Columbia, won from McHale, Pratt, by decision. Time 9:00.

135-Pound Class—Odum, Columbia, threw Barnhardt, Pratt, with half nelson and body hold. Time—1:35.

145-Pound Class—Hart, Columbia, threw Rupprecht, Pratt, with body hold and arm lock. Time—1:00.

158-Pound Class—Kirkland, Columbia, threw Lichter, Pratt, with double arm lock. Time—7:50.

175-Pound Class—Paull, Columbia, threw Smith, Pratt, with half nelson and body hold. Time—2:50.

Unlimited Class—Perry, Pratt, threw Miller, Columbia, with half nelson and body hold. Time—6:15.

MIDDIES MAY ROW AT POUGHKEEPSIE

Navy to Give Serious Consideration to Matter of Entering Intercollegiate Regatta.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 10.—Although it is somewhat early to anticipate possibilities of the rowing season at Annapolis next Spring, there has been considerable talk in naval circles of chances of the midshipmen entering their crew in the Poughkeepsie regatta next June. There is no doubt that the local contingent would welcome the opportunity of participating in the big classic, especially since six of the eight oarsmen who won the world's championship at the Olympic Games will be available.

Commander Douglas L. Howard, Director of Athletics at the Academy, said today that the navy would give serious consideration to such a proposition.

It is regarded as reasonably certain that the middies would be permitted to enter in view of the fact that a new policy has been adopted, that of permitting athletes of the several branches to engage in at least one contests away from home.

Of the world's champion crew, Jacomini and Graves have been graduated.

WILLIAMS 1921 SCHEDULE.

To Meet Yale Instead of Harvard on Gridiron Next Year.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Dec. 10.—Williams will play Yale in football next year. The game takes the place of one with Harvard this past season. Middlebury returns to the Purple schedule after an absence of one year, while Bowdoin is a new comer to be faced. Rensselaer disappears after providing the opposition in the opening game for the past ten years, while Trinity will not be played again either. For the first time in twenty years or more Williams will close its season with Wesleyan instead of the annual game with Amherst.

The schedule: Oct. 1, Hamilton at Clinton; Oct. 8, Bowdoin at Williamstown; Oct. 15, Yale at New Haven; Oct. 22, Middlebury at Williamstown; Oct. 29, Columbia at New York; Nov. 5, University at Williamstown; Nov. 12, Amherst at Williamstown; Nov. 19, Wesleyan at Middletown.

WANTS NO TAX LEVY ON MORTGAGE INCOME

Conference in Bridgeport on Housing Asks for Appeal to Congress to Act.

UNTERMYER IS COMMENDED

Representatives of Various Interests Explain What They Are Doing to Relieve Shortage.

Special to The New York Times.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Dec. 10.—A resolution submitted by William G. Hanrahan of Newark calling upon the Directors of the National Housing Association to petition Congress to exempt from taxation all incomes derived from mortgage loans on real estate property was adopted at the conference here today over the vigorous protest of L. C. Harnich of Hartford. Half a dozen delegates dissented.

"Let it be clear," said Lawrence Veiller, Secretary of the association, "that this resolution represents nothing but the opinion of those assembled here. It is not the vote of the National Housing Association, and it does not bind the association to take any action whatever. Perhaps the directors will decide to reject the resolution entirely. The resolution calls upon the directors to petition Congress. It is realy a petition to the directors for a petition."

Resolutions endorsing Samuel Untermyer for his work in investigating building conditions in New York City were passed unanimously.

Edward A. MacDougall, President of the Queensboro Corporation, New York, told of the merits of co-operative apartments and said that to meet the housing shortage the Queensboro Corporation, owners of some fifty apartment buildings, presented what is known as the Jackson Heights plan of tenant-ownership. Some thirty apartment houses were offered to tenants on the co-operative basis, he said, and the success of the scheme was immediate. The outstanding points in favor of the plan, he declared, were increased interest in home owning, good home environment, reasonable rental, favorable terms for purchase and protection against increased rents.

The work of the building and loan associations, and the proposed Federal building loan bank system was discussed by Charles O'Connor Hennessey of New York, Chairman of the Federal Legislative Committee of the United States League of Building and Loan Associations.

"Basing an estimate upon the latest statistics of the associations," he said, "not less than $500,000,000 a year is now being invested by these associations for the purchase or erection of small dwelling houses. The type of citizen and the type of dwelling to which this great thrift agency is related may be inferred from the fact that the average loan negotiated through these associations is about $2,500."

Speaking of the proposed Federal Building Loan law, Mr. Hennessey said:

"Should the Calder-Nolan bill become law, it is believed that a Federal building loan bank will be quickly organized in each of the eleven districts provided for in the act by the building and loan associations of these districts, and that these banks would be quickly made a medium from which adequate capital would flow into the building and loan associations of the country for the satisfaction of the present enormous and unsatisfied demand for small dwelling house mortgages to provide homes for countless thousands of homeless Americans."

What insurance companies have done to assist in the building shortage was discussed by Walter Stabler, Controller of the Metropolitan Insurance Company. It was the former policy of his company, he said, only to make large loans, and that on first-class properties, but that policy, he declared, was materially changed when the country was faced with a home shortage.

The company, he said, felt that it was due to its policy holders, who must have been affected by the house shortage, to do something for them, as well as for the country at large. So the company modified its loan policy last June, and now making loans only on small homes and moderate priced apartments. The loans are based on a 50 per cent. valuation of the land and the construction.

Since last June the company, he said, made loans on 2,000 dwellings, amounting to from $8,000,000 to $10,000,000. Mr. Stabler said that, in his opinion, prices for building would recede shortly, but that they would never reach the pre-war level.

The Book The Kaiser Suppressed

BISMARCK'S MEMOIRS

A History-Making Revelation for Which the World Has Waited for Twenty Years.

Prince von BISMARCK at time of retirement.

Kaiser Wilhelm at time of accession.

For many years the third volume of the Memoirs of Prince Otto von Bismarck has lain, in printed form, by thousands, in the warehouse of its German publisher, withheld from the eyes of the world—suppressed by the former Kaiser for personal and political reasons that the then young Emperor considered of the highest importance.

Numerous efforts have been made to release the book, but as often, powerful interests, through court injunctions and otherwise, have kept its pages from public view. Only now, after more than twenty years of suppression, has the seal of mystery been broken.

This frantically guarded book is still unpublished, but a prominent German has read its pages and has written what the book contains.

Its story discloses that the Iron Chancellor, writing as an unwilling prophet, twenty years before the murders of Sarajevo, foresaw the world war and fixed the culpability on William II.; he considered the Russo-German treaty of supreme importance to the peace of not only Germany but of all Europe; he tells of bitter clashes with his power loving sovereign, of his numerous resignations and his final release from the high office conspicuously held for so many years, of his being put out of his palace by the Kaiser, who had turned against him, and he reveals secrets of Russian diplomacy that, in one instance, astounded the Kaiser himself.

Your first chance to learn the details of the book's suppression and the full story of what the book contains will be presented through the columns of

Losses Through Falling Prices Constitute a National Problem, Secretary Says.

BETTER CREDITS NEEDED

He Thinks Provision Should Be Made to Carry Over Surpluses to Leaner Years.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (Associated Press).—American farmers face a situation due to falling prices for farm products which should be dealt with as a national problem, Secretary Meredith declared in his first annual report made public today. On Nov. 1 prices were 33 per cent. below those prevailing at planting time, the Secretary of Agriculture said, adding:

"There is perhaps no single solution for the situation which the farmers are now facing, but there are many steps which can and should be taken to place our agriculture on a more satisfactory basis and to stabilize the business of farming, not in the interest of the farmers alone but in the interest of the nation as a whole. A sober national thought with regard to the importance, the absolute necessity, of a sustained agriculture in this country is imperative."

Several remedies were suggested, including extension of co-operative marketing and some means of aiding in carrying over to periods of low production the surplus of years of high production. The question of farm and personal credit must be given more favorable consideration, the Secretary declared, and ways be found to aid tenant farmers or men just embarking in the business of agriculture to establish themselves.

"The road between the producer and the consumer should be kept open and made shorter," the report said, to insure fair prices and that the consumer will be able to buy with only "reasonable" profits attached to the original selling price. Co-operative marketing undoubtedly affords an opportunity to shorten the channel between producer and consumer, the Secretary said, as well as opportunity to reduce the cost of production by use of Governmental information as to marketing, grading, &c.

The farmers of America "have again justified the faith of the nation to meet its requirements," Mr. Meredith declared, and have produced crops estimated to be worth $13,300,000,000 this year. The combined yield of the ten principal crops was 13 per cent. above the average for five years.

The corn crop of 3,199,000,000 bushels is unprecedented, representing about four-fifths of the world's production, the report said. The sweet potato crop of 106,000,000 bushels is far in excess of any other year except 1919, while the rice crop of 52,000,000 bushels is one-fourth greater than the largest crop ever before harvested. Tobacco production of 1,476,000,000 pounds, the sugar beet crop of 149,000,000 bushels and the potato crop of 421,000,000 bushels stand out as high marks, while the apple production of 236,000,000 bushels has been exceeded only once.

"It ought to be a fact," Mr. Meredith continued, "that when the farms of the country produce abundantly, the consuming public will be liberally supplied with food at reasonable prices, the farmer taking his profit because of large production and the consumer receiving his increment of benefit from having an adequate supply at a reasonable cost.

"In general we should expect it to be true that the farmer's condition is improved in direct proportion to the number of bushels of wheat or corn or the number of bales of cotton he produces. It frequently happens, however, that when all farmers have extraordinarily good crops during the same year low prices leave him worse off than he has been in other years with short crops and high prices."

This year, Mr. Meredith said, high prices for farm products continued until they were ready to sell, when the price reduction set in, covering everything the farmers had to sell and materially affecting nothing they were compelled to buy.

"The year's output, produced at an abnormally high cost," the Secretary added, "is worth at current prices $3,000,000,000 less than the smaller crop of 1919 and $1,000,000,000 less than the still smaller crop of 1918. The best estimate that can now be made indicates that the total value of animal products in 1920 is $8,757,000,000, or about $200,000,000 less than in 1919.

"There is probably no other industry or business that could suffer a similar experience and avoid insolvency."

Farm finance, he said, has become more and more involved until it ranks in importance with the financial problems of industry. In this, as in marketing, Mr. Meredith suggested expansion of the co-operative idea as likely to bring definite and tangible results of benefit to the farmer. The department is making a study with a view to applying the co-operative plan to farm mortgage and personal credit and farm insurance, the report added.

National thought will be directed to the problem of land ownership during the years immediately ahead, Mr. Meredith predicted. Causes and results of farm tenancy, he said, must be placed "squarely before the American people so that their importance may be recognized," since on the question of soil depletion and the serious effect is has on production depends largely the food supply of the future. He urged Congress to make available funds for exhaustive studies in this connection.

A Governmental study also should be made of the farm labor situation, Mr. Meredith said.

"Failure to recognize its complexity," he added, "has resulted in many unwise attempts to solve it."

The movement from the farm to the city constitutes "a real concern" in America, the report said.

If the increasing population is to be fed from available farm lands, efforts to reduce agricultural hazards must go forward vigorously, Mr. Meredith said. Among these hazards he enumerated plant diseases, insects, rodents and livestock diseases. Congress was urged to provide for wider investigation of these questions, the report asserting that they should be curbed as a national duty to ward off grievous situations in the annual food production in later years.

BELGIAN MINISTER RETURNS

Adriatic Passengers Detained Overnight Owing to Typhus Aboard.

The White Star liner Adriatic, which arrived in Quarantine at 4:15 yesterday afternoon from Southampton via Cherbourg, will go to her pier at the foot of West Nineteenth Street this morning. The delay was due to a suspected case of typhus in the ship's hospital and the Public Health Officer decided that he would have to make a blood test today.

Among the first cabin passengers were Baron Cartier de Marchienne, the Belgian Minister to the United States, who has returned from a few months' vacation with the Baroness, and P. A. S. Franklin, President of the International Mercantile Marine Company, 9 Broadway, who has been abroad on a brief visit to London and Paris in connection with the business of the company. Mr. Franklin expressed his strong belief in the necessity for economy in purchasing and operating ships and was optimistic about the outlook for the American mercantile marine in the coming year. In addition to her cabin passengers the Adriatic brought 1,254 in the steerage, who will have to spend the week-end on board the ship alongside the pier.

The Prussian Harvest.

Estimates on all the grain crops of Prussia from the harvests of 1920 are officially stated as 6,308,945 metric tons, compared with 7,089,837 in 1919. The decrease is almost wholly due to a Winter rye crop smaller by 688,041 tons.

URGE PROSECUTING FARM TOOL MAKERS

Federal Trade Commission Alleges Price Fixing by 200 Concerns.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Judicial proceedings against five organizations of farm implement manufacturers and dealers, and the reopening of the Government's anti-trust prosecution of the International Harvester Company were recommended to Congress today by the Federal Trade Commission.

The commission, in a special report to the Senate in response to a resolution ordering an inquiry, asserted that during 1916-18 inclusive, more than 200 concerns manufacturing farm implements had combined to fix prices "higher than the increased cost of manufacture and materials" and that the dealers co-operating had made local agreements supporting the practices, all of which the commission alleged to be in restraint of trade.

The International Harvester Company, the report said, did not "enter the association" activities relative to price fixing on harvesting machinery, but "did so enter as to other implements produced." Those against whom court proceedings were recommended are the National Implement and Vehicle Association, the Southern Association of Wagon Manufacturers, the Carriage Builders' National Association, all organizations of manufacturers; and the National Federation of Implement and Vehicle dealers, and the Eastern Federation of Farm Implement Dealers, retailers' associations.

The commission charged that the implement makers, partly as a result of the alleged combination, had increased their net income for 1918, 152 per cent. above the 1914 mark and profits on capital from 9 per cent. to 17.1 per cent., while dealers' prices had increased 62 per cent.

With regard to the reopening of the case against the International Harvester Company, the commission said this should be done "so that a plan of dissolution be arrived at that will restore competitive conditions in the harvesting machine business." Provision for reopening the case, the commission pointed out, was contained in the final decree entered by the Supreme Court.

"Under cover of bringing about uniform cost accounting, uniform term of sales, standardization of products," said the report, members of the associations named "after the armistice received assistance in maintaining prices from implement trade journals and the Agricultural Publishers' Association, an organization of farm papers."

The prices were fixed by "meetings, letters urging low price members to increase, exchange of price lists and complaints of price cutting" from both dealers and salesmen. Dealers notified manufacturers when other dealers did not co-operate.

Owing to increased prices of farm products during the period under consideration, the commission said, the practices charged in the implement trades did not reduce farmers' profits materially, but the opinion was expressed that they might do so during a period of falling prices.

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—The average profit of farm implement manufacturers during the six years' period from 1913 to 1919 was "little if any in excess of a reasonable profit," Cyrus H. McCormick, Chairman of the International Harvester Company's board of directors, said today in commenting on the Federal Trade Commission's report to the Senate. "The commission's figures on these profits greatly exceed the Harvester Company's net earnings as shown by its certified balance sheets," Mr. McCormick added.

"The Harvester Company can only repeat its previous denial of collusion with any competitor regarding prices," he added. "We contend that the commission has acted without warrant or justification in seeking to revive the Government's suit against the Harvester Company.

"As the record shows, the Federal Court's decree gave this company a definite period in which to make certain changes in its business. That period has not expired and there is no intimation that the company is not faithfully carrying out the terms of the decree."

TO CUT PREFERRED STOCK.

Corn Products Refining Co. Proposes to Retire 50,000 Shares.

The Directors of the Corn Products Refining Company have voted to retire 50,000 shares of preferred stock now held in the treasury of the company. This action will have to be ratified by stockholders at their next meeting.

E. T. Bedford, President of the company, in discussing affairs of the corporation, says:

"Business, of course, is dull, and it is true we propose to shut down our plants over the holidays, but that is not very unusual. Our cash reserve is ample for all requirements in spite of the fact that the company had made very large investments, not only with its own plants, but in the purchase of a number of plants in Europe, and has obtained large interests in others here which are producers of the company's supplies.

"The bonded indebtedness has been reduced from a maximum $15,000,000 to about $2,250,000. Of course our inventories were affected by great reductions in the price, but this has all been writen off and these losses are, comparatively speaking, small as compared to those of other industries of which I have knowledge.

"As to dividends, we expect to maintain from profits the dividends we are now paying. That, of course, means the extra dividend on the common stock in addition to the regular dividend of 4 per cent."

RATHBONE GOES TO HAVANA.

Confers With Cuban Minister on Duties as Financial Adviser.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Albert Rathbone, former Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, who was recently chosen to serve as financial adviser to the Cuban Government, left Washington today for Havana after conferences with the Cuban Minister. In Havana Mr. Rathbone will confer with President Menocal and other officials regarding plans for relieving the existing financial crisis, due primarily to the drop in sugar prices, and at the same time Cuba will try to evolve a system of permanent improvement of banking and financial conditions. It is possible that something similar to the Federal Reserve system may be considered.

"Cuba is fundamentally sound," Dr. Carlos Manuel de Cespedes, the Cuban Minister, said after his conference with Mr. Rathbone today. "The present financial crisis was brought about by speculators similar to those who have been active in some other countries. There may be difficulties for Cuba this year, but her best years are ahead. The United States, with its increasing population, will continue to demand larger and larger quantities of Cuban sugar at normal prices, and as the European countries re-establish themselves financially and economically they also will be larger markets for future supplies at prices which they can afford to pay under normal conditions."

AGED MEXICAN ENDS EXILE.

Former Chihuahua Governor, Aged 91, Is Returning Home.

EL PASO, Texas., Dec. 10.—After years of virtual exile, General Luis Terrazas, former Governor of Chihuahua, will go back to Mexico to spend the remainder of his life, he said today.

He is on his way to Chihuahua City from Los Angeles. His estate of nearly 5,000,000 acres of land has been returned to him. He is 91 years old.

ETHICS OF TRADE AND OF POLITICS

Senator Lenroot Declares the Former Should Be as Good as the Latter.

THEY USED TO BE BETTER

Says First Task of Government Is to Cut Expenses and Make Taxes Equitable.

Senator Irvine L. Lenroot of Wisconsin, before a luncheon meeting of the International Association of Garment Manufacturers convened at the Woldorf-Astoria Hotel yesterday, explained how far the Government was prepared to go in remedying business conditions and what business men themselves should do to help in overcoming their present troubles. His address was on the subject of "Confidence and Contracts," and he stressed the need of the former and a more principled regard of the latter. During the session of the association and its allied body, the National Association of Shirt Manufacturers, resolutions were passed binding the members to contract observance and adopting the program of uniform cost accounting prepared by a special committee. It was explained that in holding to the contracts they have made the members stand ready to shoulder heavy losses as a result of placing orders when prices were higher than they are today.

In reviewing the causes of the present business situation, Senator Lenroot placed much of the blame for inflated prices and their subsequent liquidation at the door of the American people themselves, who, he said, demand lower prices for everything they have to buy, but at the same time insist that high prices shall continue upon everything they have to sell.

"A grocer complains of the high price of clothes," he said, "but keeps up the price upon his wares. The clothing merchant complains of the high prices of groceries, but insists that the prices of clothes must not come down, at least not until his present stock is disposed of. Now, we cannot have high prices for what a man has to sell and low prices for what a man has to buy. What must be done is to frankly recognize that falling prices are here, and that, as men took their profits when prices went up, so must they take their losses now when prices come down."

The Senator then pointed to the need of confidence, which, he explained, was merely returning to the idea that a man must earn what he gets, that the days of great profits without rendering an equivalent in service are gone, and that it is good they are gone, for no real prosperity could exist under such conditions. Passing to the subject of business honesty, he said:

"We seem to be in an era of lawlessness and crime throughout the country. Never were the papers so full of accounts of crime. Never has obedience for law, contempt for legal obligation, seemed to be so slightly regarded. And this disregard for law, contempt for legal obligation, seems to have struck the business world with blighting force. I have been engaged in politics for more than twenty years. I used to say that we should demand the same standards of honesty in politics that business men demand in business. I cannot say that any more. Indeed, I could today almost plead with business men to have the same standards of honesty in business that politicians have in politics.

"Standards of business honesty must be restored. Business men must have confidence in the future and in each other and then with such aid as the Government can properly give, this distressing period will soon pass, and we may look forward to a long period of prosperity, with business men receiving a fair return for the services they render the public."

The speaker followed up this plea with an outline of what the Government was prepared to do for business. One of the first acts of the new administration after March 4, he said, would be to secure peace with Germany and to repeal the war powers of the President. Among the many perplexing problems facing Washington he put the reduction of Government expenditures and the imposition of more equitable taxes first. He expressed the conviction that the Government appropriations for next year could be cut a billion dollars in the succeeding year. Discussing tax reform measures, he said the rule to be followed should be to have every man contribute to the burdens of government according to his ability to pay.

"One of the great needs," the Senator declared, "is to do away as far as possible with the cumbersome and complicated system we now have and substitute for it one that is simple and certain."

The speaker characterized the excess profits tax as an injustice to the country at large, referring to many business men who are paying hundreds of thousands of dollars in excess profits taxes upon so-called profits, which, in actual inventory, are not profits but losses.

One of the first duties of the new Administration, Senator Lenroot explained, would be to establish a high protective tariff. He characterized Europe's indebtedness to the United States as a blessing in preventing monopolization by Europe of the world's resources. He cited the instance of European oil fields.

"If European nations," he said in conclusion, "have money enough to secure a monopoly of the world's resources they have money enough to pay the interest on their debts, and the United States need not allow such collusion on the part of any debtor nation which would plead inability to pay its just obligations while it tries to force the United States to take a place at the rear in the world's trade."

ASKS LIQUIDATION OF LOANS.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—A plea, but at the same time a veiled demand, that farmers and banks in the Middle West section start liquidating their loans was sent out today by the Chicago Federal Reserve Bank to the banks in the Seventh Federal Reserve District. The letter stated that complete liquidation is not sought, but only an immediate beginning.

The appeal is clearly aimed at Iowa, where the refusal of farmers to sell their crops and pay off loans at their banks has been marked. This has resulted in the Iowa banks borrowing more heavily from the Reserve institution than they should. The Reserve bank concisely states that the farmer must bear his share of declining prices and that other industries are feeling the effects of readustment just as keenly.

SINGER COMPANY EXPANDS.

Increases Capital Stock $30,000,000 and Declares 50% Stock Dividend.

The Singer Manufacturing Company has announced an increase in its capital stock from $60,000,000 to $90,000,000 and the declaration of a 50 per cent. stock dividend. In 1900 the company paid a stock dividend of 200 per cent., and in June, 1910, there was a stock dividend of 100 per cent. The present dividend will therefore make 350 per cent. that the company has paid in stock dividends.

In July, 1917, the company distributed to stockholders 1,500,000 shares of the Singer Manufacturing Company, Ltd., of Great Britain and Ireland, the shares being of £1 par value. The distribution amounted to about $12 a share on the Singer Manufacturing Company stock.

Developing Wool Hosiery.

Plans of wool hosiery manufacturers call for an elaboration of their designs for the coming Spring and Summer. The exploitation of such goods has met with so much success that the manufacturers see no reason why designs cannot be supplied that men and women will find attractive for use during warmer weather. Some of the latest offerings give evidence of a development along the line of fancier colors. The darker shades will be replaced with lighter effects, worked out in a number of fancy patterns. Many men and woman, it is explained, who once wear wool hose find it so comfortable that they prefer it to other kinds.

Coal Trade Conditions Better.

The situation in the local hard coal trade is steadily improving from the standpoint of the consumer of domestic sizes, Saward's Journal will say today, as well as of the conservative element among producers, who are anxious to see the trade get back to normal, so as to deprive the Government-control advocates of public support. Supply is overtaking demand at a rate which promises to turn a sellers' market into a buyers' market at no distant date, the exact time required being dependent on weather conditions. The decline in bituminous prices has not been entirely checked, but is becoming much more gradual.

Gray Goods Still Dragging.

Yesterday was another "draggy" day in the local market for gray goods. This was due in part to the unwillingness of many buyers to trade at all, and to a disposition on the part of some sellers to ask more for their goods than buyers wanted to pay. Business was done on 38½-inch 64-60s on Thursday, for instance, at 7¾ cents, but yesterday sellers were none too keen about accepting that figure. Big factors in the market were said to be holding out for 8 cents. Spot sales of 39-inch 68-72s were made at 9½ cents on goods manufactured in the East, and at 9¼ cents on Southern cloths of the same construction. For 5.50-yard sheetings buyers again paid 6¾ cents.

Alliance of Manufacturers.

With the news of the alliance of all needle workers, the proposal to unite the manufacturers of ready-to-wear in a similar organization has assumed new importance in the various trades. Some headway was made recently on this plan, but no organization resulted. The point was emphasized, too, in the discussion of the project that such an alliance would deal principally with mutual business problems rather than with labor matters. The union alliance, it is felt, may very probably result in a federation of the manufacturers as a means of protection, to deal not only with business, but with labor matters as well.

Now They Are Sorry.

Probably no industry has received a more severe setback from the present business depression than the furniture trade. Retail buyers, while understocked in very many cases, have simply stopped buying. Not being in a position at the moment to cut prices to permanently lower bases, practically all of the manufacturers have for the last several weeks been offering unusual discounts to stimulate business. Their efforts have failed, despite the fact that some of the more extreme discounts meant doing business at a loss. The real fly in the soup, however, is how they are going to get back to prices at which they can make a profit, having once cut them so radically by means of discounts.

Cost Finding and Sale Finding.

Cost finding methods are coming into an increased vogue, according to a manufacturer, but at present they take second place to what he described as "sale finding." He pointed out the uselessness of struggling with costs when the results simply went by the board in case competition had to be met. "All the studying of costs in the world," he said, "will not pull out the manufacturer who wants to make sales these days. It is, many times, a question of disregarding costs entirely in favor of the method of finding out what price will sell an article. That is the sale finding method as opposed to the cost finding system, and it is the method most in use at the present time."

Advises Trappers to "Lay Off."

Trappers of furs are advised, in a statement issued by Funsten Brothers & Co. of St. Louis, to abandon their work for this season if they want fair prices for their catch in the future. In part, the statement continues: "This is the best advice that we can give you today. Skip this fur season, and we are confident prices on furs will come back and that next year you will get real value for your pelts and your labor. The prices of furs are very low, ridiculously low compared with last year. Dump a big catch of new furs on top of last year's catch, which fur dealers still have on hand, and we believe you will see still lower prices. And, what will be worse, you will probably break the fur market so badly that low prices will prevail for years to come."

Turn of the Year.

Great progress in the general business readjustment is expected with the developments following the turn of the year. Faith that liquidation during the coming six weeks will restore a measure of confidence now lacking is held not only by retailers, but by manufacturers and wholesalers as well. It is pointed out that there still remain large stocks of unliquidated merchandise, but, with prices brought down to levels at which the public will buy, the feeling is that increased consumption will take care of this surplus. Recent expressions of opinion from manufacturers in various lines is that the end of January will see stocks reduced to a normal condition, or one approaching normal, and from that time onward an improvement in the general situation.

Trying a New Way This Year.

One of the well-known hosiery manufacturing concerns is trying a new plan this year in connection with its annual closing down for inventory and repairs. Instead of closing the whole mill at once, which means leaving a large volume of merchandise in an unfinished state, one department at a time is to be closed as the work it has in hand is completed. The change is made on the ground that finishing the goods in work will not only give the concern a better statement for credit purposes, but that when the mill resumes work a considerable quantity of goods will be available for shipment without delay. When the mill is reopened the department first closed will be the first opened, the second closed the second opened, and so on. In this way each department will be kept busy from the start.

The Discount Dispute.

Although the conferences between retailers and garment wholesalers have so far resulted in no decision in the discount controversy, it is the opinion of participants that the matter will be so thoroughly threshed out as to make possible a clearer program for each group in the future. Various reports have been circulated concerning the proposals of the retail representatives. It is understood that they are not desirous of getting the large discounts frequently mentioned as their demands, but they do wish individual treatment of discounts instead of general discount agreements. The preference for individual discount arrangements is said to exist by reason of the more advantageous terms to be secured in that manner, as flexible discounts would allow larger purchases to be made on a more desirable basis.

THE WEEK'S PRICE TREND.

Declines in Cost of Foodstuffs Were a Marked Feature.

Not only were changes in wholesale prices, as reflected by Dun's list, fewer in number this week than for some time, but the excess of declines over advances, while still pronounced, was smaller than for several weeks. Only 90 of the more than 300 listed articles showed revision this week, and of these changes 73 were downward. Last week there were 92 declines in a total of 107 fluctuations. Numerous declines in foodstuffs prices supplied one of the few features of the current week's revisions.

The following table gives the prices quoted this week on standard commodities selected from the list mentioned above. They are corrected to yesterday, and with them are given comparative prices for this week and the corresponding week a year ago:

The changes in the foodstuffs, in which the declines outnumbered the advances by about four to one, were featured by some sharp fluctuations in dairy products. The greatest of these was a rise of 9 cents a dozen in the best Western eggs, which is up to the level at which they were held last year at this time. The fancy near-by variety, however, broke 5 cents a dozen during the week, but are still somewhat above the corresponding 1919 level. Butter makes the poorest showing when compared with last year, now being quoted 20½ cents a pound lower than in 1919. Four cents of this decline took place this week. State dairy stock dropped a cent a pound. The only change in cheese prices was a slight rise in the best quality listed.

In the provisions market here both Spring patent and Winter straight flour were higher, the former showing a rise of 75 cents a barrel and the latter an increase of 25 cents. Middle Western lard, hams and bacon were also lower here. The provisions market at Chicago showed only one advance, which took place in live beef. Live hogs and live sheep were lower, but mess pork and short ribs did not change.

Vegetables changes were few, but those shown were downward. Scotch peas were lower. Fancy apples dropped $1 a barrel. Changes in the dried fruits were missing. Raw sugar declined again this week, but there was no revision in the price of fine granulated. In the spices, cloves, nutmegs and black Singapore pepper were all cheaper. No. 7 Rio coffee dropped a little further, but No. 4 Santos did not change. In the tea list declines in low Japan and low Hyson contrasted with advances in fair Formosa and best Japan.

The revisions in the drugs, chemicals, dyestuffs and oils were again overwhelmingly in favor of the declines. Features were lacking. In the metals list the only strength was seen in the minor ones, such as electrolytic copper, lead, spelter and tin. All of the other changes were downward. The grains list contributed advances in corn, oats and rye and declines in wheat and malting barley. Declines in No. 1 kips and No. 1 calfskins were the only changes seen in the hides list, while the leathers showed only a drop in belting butts. Both Brazilian and Far Eastern rubbers were easier in price, and raw silks also were off somewhat. Miscellaneous revisions included a small advance in newsprint paper and declines in platinum, hemp, hops, B grade resin and dry white lead.

In the market for burlaps there was a further easing off of values, and the temporary recovery in cotton goods has been stopped, and prices again show signs of easing off generally. In certain specific instances they have already done so.

England's Trade With India.

In the first nine months of 1920 Great Britain's export of merchandise to India was £138,458,000, compared with £45,941,000 in the same months of 1919 and £52,933,000 in 1914. Her imports from India during the period were £91,753,000, as against £83,551,000 last year and £36,715,000 in 1914. It therefore appears that the period's "export excess" in England's trade with India, which was £16,218,000 in 1914, was turned in 1919 into an "import excess" of £37,610,000, but again reversed to an "export excess" of £46,705,000 in 1920. The course of Indian exchange, of silver exports to India and of the price of silver, has been largely governed by these changes.

The Barometer of Trade in Europe.

Production of pig iron in England in the first half of 1920 was 4,145,000 tons; in the same half of 1919 it was 3,954,000. Steel output rose from 4,264,000 in the one year to 4,877,000 in the other. Since Summer production of both iron and steel has fallen. Iron output was 752,400 tons in August and 533,200 in October, the reduction being continuous. Steel output rose from 789,900 tons in July to 884,700 in September, but fell to 554,300 in October.

WEBSTER IN D. & R. G. CASE.

Will Represent Stockholders in Appeal From Railroad's Sale.

The Stockholders' Protective Committee of the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad will be represented in St. Louis, Mo., by John L. Webster on Dec. 13, when an appeal from the refusal by the Western courts to postpone the sale of the road will be argued. The road was sold last month to satisfy a judgment obtained by the Equitable Trust Company for Western Pacific bondholders, a Western Pacific representative obtaining it for $5,000,000. If the appeal is not recognized the sale will probably be confirmed by the Western courts.

Jefferson M. Levy, Chairman of the committee, said yesterday that a recent opinion in the local Federal court whereby the sale of property of a local traction company was postponed because of depressed financial conditions should have an important bearing on the St. Louis argument. The committee is continuing its campaign for the active support of all Denver & Rio Grande stockholders.

Trade O. K., Say Dry Goods Retailers

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—Marshall Field & Co., in their weekly review of the wholesale dry goods trade, say:

"Current wholesale distribution of dry goods was not as large in volume as during the corresponding period of last year. Orders from salesmen on the road were less than for the same week a year ago. There were more customers in market, however, and they report generally an excellent retail business. Collections were not up to the standard of the same week a year ago."

The New England States had 37; Middle, 96; Western, 64; Southern, 82; Northwestern, 33; Far Western, 25. Canada had 43, against 27 for the previous week. Another Break in Stocks With Partial Recovery — Silver Declines Still Further.

During the greater part of yesterday's business the stock market was extremely weak, with declines ranging from 2 to 5 points in the more active industrial shares and with considerable declines in the railway shares also. There were evidences of liquidation, forced or otherwise, in many quarters of the market; for a time the atmosphere of Wall Street gloom and despondency was marked. Several of the industrial stocks, among them Baldwin Locomotive and United States Steel, went to lower prices than any hitherto reached this year. An hour or so before the market closed, however, sudden buying of the weakest stocks caused an abrupt turn in prices; which closed steadier, with net losses irregularly distributed but much smaller than the day's extreme declines.

The buying orders appeared to come mostly from previous professional sellers for the decline, whose covering purchases were naturally followed by purchases for a "turn" on the side of rising prices by other speculators. The recovery seemed to be in the nature of an adjustment of speculative positions as the week-end approached; a familiar incident of markets whose swing has been rapid in either direction. Stock Exchange call money rates did not vary from the 7 per cent. basis.

Nothing in the day's actual news had any visible connection with the market's action. On the Stock Exchange, as in the grain market (where wheat sold at one time 6¾ cents below Thursday's closing and 20 cents a bushel under Monday's high price) an effort was made to exploit as something sensational a statement by the Chicago Reserve Bank concerning the necessity of liquidating loans of the country banks. Such a statement could hardly impart any new view of the situation to people who were aware, as most people must by this time be, of the condition in which the loan accounts of many such institutions have been placed. In the Northwest the Dakota experiment with pet banks fostered by the Farmers' League, and in the South the midsummer madness over 40-cent cotton on top of a 12,000,000 bale crop, prepared the stage quite openly for what happened when the great decline in prices followed. The resultant situation is not pleasant, but it embodies one of those lessons which has to be learned before an utterly abnormal condition of trade and industry can revert to normal.

It could hardly be said that the November decrease of 815,371 tons, shown by the United States Steel Corporation's monthly unfilled-order statement was a cause for the day's weakness. The stock market's recovery came shortly after the publication of these figures; which, moreover, merely fulfilled the steel trade's expectations. The decrease in orders on hand was much the largest that has occurred in any month since October of 1917, and, except for that one month, it is the largest monthly reduction since the war began. This means that shipments against old orders have been in steady progress while the placing of new orders has fallen to far smaller proportions than before. It is precisely what happens in any sudden check to the industry, coming in immediate sequence to active trade and large production. The real bearing of the Steel Corporation's order-book results is on the attitude of the other steel producers who have endeavored to hold up prices, even at the expense of future business, on the theory that it would be more profitable to keep to existing specifications on orders procured at higher prices and let the future care for itself. The Corporation's tonnage figures suggest that such old orders must be running off pretty rapidly elsewhere.

Foreign exchange was for the most part steady, though with irregular changes. The fall in quotations for exchange on Greece continued, but the market was almost entirely nominal. It is in fact not easy to see how any one can trade freely in drafts on Greek banks when economic embargo by the League of Nations remains a possible reply to the Greek people's own particular exhibition of reaction from war enthusiasms. Silver bullion broke again, falling ⅞ penny at London and 1⅛ cents at New York. Yesterday's London price was the lowest since June of 1917.

MONEY.

FRIDAY, DEC. 10.

There was no change in the rate for demand funds on the Stock Exchange Friday, 7 per cent. ruling. New business was of small proportions. In time money, there was a marking down in the rates as an evidence of the ease in money for fixed periods. On mixed collateral, 60 to 90 days, 7½@7¾ per cent. was quoted, for 4 and 5 months 7¼@7½, and on 6 months 7@7½ per cent. On all industrials, 60 to 90 days, 7½@7¾; 4 and 5 months 7¼@7½, and on 6 months 7@7½. Money for fixed periods has been quoted nominally 7½ per cent. bid, but with the lowering of the bid and offering Friday some sign of the expected ease in money is seen. Prime merchants' paper still discounts at 7¾ per cent. with 8 per cent. on others. Country bankers are the principal buyers.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

Irregular Fluctuations in European Rates—Sterling Closes Slightly Higher, Francs Lower.

Rates of exchange on Europe advanced in yesterday's early market, with sterling at one time 1¼ cent above Thursday's closing; but subsequent reaction left the market with irregular net changes for the day. Rates on London, Amsterdam and Madrid closed quotably higher; on Paris and Rome they were lower. Greek exchange was weak again with trading purely nominal. Argentine rates were slightly better, as were rates on Canada. Brazil was a fraction lower.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Weakness in Stock Market.

Those who were strong in the belief that heavy liquidation in the stock market had passed some days ago suffered something of a shock yesterday morning when selling in large volume was renewed and prices broke sharply even in the old-line issues. Not only the industrials, but the rails as well, were included in the decline, which carried through until about noon before there was any rally. Much of the selling, it was reported, came from the interior. There was nothing of particular moment in the news to account for the display other than those factors which all along have been making for the decline. It would appear, however, that there are still numerous weak accounts as a carry-over from the liquidation which has gone before, and this stock is now coming on the market. The atmosphere in the commission houses was decidedly blue during the first part of the day, people being clustered around the tickers with a look on their faces that betrayed the keenest anxiety. There was a sigh of relief when prices turned upward about midday, but this rally was succeeded by another wave of selling. The final hour, however, saw a substantial rally, but of proportions insufficient to wipe out the losses incurred earlier, and the majority of issues were ranged behind minus signs.

Many New Lows.

In a number of issues new low points for the year were recorded. For the most part such instances came in the industrial group, but there was pronounced weakness in some of the rails, especially the low-priced shares which were in the speculative limelight several months ago, when it was expected that the Transportation act would be a boon to this class of securities. Some are now back at their starting point, and several yesterday went below the low point of the year made last Winter.

Selling to Establish Losses.

Rather much is being made in some quarters of selling to establish losses for the purposes of income tax returns. It is propable that there is some selling of this sort, but it borders on the ridiculous to attribute the major portion of recent selling to this cause.

United States Steel.

After a dip to 79¼, the lowest price of the year, United States Steel rallied and closed at the high for the day. Steel common has shown decided resistance to pressure around 80. So pronounced has this been that the rumor is about that the Steel Corporation is buying stock on all recessions for the purpose of the annual stock offering to employes. Details as to the offering this year will probably be forthcoming before long. By some it is estimated that the subscription will require as much as 175,000 shares.

Money Still Firm.

Call money again ruled at 7 per cent. throughout the day, making the eighth consecutive business day for this one figure. In time money there was a slightly easier tone in rates, but no change in conditions, and among bankers and money brokers there were nearly as many conflicting opinions as to the state of affairs and the outlook, near and remote, as there were bankers and money brokers. Boiled down, however, most of them look for some stringency next week, but for the period after that they differ decidedly. Some hold that the payment of Treasury certificates in amount greater than that of the new issue will ease matters for a few days at least, but the others shake their heads, mumble about the tax payments, and insist they see no hope for any improvement at all.

Those Tax Payments.

At least one banker takes the tax due date and the entanglements which it may bring with it philosophically. He thinks the probability of trouble infinitely less than the possibility. His argument is that a good many people can default their taxes—temporarily, of course—without occasioning any trouble, for, he says, the process of Government collection of defaulted taxes is likely to be so slow that long before it has run its course the defaulted taxes will have been financed, raised and paid.

Banks Going Up Town.

Shortly after the first of the year it is likely that several of the big downtown national banks will come into possession of uptown branches. This may be accomplished in one of two ways: by acquiring a State bank, or, what is somewhat more remote at the moment, an amendment to the National Banking act which will permit national banks to maintain domestic branches. At least one Congressman is understood to have a bill prepared which provides for this amendment, and it is thought probable that as it has been demonstrated that national banks can get around the provision designed to prevent domestic branches the national law will be changed.

The Acceptance Market.

The market for prime bankers' acceptances is now definitely back on the old basis of 6⅛@6¼ per cent. The change which was made to 6¼@6⅜ per cent. a week or ten days ago was generally abandoned after a few days' trial, but some of the dealers continued to hold out against the higher figures until yesterday. Now, it is said, practically all of the business is moving at the higher levels, although in exceptional cases the lower rates still are being quoted.

The New England Situation.

That it cost the New England railroads a good deal more than $1 to do a dollar's worth of business in the month of October is indicated in earnings reports of the carriers in that district. These show that there was an operating deficit of more than $300,000 for the month and is particularly significant in view of the recent request of the New England railroad presidents before the Interstate Commerce Commission for a division of through rates with the trunk line railroads. While no formal statement has been made following the recent conferences which the New England executives have had both between themselves and with some of the trunk line officials, it is expected that when the matter is again referred to the Interstate Commerce Commission later this month some interesting and helpful suggestions may be made.

Analyzing the S. P. Plan.

Some interesting digests of the Southern Pacific plan for a separation of its railroad and oil properties have been prepared in the financial district. Some of them presume that the oil lands and stocks which are being transferred to S. P. stockholders were carried on the books of the company at roughly $43,000,000, the amount the stockholders will pay for them, and that these properties could not be given outright to stockholders without reducing the outstanding capital. At the same time it is suggested that the plan provides just so much new capital which in these days of new capital costs will be obtained cheaply. It is also presumed that these funds will be used by the road on additions and betterments. It seems to be the growing sentiment that the S. P. convertible 5 per cent. bonds should be exchanged for stock as rights will cease to exist on the date set in the plan for conversion into stock.

The Mexican Railroad Car Agreement.

While it appears that the railroads of the United States have agreed through the American Railway Association to accept $300,000 from the Mexican Railroad Administration for American freight cars which have been destroyed in Mexico during the revolution, the question has been raised as to whether the Director General of Railroads in that country will be willing to sign the agreement which has been forwarded to him. This calls for the payment of the above amount in three quarterly instalments following an initial 25 per cent. to be paid thirty days after the date upon which the agreement is signed. It also carries some provisions which may not meet with the approval of the Mexican authorities, although it is understood that they are familiar with its contents. If the payments are made and the agreement lived up to it will be possible for shippers to send goods into that country in American cars without having to place a bond of $2,000 on each car.

$25,901,000 ASKED TO EXTEND SUBWAYS

Delaney Requests Bond Issue for Additional Work on I. R. T. and B. R. T. Lines.

LIBRARY STATION PLANNED

Board of Estimate Approves Contracts for Snow Removal.

Application was made to the Board of Estimate yesterday by John H. Delaney, Transit Construction Commissioner, for an issue of city bonds of $25,901,000 to carry on construction upon the city owned rapid transit lines next year. The application was referred to the Committee on Finance and Budget.

Commissioner Delaney asked the board to set aside $11,053,500 for construction on routes operated by the Interborough Rapid Transit Company under terms of Contract No. 3 and $14,103,500 for work on the lines of the New York Municipal Railway, a subsidiary of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, under Contract No. 4. He also asked an allowance of $825,000 for additions to the original subway, operated by the Interborough.

According to the schedules filed by Commissioner Delaney, the work to be done on Interborough lines includes the extension of the so-called Steinway tunnel route from Queens, which now ends at Lexington Avenue and Forty-second Street, to Forty-first Street west of Seventh Avenue. The cost is estimated at approximately $4,300,000, including a station in front of the New York Public Library, west of Fifth Avenue, and a station in Forty-first Street extending from Broadway to beyond Seventh Avenue. The latter station will connect with the Times Square express stations of the Interborough and Brooklyn Rapid Transit subway lines.

The Board of Estimate retired Charles D. Olendorf, Assistant Corporation Counsel, upon an allowance of $4,509.90, and Nelson P. Lewis, Chief Engineer of the Board of Estimate, upon an allowance of $5,840.52. Mr. Lewis entered the employ of the city on July 1, 1884, and Mr. Olendorf on July 1, 1889.

With F. H. LaGuardia, President of the Board of Aldermen, dissenting and with Henry H. Curran, Borough President of Manhattan, not voting, the board approved the contracts for snow removal in the second and third districts of Manhattan and for the Bronx and Brooklyn. The city will use its own machinery and forces in the first district of Manhattan, which is south of Fourteenth Street.

HOPES FOR TRADE REVIVAL.

Dun's Sees Encouraging Indications —No Change, Says Bradstreet.

Hopes for some revival in business after the turn of the year are expressed in Dun's Review for the week. Bradstreet's says that, aside from some improvement in retail trade, the situation is not materially changed from that of the preceding week. There has been a further appreciation of the lack of buying power resulting from unemployment in industrial centres, while wholesale trade continues to reflect only emergency and hand-to-mouth purchasing.

Dun's Review says:

"While a general turn for the better in business is still delayed, expressions of confidence are rather more numerous. Inasmuch as sentiment is an important factor in any commercial movement, the improved feeling manifest in various quarters is obviously an encouraging indication. With the progress of the economic readjustment, the future is being viewed with less apprehension and hopes of some revival after the end of the year are growing stronger. At the present period, when annual accounting requires attention, activity in other than retail lines is not ordinarily witnessed, and there is special cause now for quietness in primary branches. Such a situation in the latter field reflects the restriction of demands from retailers, and the rate of output continues to recede as contracts on the books of producers are worked off and are not replaced by new orders."

Bradstreet's says:

"Aside from a slightly larger volume of trade doing at retail, reflected in some reordering from jobbers to fill depleted stocks, the general distributive trade situation is not materially different from a week ago. Indeed, big wholesale trade is a shade quieter and industry has slackened with unemployment increased and more wage reductions announced. In wholesale lines the general disposition, aside from the natural desire to clean up surplus stocks, is to await the turn of the year and the results of retail distribution in the next two weeks for a clearer view of the entire situation. Retail trade itself is not unvaryingly brisk; it is reported good at only two out of forty markets and fair at a majority of the others."

BRITAIN REPAYING SILVER.

Will Settle Indian Debt of $122,000,000 by 1924.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Under an agreement with the British Government the debt of $122,000,000 due this country for silver purchased during the war will be paid by 1924, according to details of the plan made public today by Secretary Houston.

During the war the Treasury arranged to sell to the British Government bullion obtained from melting silver dollars at the rate of $1 an ounce, in conformity with the Pittman act, to relieve the silver shortage in India. Of the $122,017,633 owed the United States for purchases of silver, $17,633 has been paid with interest.

The remaining $122,000,000, the Secretary said, is to be paid in equal annual installments in the years from 1921 to 1924, in the proportions of 60 per cent. on April 15 and 40 per cent. on May 15 of each year, with accrued interest at 5 per cent. from April 15, 1919.

Until payment in full of the principal with interest, the Secretary added, the British Government will permit the Treasury to make tenders to purchase rupee credits offered by the Indian Government on the same terms with British nationals.

WILLARD SAYS ROADS NEED BILLION A YEAR

CHEAP RATES A DETRIMENT

Higher Charges Mean Better Service to Public, He Says—Good Credit Needed.

Anticipating a sturdy growth of business in this country, Daniel E. Willard told the Association of Life Insurance Presidents at their annual convention at the Hotel Astor yesterday that the railroads would need investment money at a rate greater than $1,000,000,000 a year to provide facilities for increased traffic. Mr. Willard is President of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad and unofficial spokesman for the railroads of the United States by reason of his position as Chairman of the Advisory Committee of Railway Executives.

"It is not likely," he said, "that the demand for rail transportation will materially lessen in the immediate future; on the contrary, it is as certain as anything can be that the demand will greatly increase."

Mr. Willard spoke with enthusiasm of the working of the main features of the Transportation act, and concluded his address by saying:

"Considered as a whole, I know of no industrial or gainful enterprise at the present time in whose securities one would be justified in feeling greater confidence as long-time investments than in the securities of the American railroads under a policy of regulation as outlined and provided in the Transportation act of 1920."

Need of Sufficient Revenue.

After contending that superior efficiency was achieved under private ownership, Mr. Willard's argument followed this line: That sufficient revenue was necessary to produce good service; that good service under an increased rate was cheaper to the public than poor service at a cheaper rate; that chaotic service played into the hands of profiteers. He illustrated this point as follows from the recent history of the coal situation:

"We have seen coal selling at prices from three to five times higher than normal, largely because the railroads were unable to transport the coal with promptness and reliability between the point where it could be produced in almost unlimited quantity to the point where it was required.

"When the railroads, however, became able to furnish a larger number of cars for coal loading, the production immediately increased. It is now running above 12,000,000 tons a week, or on the basis of 600,000,000 tons a year, an amount considerably in excess of the country's requirements.

"Coincident with the increased production, the excessive price at which coal has been selling in the cash market has fallen more than 50 per cent., regardless of the fact that during the same period freight rates have been increased 40 per cent."

To Show What is Best for Public.

The issue now facing the railroads, following the period of Government control and the return to private control under the Transportation act is to show that the interests of the public will be better served under private ownership.

After discussing the unification of the roads under private ownership to make it possible to wield them all, in case of need, as a single system serving the whole nation, he continued:

"It is doubly important that the railroads should have good credit; first, without credit they would be unable to provide adequate facilities with which to serve the public; and, second, without good credit the price which they would be obliged to pay for new capital, provided they were able to obtain it at all, would be greater than otherwise would be necessary. It is just as much in the public interest that the railroads should obtain their capital on favorable terms as it is that they should buy cars, locomotives, steel rails, or anything else on favorable terms and conditions."

Prime Need of the Present.

Representative Nicholas Longworth, who addressed the association, said that the prime need of the present day is thrift and economy and that it should be enforced "even brutally, if need be, in the affairs of the National Government."

"The incoming Congress," he added, "which I believe will be called into extra session almost immediately, will have as its first duty, if not substantial reduction, certainly the revision, modification and simplification of our present revenue system."

In his address of life insurance investments, President Haley Fiske of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company said:

"It is important to teach the working people that they are the capitalists and that attack on capital investments is an attack upon themselves. Overtaxation, confiscation, failure to help public utilities by refusing to permit adequate rates, is robbing them, not the rich. It is not the rich who own the steam railroads, the trolley lines, the public buildings, the telephones, the water supply, the sewerage systems; it is the poor and the people of moderate means whose savings are invested in these enterprises. The insurance companies' investments belong to these in a mass."

B. & M. DEFERS DIVIDEND.

Cannot Get Money Due From the Government, President Says.

BOSTON, Dec. 10.—Directors of the Boston & Maine Railroad today deferred action on the dividends of the various classes of first preferred stock which are due for payment Jan. 1. The dividends are cumulative.

President Hustis explained that this course was deemed advisable because of the inability of the company to obtain at this time money due from the Government. Unsatisfactory earnings during the two months following relinquishment of Government control also had an influence on the decision of the Directors.

Southern Asks to Issue Bonds.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—The Southern Railway Company asked permission of the Interstate Commerce Commission today to issue $5,900,000 of development and guarantee mortgage bonds at 4 per cent., payable April 1, 1956, to be pledged as security in part for a Government loan of $3,825,000 to be expended for equipment.

French Bank and the State.

Advances to the State for the war by the Bank of France remain by the last full report at the high figure of 26,600,000,000 francs, accounting in part for the 37,900,000,000 notes in circulation. A year ago these war advances footed up 26,100,000,000, but they have been increased and reduced in the interval.

HOLIDAY BONUSES ALLOTTED BY BANKS

Christmas Distributions Range From 5 to 25 Per Cent. of Workers' Salaries.

ONE WILL SHARE PROFITS

Chatham and Phenix, America, State and Cosmopolitan Announce Their Programs.

Bank employes throughout the city are beginning to receive their annual Christmas bonuses, according to several announcements made yesterday. These Christmas bonuses range in size from 5 per cent. to 25 per cent. of the annual salaries of employes and officers and may be expected from now until Christmas in increasing numbers.

The Board of Directors of the Bank of America yesterday approved a plan for the distribution of a part of its annual profits among employes. It calls for a distribution about Dec. 20 to all employes based on the excess of the year's operating profits after the deduction of a certain percentage on capital and surplus. The bonus to be received by employes will amount to approximately 12 per cent. of their annual compensation in 1920.

The Chatham and Phenix National Bank has announced that it will distribute to employes and officers as a Christmas present 25 per cent. of their annual compensation, while the bonus to be paid by the Cosmopolitan Bank will amount to 5 per cent.

The board of the State Bank has declared a Christmas bonus for all officers and employes and for officers and employes of the State Safe Deposit Company. The distributions will range from 15 to 25 per cent. of annual salaries, according to length of service with the companies.

STOCK DIVIDEND DUE TO SLOW COLLECTION

PRODUCTION COST DOUBLED

Chairman Bradley Tells of Present Inability of Farmers to Liquidate Their Debts.

Robert S. Bradley, Chairman of the Board of the American Agricultural Chemical Company, which on Thursday declared its quarterly dividend in common stock as compared with previous payments in cash, explains the reason for the action in a letter to stockholders. He tells of the difficulties which have beset the fertilizer industry and calls attention to the fact that collections maturing this Fall have been retarded because of the decline in the price of farm products and the efforts of farmers to hold crops.

"A large part of our notes and accounts receivable from Spring and Fall sales mature in the months of October to January, says Mr. Bradley, but owing to the inability or unwillingness of the farmers to liquidate their debts by the sale of their crops, we will be forced to grant further time on a considerable percentages of the receivables.

"Our cost of production has nearly doubled since 1914, while our sales for the fiscal year ended June 30 last were $10,000,000 in excess of those of the previous year and $20,000,000 greater than those of 1918. These factors, coupled with the financing of our materials and expenses for the coming Spring's trade, impose an unusual financial burden upon your company.

"Based on the opinions expressed by our local managers in all sections of the country and on our past experience, including the war depression of 1914, we have every reason to believe that our outstanding notes and accounts will be collected with interest, our actual losses since the organization of the company, in 1899, to June 30, 1920, having been less than one-half of 1 per cent.

"Owing to the above situation and in order to conserve the cash resources of the company, your Board of Directors, on the unanimous recommendation of the Finance Committee, has declared the current quarterly common stock dividend of 2 per cent. payable in the common stock of the company, in lieu of cash, as being the most conservative policy and for the best interests of the company and its stockholders. In this action we hope we shall receive the general approval of all stockholders, and beg to remind them that the book value of the outstanding common stock of the company on June 30, 1920, was $156 per share, while the quick assets of the company on that date exceeded its entire indebtedness, including its outstanding bonds and debentures, by over $25,000,000, leaving the capital assets of the company, real estate, plants, equipment, mining properties, &c., (including new plants under construction), valued at $52,680,150, which is several million dollars less than their present cost of replacement."

$50,000,000 ISSUE IN GOODYEAR PLAN

Tire and Rubber Co. Reorganization Reported Based on $100,000,000 Capitalization.

Additional details regarding plans for a reorganization of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company came to light yesterday. The plan, which will be voted upon by the stockholders on Dec. 24, it is understood, will call for the authorization of a mortgage or deed of trust to secure the payment of not to exceed $50,000,000, 8 per cent. bonds or notes which will be issued. Under the reorganization, it is reported, the company will have an authorized capital of $100,000,000 7 per cent. preferred stock, which will be exchanged share for share for present preferred and not to exceed 1,500,000 shares of common stock of no par value, which will be exchanged share for share for the present $100 par value common stock.

In a letter to stockholders President Seiberling says in part:

"Sales of the company falling $45,000,000 below the $250,000,000 which had been estimated for the 1920 fiscal year, and the necessity for carrying considerable raw material with the curtailment of banking credits, resulted in a strained financial condition. The company was unable to pay its merchandise creditors promptly, nor was it able to take care of its banking obligations.

"The company, however, has been able to arrange, through a banking syndicate, for temporary loans of $28,800,000, maturing Feb. 15, 1921. Negotiations are under way looking to an agreement in regard to a plan of permanent financing, and the sale of securities to be created and issued.

"Pending final agreement on such plan, however, it seems necessary to call a meeting of stockholders. Unless necessary action is taken by stockholders before the end of December, it will not be possible for the company to pay dividends accruing Jan. 1 on preferred stock. It is expected that before the date of the meeting final arrangements will have been made with bankers for a definite financing plan which will be presented to stockholders for approval."

D., L. & W. COAL CO. TO ADD TO CAPITAL

Stockholders to Vote Dec. 21 on Increase From $6,800,000 to $20,000,000.

PLAN FOR STOCK DIVIDEND

Proposal Said to Have No Connection With Segregation Program of Railroad Corporation.

Stockholders of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Coal Company have been notified that there will be a special meeting in Hoboken Dec. 21, when they will be asked to pass upon a resolution of the board which recommends an increase in capital stock from $6,800,000 to $20,000,000, $4,943,025 of the new stock to be issued to stockholders of record on that day as a 75 per cent. stock dividend.

The company is the sales concern which was organized in 1909 in compliance with the anti-trust law. Its stock was distributed to Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad Company stockholders as their equity in the new company. No corporate relation exists between the coal company and the railroad company, and it is understood that the 75 per cent. stock dividend which will be voted upon Dec. 21 has no connection with the segregation plan of the railroad company. The coal properties are still owned by the railroad company, the coal company handling the selling end of the business and buying its coal from the railroad company.

It is not expected that the coal company will be affected in the separation proceedings other than that a new contract will probably have to be made if the final plan calls for the formation of a new coal company to take over the properties now held by the railroad.

Until the courts in 1915 canceled the old contract between the coal sales company and the railroad company the latter received from the former 65 per cent. of the amount received for its output at tidewater. Under the present contract between the two companies the sales concern buys coal from the railroad according to prices which are established in the anthracite fields and on a par with purchases made by other sales companies in the same districts.

ELEVATOR INTERESTS KEEP CHICAGO WHEAT

Special to the New York Times.

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—Had it not been economic news of a depressing character wheat prices might have been higher today, but with rumors of financial difficulties abroad and at New York, combined with the break in stocks, cotton, silver and corn, there was a lack of confidence on the buying side, and net losses were 5⅜ to 6¼ cents, with March leading. Buying of December and selling of March by elevator interests who were changing over hedges, and of December here against sales at Winnipeg to close spreads, was responsible for the strength in the nearby delivery.

There was much news of a constructive character in wheat, but none in coarse grains. No. 3 northern Spring wheat from Minneapolis, which is being delivered on December contracts at 8 cents under the future, sold on track today at 4 and 6½ cents under, with milling sales of 120,000 bushels. Deliveries were 101,000 bushels.

Houses with seaboard connections bought December today, and the trade believes that the Spring wheat delivered may find its way for export all rail some time after navigation closes. There were inquiries here from the seaboard for Manitobas on an all rail basis at 35½ cents over March, but offers were limited. Hard Winters were 31 cents over bid.

Export sales of around 1,500,000 bushels of wheat, 300,000 of rye, 100,000 of corn and 50,000 of oats were taken as indicating that the rumors of financial difficulties abroad were not based on facts, and wheat prices were slightly higher than the official close. A few minutes after the bell tapped, No. 2 red sold on track at 34½ cents over December, the highest premium on the crop, and St. Louis reported outside mills good buyers there.

Selling of corn was mainly on a statement from the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago which indicated that a beginning of liquidation of loans by country banks was imperative, and the close was 3⅝ cents to 4⅝ cents lower. The trade construed this as indicating that the country would be forced to sell liberal amounts of cash corn, Nebraska offered round lots for immediate shipment. A larger export business could have been put through had the grain been available.

Foreign grain reports on the whole are decidedly bullish, and, should confirmation come of storm damage amounting to 20,000,000 bushels wheat in Australia, it would leave only 30,000,000 bushels unsold in that country, providing the United Kingdom has taken 50,000,000 bushels.

Fresh beef and pork are selling at the lowest prices since the war and demand for beef is considerably below normal.

Primary receipts of wheat were 1,185,000 bushels, against 1,184,000 a week ago and 910,000 last year; shipments of 558,000 bushels against 1,058,000 a week ago and 558,000 bushels last year.

Arrivals of corn were 473,000 bushels against 413,000 a week ago and 636,000 last year; shipments of 276,000 bushels against 312,000 a week ago, and 438,000 last year.

COTTON LIST CLOSES WITH SMALL GAINS

Rally Ends Dull Trading Day—Season's Exports Reach 2,000,000-Bale Mark.

The cotton market yesterday was very dull and without any apparent idea of where it was heading. In the early trading Wall Street and New Orleans buying lifted the list 20 to 25 points for all months other than December, which got up only 3 points at the day's best, and in the afternoon Southern selling took prices back until there were losses of 25 to 35 points in the active months. But before the close the list rallied again, mainly on evening-up operations, and the final quotations showed very small net changes. The day's net gains were from 1 point in December to 10 points in October.

Liverpool was quiet and irregular for futures, but spots there were strong, advancing 38 points to the basis of 11.42d. This fact was largely responsible for the early local buying, but the purchases of contracts in our market were not excessive and would have amounted to little if there had been any real opposition to the advance. In the same way, the afternoon selling which took the list down 45 to 50 points from the early highs was not aggressive and not in very great volume, but by that time the buying demand had been filled and there was no support.

This sort of market is, perhaps, natural after what has been gone through, and it seems likely that the fluctuations will continue within narrow ranges for a little while longer, or until some definite news development comes along to give the list a real trend.

Exports for the day amounted to 41,421 bales, making the full week's total 121,732 bales, as compared with 283,930 bales sent forward last week. Yesterday's exports lifted the total for the season to above 2,000,000 bales for the first time. The 2,000,000 bale mark was passed last year on Nov. 29.

COMMODITY PRICES

General Price Recession Affects All Commodities—Eggs, However, Score Another Gain.

There was a decidedly downward tendency to cash prices in the wholesale markets yesterday, all commodities with the exception of eggs showing recessions for the day. Wheat dropped 4½ cents, corn 4½ cents and oats 1⅛ cents per bushel, while flour receded 25 cents per barrel.

In the groceries and dairies coffee dropped ⅛ of a cent per pound, sugar was unchanged, likewise butter, but eggs advanced 2 cents per dozen to a high for the year.

In the provisions lard continued weak, dropping $5 cents per hundred pounds, but beef and pork were unchanged.

In the metals iron and steel were unchanged, but lead dropped 10 cents per hundred pounds, copper ¼ of a cent per pound, and tin 1 cent per pound.

Spot cotton and printcloths were unchanged over Thursday.

Following are the cash prices for the principal commodities in the wholesale market at the close of business Friday, a week before and a year ago:

BIG DROP IN STEEL UNFILLED TONNAGE

SLUMP IN NEW BUSINESS

Present Engagements, However, Would Keep Plants in Operation Until July.

Forward orders on the books of the United States Steel Corporation declined 815,371 tons during November, according to an announcement made yesterday. Unfilled tonnage as of Nov. 30 amounted to 9,021,481 tons, whereas on Oct. 31 the orders on hand amounted to 9,836,852 tons. The loss in orders was not unexpected, since it was reported that the corporation was operating at about 80 per cent. of capacity, and it was realized that new business was not flowing to the corporation at a rate sufficient to maintain this basis. Therefore there had to be a heavy cut into business already on the books.

Orders still to be filled are, however, far heavier than at this time a year ago. On Nov. 30, 1919, the unfilled tonnage amounted to 7,128,330 tons. On the basis of the current figures the Steel Corporation could operate at present capacity until about July, exclusive of new business. It was the opinion in Wall Street yesterday that even though there might be a greater slowing down in the steel business, the Steel Corporation would be in a position to continue operations on an extensive scale for a long period. The present unfilled tonnage is greater than in any of the prewar years, even though it is well removed from the peak of 12,183,083 tons reported in April of 1917.

The following table shows the unfilled tonnage figures by months for the last three years:

	1920.	1919.	1918.
March	9,892,075	5,430,572	9,056,404
April	10,359,747	4,800,685	8,741,882
May	10,940,466	4,282,310	8,377,623
July	11,118,468	5,578,661	8,883,801
August	10,805,038	6,109,103	8,759,042
September	10,374,804	6,284,638	8,297,905
October	9,836,852	6,472,668	8,353,293
November	9,021,481	7,128,330	8,124,663
December	......	8,265,366	7,379,152

The Steel Corporation, so far as can be learned, has not suffered heavily from cancellations. There was some evidence of this in the case of the automobile companies which canceled orders when business began to slow down, but as regards the total of forward business this was not large. Whatever cancellations there were in November, it is understood, applied to steel for delivery before the end of the year.

DENIES ITALY IS BOLSHEVIST

Prof. Vittoro Falorsi Addresses Business Men at Bankers' Club.

A group of business men met at the Bankers Club yesterday at the invitation of the Italian-America Society to discuss recent political and industrial developments in Italy. Professor Vittoro Falorsi, formerly attached to the Italian Embassy staff, who has just returned from Italy, was the principal speaker.

Professor Falorsi declared that the recent industrial disturbances in Northern Italy were not a blow at the private ownership of property, but merely the expression of the laborers' determination to have a larger share of profits and a voice in deciding working conditions. He denied that any of the disorders had a communal, socialistic or bolshevist tendency.

Thomas W. Lamont presided and among those present were Edward R. Stettinius, William Wellowes Morgan, Franklin Q. Brown, Walter E. Schnaring, Guy Emerson, G. W. Heath, Louis J. Scaramelli, Francis H. Markoe and Ubaldo Rochira.

SEAL SALE IN POST OFFICES.

Treasury Department Grants Privilege to Tuberculosis Society.

The United States Treasury Department has granted permission for the sale of 1920 Christmas seals of the New York Tuberculosis Association in the lobbies of local post offices. This is the first time in the history of the department that such permission has been given to any organization other than the Red Cross.

The intensive seal sale will close tonight, but the Christmas seals will be on sale throughout December at the headquarters of the association, 10 East Thirty-ninth Street, and in railway stations as well as local post offices.

Personal contributions totaling $5,000, sent this week to Dr. James Alexander Miller, President of the association, have brought the Christmas seal sales up to $47,555.95. Among the larger contributors not previously announced were Edward S. Harkness $1,000, Mrs. Stephen V. Harkness $500 and Mrs. E. H. Harriman $500.

CLEAR 2 OF MURDER CHARGES

Benner and Reidy Still Held in Waters and Barbor Homicides.

John Reidy, Roland Noak, Charles Benner and Edward Kohn, held since last Sunday in the investigation of the murders of Leeds Vaughn Waters in the Plymouth Hotel on Nov. 4, and Frank Barbor in Central Park, Nov. 23, were arraigned before Magistrate Bernard Douras in the West Side Court yesterday. At the request of Assistant District Attorney John Hennis, Kohn and Noak were cleared of the homicide charges, but Kohn was held as a material witness in connection with the crimes.

Benner and Reidy were held for examination next Tuesday. It is expected that the Grand Jury will bring in indictment against both men before that time. The Assistant District Attorney said that Benner will be charged with firing the shot which killed Barbor and Reidy with the murder of Waters.

BRING $2,000,000 SUGAR SUIT

Argentine Firm Charges That Boston Concern Refused Payment.

BOSTON, Dec. 10.—Suit to recover $2,150,000 from the E. R. Sherburne Company, sugar brokers of this city, was brought in the Federal Court today by Moss & Co. of the Argentine Republic, who allege that they shipped to the company 5,000 tons of white granulated sugar for which payment has been refused. An attachment amounting to $2,500,000 has been made upon the company's property by a United States Marshal.

The declaration filed by counsel for the Argentine concern asserts that it shipped the sugar in June and July in compliance with a contract and that demands for payment either in full or in part have been without result.

UPPER WEST SIDE APARTMENT SALES

MANHATTAN COLLEGE SELLS

Disposes of Vacant Corner Parcel on Old Broadway in the West Harlem Area.

Upper west side apartment deals proved the features of the realty market's activity yesterday. The largest transaction involved the purchase by an out-of-town investor of the two seven-story structures known as Sunderland and Norman Courts at 522 to 534 West 136th Street. They were sold by Leopold Weiss through Louis Block and Benjamin Lachowsky, as brokers. The buildings cover a frontage of 200 feet by a depth of 99.11 feet, being 175 feet east of Broadway and are opposite the grounds of the Hebrew Orphan Asylum. The houses are fully rented and the holding price of the property was reported as having been $500,000.

The five-story apartment building at 53 St. Nicholas Avenue, adjoining the southwest corner of 113th Street, has been sold by the Herzig Holding Company. The plot has a frontage of 31.7 feet by 107.3 and irregular in depth.

The five-story apartment at 90 West 103d Street, near Columbus Avenue, covering a lot 20 by 100.11 feet, was purchased by Daniel Flannery from Charles L. Hussman.

The property is opposite the Manhattan College grounds and has been owned by the institution for many years.

To Frederick Tanini Tagliavia:

The foregoing summons is served upon you by publication, pursuant to an order, a copy of which follows, of Hon. Henry D. Hotchkiss, a Justice of the Supreme Court of the State of New York, dated the 10th day of December, 1920, and filed with the complaint in the office of the Clerk of the County of New York, at the County Court House, in the Borough of Manhattan, City, County and State of New York.

JOHN H. HAZELTON, Attorney for Plaintiff. Office and P. O. Address, 220 Broadway, Borough of Manhattan, City of New York.

SUPREME COURT OF THE STATE OF New York, New York County.—FREDERICK KERR, plaintiff, against FREDERICK TANINI TAGLIAVIA, defendant.—Order.

Upon the summons and duly verified complaint herein, now presented to me, showing a sufficient cause of action against the defendant, Frederick Tanini Tagliavia, and the certificate of the Sheriff of the County of New York, attached thereto, dated this 10th day of December, 1920, and the annexed affidavit of John H. Hazelton, sworn to this 10th day of December, 1920, by which plaintiff has made proof, to my satisfaction, that the defendant is a resident of the State of New York, residing at 59 West 74th Street in the County and State of New York, but is absent from the State, and is of full age, and that an attempt was made to commence this action against the defendant, as required by Section 399 of the Code of Civil Procedure of the State of New York, before the expiration of the limitation applicable thereto as fixed by Sections 382 and 390a of said code and the limitation would have expired, within sixty days next preceding this application, if the time had not been extended by the attempt to commence this action, and that the plaintiff has been, and will be, unable, with due diligence, to make personal service on the said defendant, within this State, NOW, on motion of John H. Hazelton, attorney for the plaintiff, it is hereby ORDERED that service of the summons in the above-entitled action upon said defendant be made by publication thereof and of this order in two newspapers, namely, in The New York Law Journal and The New York Times, both published in said County, these newspapers seeming to me to be those most likely to give notice to the defendant, once a week for six successive weeks, this time seeming to me to be reasonable, the first of said publications to be made within 60 days after the expiration of the time limited for the actual commencement of the action, or, at the option of the plaintiff, by service of said summons, and a copy of said complaint and this order, without the State, upon the defendant, Frederick Tanini Tagliavia, personally.

That, on or before the day of the first publication, as aforesaid, the plaintiff deposit in the Post Office in the City of New York a copy of the summons and complaint hereto annexed, and of this order, contained in a securely closed post-paid wrapper, directed to said Frederick Tanini Tagliavia at said 59 West 74th Street, Borough of Manhattan, City and State of New York.

$1,500 MESSENGERS HELD UP IN CROWD

JEWELRY STORE IS ROBBED

Negroes Smash Window and Flee With Diamonds—Brooklyn Woman Catches Burglar.

The Police Department yesterday recorded these daylight crimes:

Two messengers blackjacked and robbed of $1,500 while hundreds of persons filled the streets at the noon luncheon hour.

The murder of a restaurant proprietor who was shot down by two men, both of whom escaped.

The theft of $2,500 worth of jewelry by three negroes who smashed a plate glass window and seized diamond bar-pins and rings.

Robbery of a cigar store in the Bronx by two armed men.

The attempted theft of a safe from a tailor shop interrupted by the arrival of a patrolman. The burglars escaped.

The Police Department also recorded:

The capture of a one-legged, one-eyed burglar by a woman.

Two Messengers Blackjacked.

The two messengers were carrying $1,500 in a brief case from the Mechanics and Metals National Bank, 20 Nassau Street, to their employers, C. C. Kerr & Co., 2 Rector Street, when blackjacked by two men at the Old Trinity Churchyard, Rector Street and Trinity Place.

The messengers, Alexander Buschka, 20, of 532 East 148th Street, and Antonio Recciardi, 16, of 719 East 219th Street, Bronx, told C. C. Kerr that the thief who seized the money ran into the B. R. T. subway at Rector Street. The woman ticket agent corroborated this. Other witnesses told of seeing a man dart back and forth across Trinity Place, holding a brief case. Their description agreed with the meagre one given by the messengers.

Mr. Kerr said the messengers were attacked so suddenly that they could not defend themselves or get a good view of their assailants.

The robbery took place at 12:45 o'clock when hundreds of men and women were out for luncheon, but the messengers said no one heeded their cries for aid.

Chase Follows Jewelry Robbery.

The jewelry store robbery took place at 8 o'clock, when one of three negroes threw a brick through the window of Charles Kahan's store at 203 West 125th Street. Hundreds of persons were in the street, but none attempted to interfere with the negroes until Irving Butler, a clerk in the store, started in pursuit. Then two posses of citizens took up the chase, shouting "Stop thief!"

As the clerk ran into the street he saw two negroes turn the corner into Seventh Avenue. He followed, but lost sight of them in the crowd.

Policeman Soloman of the West 123d Street Station was standing at Seventh Avenue and 125th Street when he heard the crash of glass, and seeing three negroes running up Seventh Avenue he pursued the tallest, who was in the lead. He was joined by fifty men and boys. The negro gained rapidly. Then the policeman fired a shot in the air and the fugitive slowed to a walk, and submitted to arrest at 127th Street.

In the meantime Butler, with another posse behind him, followed a second negro through 126th Street in the direction of Lenox Avenue. Just as the man was about to turn south in Lenox Avenue, Detective Prior joined in the chase, and when he threatened to shoot the negro surrendered.

Policeman Soloman's prisoner said he was George Harris, 19 years old, of 246 West 144th Street. The other said he was Lionel Francis, 19 years old, of 2,147 Seventh Avenue. Both denied they knew anything about the robbery. None of the jewelry was found on them. They were locked up, however, on charges of robbery.

Cigar Store Held Up.

Two gunmen entered the United cigar store at 2,685 Third Avenue, the Bronx, early in the morning and, after forcing Edward Estrok, the clerk, into the rear room, rifled the cash register of $150 and disappeared. Estrok later told detectives the men wore caps drawn down over their eyes.

Mrs. Gertrude Gallagher returned to her apartment on the second floor of 530 Kosciusko Street, Brooklyn, to find the door had been "jimmied" and the contents of the bureau in the front room strewn about the floor. She heard a noise in the bedroom, she later told Magistrate Short, in the Gates Avenue Court, and discovered a man hiding in the closet. She ran to the door and screamed, and then the man in the closet came out. She seized him, she said, although he struggled, but she got the better of him because he had but one leg.

Detective Murphy arrested the man on a charge of burglary. The prisoner told the Magistrate he was Joseph Fowler, 19 years old, a veteran of the war and residing at 19 Bayside Avenue. He said he lost his leg and the sight of his right eye in France. He was held for the Grand Jury.

Policeman Wagner of the Alexander Avenue Station saw two men lifting a safe into an automobile in the rear of the tailoring establishment of Richard Demilia, 538 Morris Avenue, the Bronx. He started to investigate and the men ran. He fired several shots, but they escaped. The safe contained $2.50. The automobile later was claimed by the owner of a garage at Park Avenue and 152d Street, who said two men borrowed it from him "to take a friend to the hospital."

Restaurant Owner Killed.

Two men walked into an Italian restaurant at 247 Elizabeth Street last night and killed the proprietor, Salvator Loraciano, 47 years old, and escaped before the arrival of a policeman. Loraciano, who lived with his wife and five children over the restaurant, was entertaining three friends at dinner in a room in back of the restaurant. He left them, saying he was going to count up the day's receipts, and walked to the cash register at the front of the room.

A few minutes later Mrs. Loraciano and the three friends heard three shots and rushed out in time to see two men running out of the door and west on Elizabeth Street. An ambulance surgeon who was called found the man had been shot in the left breast just over the heart and in the right shoulder and had been killed instantly. Mrs. Loraciano could give no reason for the murder. She said her husband had no enemies and was not connected with any of the other recent shootings on the east side.

Four Arrested at Stratford.

After an exciting chase, in which several shots were fired by two policemen, four youths were locked up at Stratford, Conn., yesterday on charges of carrying pistols, attempting to bribe the policemen who arrested them, and on suspicion of stealing an automobile.

Lucino Farina of Waterbury, Conn., was driving a truck at Stratford Centre at noon when he came across the four youths standing about the automobile. One of the youths walked up to him with a drawn pistol, he told the police, and ordered him to tow their automobile to Stratford. He demurred, whereupon the other three youths drew pistols. So he took the automobile in tow.

A farmer near by saw the incident and telephoned the police. Two policemen went to the scene on motorcycles. When the youths saw the officers, they fled to a near-by wood. The policemen followed, and, after they had fired several shots, captured the fleeing men.

The policemen said two youths pulled rolls of bills from their pockets and offered the money to them to be released. At Police Headquarters they said they were Charles Russo, Frank Eccobacci and Harry Rega of this city and Anthony Paoluccio of New Brighton, S. I. When Russo was searched several letters were found addressed to him at the penitentiary on Blackwell's Island. He admitted he had been released Thursday afternoon.

Three Robberies in Cedarhurst.

Residents of Cedarhurst, Queens, were excited last night over a series of burglaries. Robbers entered the home of U. L. Menhinick Wednesday night after they had killed his pet dog, and took jewelry and money amounting to $150. The same night they entered the home of Thomas Soper and obtained $125 in jewelry and $10 in cash, and the following night stole money and jewelry amounting to $50 from the home of C. P. Tuska.

Policeman Schwartz recovered a stolen car when at Bushwick Avenue and Ten Eyck Street he stopped a speeding chauffeur by firing two shots. The occupant of the car said he was Joseph Hambel, 18 years old, of 1,496 Greene Avenue. The automobile was the property of David Last of 335 South Fifth Street.

Miss Ida Bacon, 18 years old, a telephone operator, was sitting in the kitchen of her home at 412 Sussex Street, Paterson, N. J., yesterday afternoon when two youths entered, and after binding and gagging her with cords ransacked the house of jewelry and money amounting to $500.

POLICE VOTE DOWN ENRIGHT CANDIDATE

WILLIAM T. DAVIS DEFEATED

Rebuff to the Commissioner Kept Silent Several Days by His Followers.

A rift between Police Commissioner Enright and the Inspectors and Captains under him was revealed Tuesday night, when, at a secret meeting of the Police Inspectors and Captains' Association, at the Police Club, in Riverside Drive, Captain John D. Ormsby overwhelmingly defeated Acting Inspector William T. Davis for President of the organization.

Acting Inspector Davis was recognized as Commissioner Enright's selection to succeed Dominick Henry, now awaiting a hearing on his appeal from his sentence to four years for perjury growing out of affidavits against Assistant District Attorney James E. Smith.

In the days when Commissioner Enright was the President of the Lieutenants' Association Davis was Treasurer, and frequently was referred to as Enright's "right-hand man."

An effort had been made several weeks before election by the "Enright clique" to defer the annual election of officers until after the appeal on Henry's conviction had been decided, but this met with such strong opposition that the Police Commissioner's friends withdrew their proposal.

The news of the defeat of Enright's candidate was suppressed from the newspapers for several days by followers of the Commissioner.

The defeat of Inspector Davis was not the only instance in which higher police officers opposed Enright in their organizations. Last April the Commissioner addressed the Lieutenants' Association at a special meeting called to discuss police bills advocated by Enright, then before the Legislature. Lieutenant Thomas Cummings condemned the measures before the Commissioner, who is still a member of the organization; a vote was taken and the poll showed that Cummings was sustained by 200 to 50. Cummings was then on the staff of Chief Inspector Daly, now a Deputy Commissioner, but soon afterward was transferred to a desk in the Oak Street station.

Commissioner Enright refused to comment yesterday on denials by officials of burglary insurance companies of his statement that there had been less crime in the city in the last year than in any of the five preceding years. Asked if he intended to reply to the questions about his administration submitted by The Tribune, Mr. Enright said:

"Oh, I may find something to say about them when I have time to look into the matter."

Jerusalem, the Holy City

An interesting feature of this week's MID-WEEK PICTORIAL consists of seven new etchings portraying Jerusalem as it is today and some of its interesting features, also pictures of other cities in the Holy Land: Hebron, Tiberias, Nablus, Nazareth and Bethlehem. This forms an interesting collection of pictures etched in the soft tones of rotogravure, well worth preserving if not framing. There are 79 etchings in the same issue—world news—including a superb double page picture, ready for a frame, of the Landing of the Pilgrim Fathers. On news stands today, 10c.
